Remodeling Home Care Meryl Beth Rappaport, 1997 Can Efficiency and Community Service Be Symbiotic? Sharyn Potter, 2018-10-24 In recent years researchers have asserted that the once salient distinctions between not for profit and for profit hospitals are quickly eroding These converging outcomes represent a striking departure from past differences Historically not for profit hospitals were larger and treated a higher proportion of seriously ill patients than for profit hospitals Not for profit hospitals also had larger medical staffs and offered greater opportunities for medical training Researchers have vigorously debated the implications of the fading distinction between for profit and not for profit hospitals As these researchers note numerous communities support not for profit hospitals with tax payer dollars income and property tax exclusions and tax free financing and contributions Many are concerned that not for profit hospitals will jettison community service in an attempt to reduce operating costs Despite such important implications this literature is full of philosophical discussions typically employing limited empirical data limited time frames and limited consideration of the hospital environment This limited consideration of environmental factors i e policy supply and demand leaves an important question unanswered How do environmental factors combine to produce the narrowing distinction between not for profit and for profit hospitals Potter's book examines the claims of a narrowing distinction between not for profit and for profit hospitals by analyzing short term general hospital outcomes in the 48 contiguous states over a fifteen year period in conjunction with various environmental factors In particular this book analyzes the claims of a declining distinction between hospital types by focusing on both hospital efficiency and community service outcomes It examines whether the efficiency and community service outcomes of not for profit and for profit hospitals have converged finding that hospital type was most significant in explaining the variance in hospital outcomes in the early 1980s than in the mid 1980s and early 1990s The story is quite different when we examine community service outcomes In particular Potter does not find evidence that hospitals are reducing their provision of community care in an effort to reduce expenses
