Dueck,2017-04-28 Congregational Music Conflict and Community is the first study of the music of the contemporary worship wars conflicts over church music that continue to animate and divide Protestants today to be based on long term in person observation and interviews It tells the story of the musical lives of three Canadian Mennonite congregations who sang together despite their musical differences at the height of these debates in the late 1990s and early 2000s Mennonites are among the most music centered Christian groups in North America and each congregation felt deeply about the music they chose as their own The congregations studied span the spectrum from traditional to blended to contemporary worship styles and from evangelical to liberal Protestant theologies At their core the book argues worship wars are not fought in order to please congregants musical tastes nor to satisfy the theological principles held by a denomination Instead the relationships and meanings shaped through individuals experiences singing in the particular ways afforded by each style of worship are most profoundly at stake in the worship wars As such this book will be of keen interest to scholars working across the fields of religious studies and ethnomusicology You Were Never Meant to Lead Alone E. A House Divided Isaac Arten,William Glass,2015-08-04 It is hardly noteworthy in contemporary discourse when the phrase We ll just have to agree to disagree actually means We plan never to speak to each other again For members of Episcopal and other Anglican churches however the Anglican tradition s identity as a via media demands forthright engagement with difficult topics by Christians committed to remaining in prayerful relationship with each other In the spring of 2013 Duke Divinity School s Anglican Episcopal House of Studies began a series of fierce conversations designed to expose seminary students to the profound and painful reality of ecclesial divisions in North American Anglicanism revolving around issues of human sexuality scriptural authority and interpretive practices and church leadership while cultivating skills for leading congregations to worship pray and serve in ways that contribute over time to the full visible reconciliation of Episcopalians and other Anglicans in North America This book presents this year of conversations as a way of inviting congregations to take up the challenge and joy of fierce conversations in their own common life
