Rochester Voices Uncommon Writings From Common People:

Rochester Voices Ross Talarico, 1989-08-01 Poems and essays written by participants in writing programs for young people and senior citizens sponsored by the City of Rochester Spreading the Word Ross Talarico, 1995 Describes a unique approach for eliciting poetry from people of many ages and backgrounds particularly underprivileged urban kids and the elderly The process from dialogue to self expression to publication to public event illuminates the urgency and meaning of releasing the spirit captured in each man and woman and child s experience Calling Home Janet Zandy, 1990 Working class women are the majority of women in the United States and yet their work and their culture are rarely visible Calling Home is an anthology of writings by and about working class women Over fifty selections represent the ethnic racial and geographic diversity of working class experience This is writing grounded in social history not in the academy Traditional boundaries of genre and periodization collapse in this collection which includes reportage oral histories speeches songs and letters as well as poetry stories and essays The divisions in this collection telling stories bearing witness celebrating solidarity address the distinction of by or about working class women and show the connections between individual identity and collective sensibility in a common history of struggle for economic justice The geography of home identity parents sex motherhood the dominance of the job the overlapping of private and public worlds the promise of solidarity and community are a few of the themes of this book Here is a chorus of working class women s voices Sandra Cisneros Barbara Garson Meridel Le Sueur Tillie Olsen Barbara Smith Endesha I M Holland Mother Jones Nellie Wong Agnes Smedley Bobbie Louise Hawkins Sharon Doubiago Carol Tarlen Hazel Hall Margaret Randall Judy Grahn and many others The aesthetic impulse is shaped by class but not limited to one ruling class What connects these writers is a collective consciousness a class which rejects bondage and lays claim to liberation through all the possibilities of language Calling Home is illustrated with family photographs as well as images of working women by professional photographers English Journal , 1996 Hearts and Times , 1992 Talarico a poet in Rochester N Y here seeks to distill a literary essence from firstperson histories he collected from Americans representing a wide range of geographical and social backgrounds The verses of these transcribed autobiographical memories each preceded by a prose summary typically concern poignant incidents an important decision in the subject s life or often a neverbefore-revealed romantic episode The memory project Talarico explains is part of the citizens writing group programs he has organized to foster creative self-expression among children and elderly alike Although Talarico often incorporates a verbatim phrase from the subjects accounts presented to the author or group the sophistication of his verses tends to overshadow the emotions of the men and women who experienced them Forthcoming Books Rose Army, 1990 The Standard , 1916 Paperbound Books in Print , 1991 The Courtesan's Memory, Voice, and Late Ming Drama Peng Xu, 2025-09-16 Peng Xu s The Courtesan s Memory Voice and Late Ming Drama argues that courtesans of the era played an active role in the theater and their impact manifested in Chinese literary history albeit concealed or erased

In the late Ming dynasty 1368 1644 theater was dominated by male performers with professional actresses largely absent from the stage unlike in the Yuan dynasty 1271 1368 where women performed without restriction in theater troupes Despite the prevailing assumption that women played no part in the theatrical movement The Courtesan's Memory Voice and Late Ming Drama illuminates how courtesans as serious theater artists and playwrights left a significant mark on the male dominated dramatic and literary landscapes This study profoundly remaps the textbook narratives of gender bias challenges modern prejudices prevalent in the literary history of Chinese drama and reveals how theatrical conditions and writing styles shifted to accommodate courtesan performances Utilizing a wide range of sources such as scripts city guides biographies diaries letters wood block illustrations and paintings this study distinguishes itself from earlier studies of Chinese courtesans by not thematizing courtesans for their allegorical values but rather pinpointing their agency in shaping the features of Chinese theater and recognizing courtesans as a source of creativity and development in the medium Xu's focus on courtesan performance culture allows for fresh readings of canonical Chinese plays opening up new ways of understanding the history of Chinese drama written by women thus deviating from standard historiography based solely on the writings of men

In this innovative and important study Heather Tilley examines the huge shifts that took place in the experience and conceptualisation of blindness during the nineteenth century and demonstrates how new writing technologies for blind people had transformative effects on literary culture Considering the ways in which visually impaired people used textual means to shape their own identities the book argues that blindness was also a significant trope through which writers reflected on the act of crafting literary form Supported by an illuminating range of archival material including unpublished letters from Wordsworth's circle early ophthalmologic texts embossed books and autobiographies this is a rich account of blind people's experience and reveals the close and often surprising personal engagement that canonical writers had with visual impairment Drawing on the insights of disability studies and cultural phenomenology Tilley highlights the importance of attending to embodied experience in the production and consumption of texts Popular Mechanics, 1953-12
