The Making of a Physician Harry L. Graber, 2016 Both genetic and environmental factors play important roles in one's life. Genetics remains a fixed entity whereas environment is a variable. Environmental experiences in life can have a positive or negative influence upon the genetic makeup of a given individual. Decision making in the preschool environment is predominantly controlled by parents. Eventually the individual being influenced by the many past environmental factors becomes the responsible choice maker as to which path in life he/she wishes to travel. It is my belief that it is providential that one is given these experiences to aid in our decision making. This concept was supported by five of the physicians who shared their stories in chapter 10. All were greatly influenced by role models whom they encountered in their earlier life. This influence factor is not a single event but a continuum. This forms the basis of the concept that the making of a physician is not a one-time event but represents a continuum. For some of us becoming a physician was understood as a calling. The stories in this book were shared so that others may develop a greater appreciation of their own environmental experiences and consider them as influential factors in the decision making of their lives. It is also my hope that this book might be of positive help to the young person considering the medical profession as his or her vocation.

Oxford Textbook of Communication in Oncology and Palliative Care David William Kissane, Barry D. Bultz, Phyllis N. Butow, Carma L. Bylund, Susie Wilkinson, 2017 Communication is a core skill for medical professionals when treating patients. Cancer and palliative care present some of the most challenging clinical situations. This book provides evidence-based guidelines alongside case examples, tips, and strategies to achieve effective patient-centred communication.

Ethical and Legal Issues in Neurology James L. Bernat, Richard Beresford, 2014-01-09 Advances in our understanding of the brain and rapid advances in the medical practice of neurology are creating questions and concerns from an ethical and legal perspective. Ethical and Legal Issues in Neurology provides a detailed review of various general aspects of neuroethics and contains chapters dealing with a vast array of specific issues such as the role of religion, the ethics of invasive neuroscience research, and the impact of potential misconduct in neurologic practice. The book focuses particular attention on problems related to palliative care, euthanasia, dementia, and neurogenetic disorders and concludes with examinations of consciousness, personal identity, and the definition of death. This volume focuses on practices not only in North America but also in Europe and the developing world. It is a useful resource for all neuroscience and neurology professionals researchers students scholars practicing clinical neurologists mental health professionals and psychiatrists A comprehensive introduction and reference on neuroethics Includes coverage of how best to understand the ethics and legal aspects of dementia palliative care euthanasia and neurogenetic disorders Brings clarity to issues regarding ethics and legal responsibilities in the age of rapidly evolving brain science and related clinical practice Book on the Physician Himself and Things that Concern His Reputation and Success
