Eleanor Reed, 2022-03-23 A unique intersection between periodical and literary scholarship and class and gender history this book showcases a brand new approach to surveying a popular domestic magazine Reading Woman's Weekly alongside titles including Good Housekeeping My Weekly Peg's Paper and Woman's Own and works by authors including Dot Allan E M Delafield George Orwell and J B Priestley it positions the publication within both the contemporary magazine market and the field of literature more broadly redrawing the parameters of that field as it approaches the domestic magazine as a literary genre in its own right Between 1918 and 1958 Woman's Weekly targeted a lower middle class readership broadly housewives and unmarried clerical workers on low incomes who viewed or aspired to view themselves as middle class Examining the magazine's distinctively lower middle class treatment of issues including the First World War's impact on gender the status of housewives and working women women's contribution to the Second World War effort and Britain's post war economic and social recovery this book supplies fresh and challenging insights into lower middle class culture during a period in which Britain's lower middle classes were gaining prominence and middle class lifestyles were undergoing rapid and radical change

Draznin, 2000-11-30 Through a detailed description of the life and activities of the middle class married woman of London between 1875 and 1900 this study reveals how housewives unwittingly became engines for change as the new century neared In marked contrast to the stereotypical depictions of Victorian women in
