New Forms Of Work Organization In Europe:

New Forms of Work Organization in Europe Peter Grootings, Bjørn Gustavsen, Lajos Hächthy, A remarkable development in the sociology of work in recent years has been the explosion of brilliant cross national and cross cultural studies in Europe examining the conditions of labor against the background of different economic systems and differences within each of the major free market mixed welfare and planned economic systems that dot the European landscape In Vienna and Budapest in particular a group of intellectual workers have gotten together for what can only be described as breakthrough studies in the conditions and purposes of work in post industrial society The question of new forms of work organization focuses on job satisfaction participatory democracy in the work place levels of productivity and issues of health and safety in the occupational environment That these elements are important have long been known But what this collection of studies emphasizes is the specific mix that produced specific outcomes It does not shy away from dangerous and tough questions worker control and control of workers political participation in contexts of authoritarian regimes and personal rewards in contexts that once frowned upon private acquisition of capital The volume is rich in empirical studies and draws the theoretical implications that can and already have had vast policy consequences for workers in the modern context Issues relating to job rotation enrichment enlargement and autonomy and others related to new forms of organization starting with the shop floor and extending throughout the management of the enterprise as a whole are dealt with candidly The social character of labor long frowned upon as a mechanism for evading bread and butter issues is now recognized East and West as a dimension of concern that is growing precisely as the size and character of the labor sector is diminishing This is must reading for those interested in new forms of social and policy synthesis and ways of meliorating competing claims of different sectors in modern societies

Work Organization and Europe as a Development Coalition John Richard Ennals, Björn Gustavsen, 1999-01-01 This text proposes a development project within the field of work organisation with participation from across Europe It includes chapters on the nature and history of the idea of development coalition largely rooted in the Scandinavian experience and case studies from other European countries

Unions and Workplace Reorganization Bruce Nissen, 1997 Contains 11 essays dealing with trends in workplace reorganization and how unions should respond to these trends

Europe, Globalization and the Lisbon Agenda Maria João Rodrigues, 2009-01-01 The Lisbon Agenda aims to prepare Europe for globalization by updating European policies for research innovation competition trade employment education social protection environment and energy at both the European and national levels Designed to inspire the new cycle of the Lisbon Agenda until 2010 and beyond this timely and significant volume explores the intellectual elaboration of the agenda for the coming years With contributions from some of Europe's leading scholars this book explores new developments in the European agenda for globalization addressing four critical areas European policies their adaptation to national diversity in Europe their implications for the external action of the European Union and finally their implications for

EU governance This book presents the outcome of an organized dialogue between the political and research communities Europe Globalization and the Lisbon Agenda will undoubtedly prove an outstanding addition to the current literature and will be an invaluable resource for European policy makers governments and academics from a wide range of disciplines who are concerned about the future competitiveness of Europe Technology and the Future of European Employment Pascal Petit,Luc Soete,2001 What is the potential of the new information and communication technologies This book assesses the relationship between technological change and employment in all its dimensions focusing on contemporary economies in Europe The authors discuss patterns Action Research in Workplace Innovation and Regional Development Werner Fricke,Peter Totterdill,2004-04-29 The past is an increasingly unreliable guide to the future European workplaces and the regions in which they are located face unprecedented pressures and challenges Whereas in recent decades incremental adaptation has largely been sufficient to cope with external change it is no longer clear that this remains the case Globalisation technological development and dissemination political volatility patterns of consumption and employee expectations are occurring at a rate which is hard to measure The rate of change in these spheres is far outstripping the rate of organisational innovation in both European enterprises and public governance leading to a serious mismatch between the challenges of the 21st Century and the organisational competence available to deal with them In this context there is no clear roadmap The contributors to this volume address these issues and demonstrate that building the knowledge base required by actors in this volatile environment requires continuous dialogue and learning a context in which social partners regional policy makers and other participants share diverse knowledge and reflect on experience rather than seeking and imitating any notion of best practice Action Research has a crucial role to play embedding shared learning within the process of innovation Partnership at Work Bill Roche,John Geary,2006-09-27 During the mid 1990s a partnership was established between the Irish Ports Authority and its trade unions This volume traces the progress achievements and obstacles faced by the partnership based upon full access to the partners workforce and documentation and records of the initiative Labor, Employment, and Social Policies in the EU Enlargement Process Lodovico Pizzati,Bernard Funck,2002 The process of transition to a market economy and integration into the EU has strained the labour markets of central and eastern European countries and these developments pose a number of challenges to their social policies This volume presents the contributions given at an international labour conference held in Austria in June 2001 to investigate these issues It provides the latest labour trends in EU accession countries and compares them to previous experiences of European integration It reviews existing labour market policies and social protection mechanisms and discusses alternative strategies for employment creation in the region Young People and Associations in Europe Martine Vanandruel,Council of Europe. Youth Directorate,1996-01-01 Industrial Policy in Europe Keith Cowling,2003-09-02 After a decade or more of privatisation and deregulation there is a growing consensus that government can have a positive role in promoting industrial development

This book explores a variety of ways in which this might be made to happen. A common theme is the need for participation at the appropriate level. Too often industrial policy has been hampered by overcentralised decision making. Containing contributions by some of Europe's leading industrial economists, Industrial Policy for Europe covers subjects from small business to macroeconomics.
