Building a Global Bank Mauro F. Guillén, Adrian Tschoegl, 2008-07-01 In 2004 Spain's Banco Santander purchased Britain's Abbey National Bank in a deal valued at fifteen billion dollars an acquisition that made Santander one of the ten largest financial institutions in the world Here Mauro Guillén and Adrian Tschoegl tackle the question of how this once sleepy family run provincial bank in a developing economy transformed itself into a financial services group with more than sixty six million customers on three continents Founded 150 years ago in the Spanish port city of the same name Santander is the only large bank in the world where three successive generations of one family have led top management and the board of directors But Santander is fully modern Drawing on rich data and in depth interviews with family members and managers Guillén and Tschoegl reveal how strategic decisions by the family and complex political social technological and economic forces drove Santander's unprecedented rise to global prominence The authors place the bank in this competitive milieu comparing it with its rivals in Europe and America and showing how Santander faced with growing competition in Spain and Europe sought growth opportunities in Latin America and elsewhere They also address the complexities of managerial succession and family leadership and weigh the implications of Santander's stellar rise for the consolidation of European banking Building a Global Bank tells the fascinating story behind this powerful corporation's remarkable transformation and of the family behind it

Foreign and Domestic Investment in Argentina Alison E. Post, 2014-04-17 Political economy scholarship suggests that private sector investment and thus economic growth is more likely to occur when formal institutions allow states to provide investors with credible commitments to protect property rights This book argues that this maxim does not hold for infrastructure privatization programs Rather differences in firm organizational structure better explain the viability of privatization contracts in weak institutional environments Domestic investors or if contracts are granted subnationally domestic investors with diverse holdings in their contract jurisdiction work most effectively in the volatile economic and political environments of the developing world They are able to negotiate mutually beneficial adaptations to their contracts with host governments because cross sector diversification provides them with informal contractual supports The book finds strong empirical support for this argument through an analysis of fourteen water and sanitation privatization contracts in Argentina and a statistical analysis of sector trends in developing countries
