Dead Men's Propaganda Terhi Rantanen, 2024-05-07 In Dead Men's Propaganda: Ideology and Utopia in Comparative Communications Studies Terhi Rantanen investigates the shaping of early comparative communications research between the 1920s and 1950s notably the work of academics and men of practice in the United States Often neglected this intellectual thread is highly relevant to understanding the 21st century's challenges of war and rival streams of propaganda Borrowing her conceptual lenses from Karl Mannheim and Robert Merton Rantanen draws on detailed archival research and case studies to analyse the extent and importance of work outside and inside the academy illuminating the work of pioneers in the field Some of these were well known academics such as Harold Lasswell and the authors of the seminal book Four Theories of the Press Others operated in the world of news agencies such as Associated Press's Kent Cooper or were marginalised as migrant scholars notably Paul Kecskemeti and Nathan Leites Her study shows how comparative communications from its very beginning can be understood as governed by the Mannheimian concepts of ideology and utopia and the power play between them The close relationship between these two concepts resulted in a bias in knowledge production contributed to dominant narratives of generational conflicts and to the demarcation of Insiders and Outsiders By focusing on a generation at the forefront of comparative communications at this pivotal time in the 20th century this book challenges orthodoxies in the intellectual histories of communication studies of moral thought who has come to be associated with the idea of natural law it is Saint Thomas Aquinas Many things have been written about Aquinas s natural law teaching and from many different perspectives The aim of this book is to help see it from his own perspective That is why the focus is metaphysical Aquinas s whole moral doctrine is laden with metaphysics and his natural law teaching especially so because it is all about first principles The book centers on how Aquinas thinks the first principles of practical reason which for him are what make up natural law function as laws It is a controversial question and the book engages a variety of readers of Aquinas including Francisco Suarez Jacques Maritain prominent analytical philosophers Straussians and the initiators of the New Natural Law theory Among the issues addressed are the relation between natural law and natural inclination how far natural law depends on knowledge of human nature what its obligatory force consists in and above all how it is related to what for Aquinas is the first principle of all being the divine will
