Making Medical Decisions:

Making Medical Decisions Richard Gross, 1999 Never before have the powerful techniques of decision analysis had more importance for patient and doctor This book translates the major principles of medical decision making into clinically relevant and easy to understand terms Filled with examples drawn from patient care and familiar games of chance Making Medical Decisions teaches the reader how to feel confident about giving the best advice in the face of the inherent uncertainties of real world medicine

Making Medical Decisions for the Profoundly Mentally Disabled Norman L. Cantor, 2009-08-21 A legal and moral analysis of medical decision making on behalf of those with such severe cognitive impairments that they cannot exercise self determination In this book Norman Cantor analyzes the legal and moral status of people with profound mental disabilities those with extreme cognitive impairments that prevent their exercise of medical self determination He proposes a legal and moral framework for surrogate medical decision making on their behalf The issues Cantor explores will be of interest to professionals in law medicine psychology philosophy and ethics as well as to parents guardians and health care providers who face perplexing issues in the context of surrogate medical decision making The profoundly mentally disabled are thought by some moral philosophers to lack the minimum cognitive ability for personhood Countering this position Cantor advances both theoretical and practical arguments for according them full legal and moral status He also argues that the concept of intrinsic human dignity should have an integral role in shaping the bounds of surrogate decision making Thus he claims while profoundly mentally disabled persons are not entitled to make their own medical decisions respect for intrinsic human dignity dictates their right to have a conscientious surrogate make medical decisions on their behalf Cantor discusses the criteria that bind such surrogates He asserts contrary to popular wisdom that the best interests of the disabled person are not always the determinative standard the interests of family or others can sometimes be considered Surrogates may even consistent with the intrinsic human dignity standard sometimes authorize tissue donation or participation in nontherapeutic medical research by profoundly disabled persons Intrinsic human dignity limits the occasions for such decisions and dictates close attention to the preferences and feelings of the profoundly disabled persons themselves Cantor also analyzes the underlying philosophical rationale that makes these decision making criteria consistent with law and morals

Making Medical Spending Decisions Mark A. Hall, 1997 This book explores the making of health care rationing decisions through the analysis of three alternative decision makers patients paying out of pocket officials setting limits on treatments and coverage and physicians at the bedside Hall develops this analysis along three dimensions political economics ethics and law The economic dimension addresses the practical feasibility of each method The ethical dimension discusses the moral aspects of these methods while the legal dimension traces the most recent developments in jurisprudence and health law

Encyclopedia of Medical Decision Making Michael W. Kattan, 2009-08-15 Decision making is a critical element in the field of medicine that can lead to life or death outcomes yet it is an element fraught with complex and conflicting variables diagnostic and therapeutic uncertainties patient preferences and values and costs Together decisions made by physicians patients insurers and policymakers determine the quality of health care quality that depends inherently on counterbalancing risks and benefits and competing objectives such as maximizing life expectancy versus optimizing quality of life or quality of care versus economic realities Broadly speaking concepts in medical decision making MDM may be divided into two major categories prescriptive and descriptive Work in the area of prescriptive MDM investigates how medical decisions should be done using complicated analyses and algorithms to determine cost effectiveness measures prediction methods and so on In contrast descriptive MDM studies how decisions actually are made involving human judgment biases social influences patient factors and so on The Encyclopedia of Medical Decision Making gives a gentle introduction to both categories revealing how medical and healthcare decisions are actually made and constrained and how physician healthcare management and patient decision making can be improved to optimize health outcomes Key Features Discusses very general issues that span many aspects of MDM including bioethics health policy and economics disaster simulation modeling medical informatics the psychology of decision making shared and team medical decision making social moral and religious factors end of life decision making assessing patient preference and patient adherence and more Incorporates both quantity and quality of life in optimizing a medical decision Considers characteristics of the decisionmaker and how those characteristics influence their decisions Presents outcome measures to judge the quality or impact of a medical decision Examines some of the more commonly encountered biostatistical methods used in prescriptive decision making Provides utility assessment techniques that facilitate quantitative medical decision making Addresses the many different assumption perspectives the decision maker might choose from when trying to optimize a decision Offers mechanisms for defining MDM algorithms With comprehensive and authoritative coverage by experts in the fields of medicine decision science and cognitive psychology and healthcare management this two volume Encyclopedia is a must have resource for any academic library

Medical Decision-Making on Behalf of Young Children Imogen Goold, Cressida Auckland, Jonathan Herring, 2020-09-17 In the wake of the Charlie Gard and Alfie Evans cases a wide ranging international conversation was started regarding alternative thresholds for intervention and the different balances that can be made in weighing up the rights and interests of the child the parent's rights and responsibilities and the role of medical professionals and the courts This collection provides a comparative perspective on these issues by bringing together analysis from a range of jurisdictions across Europe North and South America Africa and Asia Contextualising the differences and similarities and drawing out the cultural and social values that inform the approach in different countries this volume is highly valuable to scholars across jurisdictions not only to inform their own local debate on how best to navigate such cases but also to foster inter jurisdictional debate on the issues The book brings together commentators from the fields of law medical ethics and clinical medicine across the world actively drawing on the view from the clinic as well as philosophical legal and sociological perspectives on the crucial question of who should decide about the fate of a child suffering from a serious illness In doing so the collection offers comprehensive treatment of the key questions around whether the current best interests approach is still appropriate and if not what the alternatives are It engages head on with the concerns seen in both the academic and popular literature that there is a need to reconsider the orthodoxy in this area
