Periodicals, Readers and the Making of a Modern Literary Culture: Bengal at the Turn of the Twentieth Century Samarpita Mitra, 2020-06-15 In Periodicals Readers and the Making of a Modern Literary Culture Bengal at the Turn of the Twentieth Century Samarpita Mitra studies literary periodicals as a particular print form and reveals how their production and circulation were critical to the formation of a Bengali public sphere during the turn of the twentieth century. Given its polyphonic nature, capacity for sustaining debates and adaptability by readers with diverse reading competencies, periodicals became the preferred means for dispensing modern education and entertainment through the vernacular. The book interrogates some of the defining debates that shaped readers' perspectives on critical social issues and explains how literary culture was envisioned as an indicator of the emergent nation. Finally, it looks at the Bengali Muslim and women's periodicals and their readerships and argues that the presence of multiple literary voices makes it impossible to speak of Bengali literary culture in any singular terms.

American Literary Gazette and Publishers' Circular Charles R. Rode, 1863

The Time of Their Lives Al Silverman, 2008-09-16 The golden age of book publishing Al Silverman informs us with utter certainty began in 1946 and lasted into the late 1970s and early 1980s. In his intimate history of those years, Silverman sets out to prove this sweeping conceit by relying on the eyes and ears and memories of the men and women who were there creating that history. Without inhibition, more than 120 of the most notable heads of houses, editors and publishers of this time shared many never-before-told stories about how the most important books in postwar America came into being and are still being read today. In The Time of Their Lives, we learn how Robert Gottlieb worked with Joseph Heller to make Catch 18 as it was then called into the world-renowned Catch 22. Corlies Cork Smith took a risk on a shy young man he had never heard of, Thomas Pynchon, after being absorbed by one of his earliest short stories. Leona Nevler edited under delicate working conditions with a most difficult author to make Peyton Place, a novel for all generations. It was Arthur Thornhill Sr., in his years as president of Little Brown's grand publishing house, who said about the occupation he loved: "I wanted to be part of something that was good, his word for publishing in the golden age." In this fascinating and elegiac history, Al Silverman illuminates a period in publishing that was not only good but formed a distinguishing landmark of culture in American life, a golden time that certainly deserves a new life.

Jews and the Making of Modern German Theatre Jeanette R. Malkin, Freddie Rokem, 2010-04-15 While it is common knowledge that Jews were prominent in literature, music, cinema and science in pre-1933 Germany, the fascinating story of Jewish co-creation of modern German theatre is less often discussed. Yet for a brief time during the Second Reich and the Weimar Republic, Jewish artists and intellectuals moved away from a segregated Jewish theatre to work within canonic German theatre and performance venues, claiming the right to be part of the very fabric of German culture. Their involvement, especially in the theatre capital of Berlin, was of a major magnitude, both numerically and in terms of power and influence. The essays in this stimulating collection etch onto the conventional view of modern German theatre the history and conflicts of its Jewish participants in the last third of the nineteenth and first third of the twentieth centuries and illuminate the influence of Jewish ethnicity in the creation of the modernist German theatre
