Memento Mori: Classifying Nineteenth Century Ontario Gravestones Laura Suchan,2012-08-22 Ontario gravestone iconography exhibits a remarkable progression of artistic cultural and religious expression throughout the nineteenth century Unfortunately the study of gravestone motifs has been largely ignored by those transcribing data in Ontario s early cemeteries It is imperative this information along with motifs be recorded before it is lost to us Gravestone iconography can be organized into simple stylistic categories which would allow for a standardized approach when recording gravestone information Much of Ontario s gravestone research is done by local genealogical and historical societies working in isolation Sharing gravestone data using a common classification system would aid in developing perspectives into topics such as carving traditions economic status and gravestone choice across local and regional lines This information would shed light on the entire gravestone industry and provide researchers with the background necessary to study motifs more closely The

Voices of Russian Literature Sally Laird, 1999-04-29 Voices of Russian Literature presents in depth interviews with ten of the most interesting figures writing in Russian today They range from established authors such as Fyodor Dostoevsky and Andrei Bitov who began their careers in the post Stalinist Thaw to newcomers like Viktor Pelevin hailed as one of the most original writers of the present era It offers an insiders account of the fate of Russian literature over the past four decades Rather than cataloguing the opinions of dissidents or defenders of the former regime it presents the views of artists who have sought against the odds to express their unique visions of a changing world Each interview acquaints us with the author s distinctive voice and provides important insights into the genesis and interpretation of individual works Sally Laird has prefaced the interviews with biographical and critical sketches of each writer and her introductory essay sets the whole in historical context Voices of Russian Literature will be fascinating reading for anyone interested in Russia s contemporary literary experience

The Vow Jiří Kratochvíl, 2021-12-03 Can something that exists merely as a literary text say a story come about in real life Can reality to put it another way steal something from literature the same way literature steals from reality Such is the question that Libor Hrach the author of The Adventures of the Wise Badger fields one evening over a hedonistic supper in a tony Brno restaurant from Kamil Modr ek himself a burrowing animal of sorts in Ji Kratochvil s novel The Vow Quite simply I said everything that has been written either has already happened or is about to You write a story and you can never be sure if what you re writing isn t actually taking place two streets away from where you sit If this does not send chills down the spine of the reader of The Vow they have got a high tolerance for the creepy Set in 1950s Brno at the height of Gottwald s Stalinist reshaping of Czechoslovakia into a Communist prison and partially in today s independent Czech Republic Kratochvil alternating between the dry Czech humour of Jaroslav Ha ek and the uncanny chilling otherworldliness of Edgar Allan Poe takes the reader on a journey such as they have never been on before to geographic areas in the beautiful Moravian city where no foot has set since the Middle Ages and places deep inside all of us where most of us would rather never venture Translation of this book was supported by the Ministry of Culture of the Czech Republic
