Rose, 2009-11-27 The romantic landscapes and exotic cultures of Arabia have long captured the interests of both academics and the general public alike The wide array and incredible variety of environments found across the Arabian peninsula are truly dramatic tropical coastal plains are found bordering up against barren sandy deserts high mountain plateaus are deeply incised by ancient river courses As the birthplace of Islam the recent history of the region is well documented and thoroughly studied However legendary explorers such as T E Lawrence Wilfred Thesiger and St John Philby discovered hints of a much deeper past during their travels across the subcontinent Drawn to Arabia by the magnificent solitude of its vast sand seas these intrepid adventurers learned from the Bedouin how to penetrate its deserts and returned with stirring accounts of lost civilizations among the wind swept dunes We now know that prior to recorded history Arabia housed countless peoples living a variety of lifestyles including some of the world's earliest pastoralists communities of incipient farmers fishermen dubbed the Ichthyophagi by ancient Greek geographers and Paleolithic big game hunters who were among the first humans to depart their ancestral homeland in Africa In fact some archaeological investigations indicate that Arabia was inhabited by early hominins extending far back into the Early Pleistocene perhaps even into the Late Pliocene

Experimental Determination of Stone Tool Uses Lawrence H. Keeley, 1980-03-15 A major problem confronting archeologists is how to determine the function of ancient stone tools In this important work Lawrence H Keeley reports on his own highly successful course of research into the uses of British Paleolithic flint implements His principal method of investigation known as microwear analysis was the microscopic examination of traces of use left on flint implements in the form of polishes striations and breakage patterns The most important discovery arising from Keeley's research was that at magnifications of 100x to 400x there was a high correlation between the detailed appearance of microwear polishes formed on tool edges and the general category of material worked by that edge For example different and distinctive types of microwear polish were formed during use on wood bone hide meat and soft plant material These correlations between microwear polish and worked material were independent of the method of use cutting sawing scraping and so on In combining evidence of polish type with other traces of use Keeley was able to make precise reconstructions of tool functions This book includes the results of a blind test of Keeley's functional interpretations which revealed remarkable agreement between the actual and inferred use of the tools tested Keeley applied his method of microwear analysis to artifacts from three excavation sites in Britain Clacton on the sea Swanscombe and Hoxne His research suggests new hypotheses concerning such Paleolithic problems as inter assemblage variability the function of Acheulean hand axes sidescrapers and chopper cores and points the way to future research in Stone Age studies
