Makers And Milestones Of The Middle Ages:

Men and Milestones of the Middle Ages Peter G. Stillman, 1970 The Making of Politics John Watts, 2009-05-07 This major survey of political life in late medieval Europe provides a framework for understanding the developments that shaped this turbulent period. Rather than emphasising crisis, decline, disorder or the birth of the modern state, this account centres on the mixed results of political and governmental growth across the continent. The age of the Hundred Years War, schism and revolt was also a time of rapid growth in jurisdiction, taxation and representation of spreading literacy and evolving political technique. This mixture of state formation and political convulsion lay at the heart of the making of politics. Offering a full introduction to political events and processes from the fourteenth century to the sixteenth, this book combines a broad comparative account with discussion of individual regions and states including eastern and northern Europe alongside the more familiar west and south.

Making Money in the Early Middle Ages Rory Naismith, 2026-02-24 An examination of coined money and its significance to rulers, aristocrats and peasants in early medieval Europe. Between the end of the Roman Empire in the fifth century and the economic transformations of the twelfth, coined money in western Europe was scarce and high in value, difficult for the majority of the population to make use of. And yet, as Rory Naismith shows in this illuminating study, coined money was made and used throughout early medieval Europe. It was, he argues, a powerful tool for articulating people's place in economic and social structures and an important gauge for levels of economic complexity. Working from the premise that using coined money carried special significance when there was less of it around, Naismith uses detailed case studies from the Mediterranean and northern Europe to propose a new reading of early medieval money as a point of contact between economic, social and institutional history. Naismith examines structural issues including the mining and circulation of metal and the use of bullion and other commodities as money, and then offers a chronological account of monetary development, discussing the post-Roman period of gold coinage, the rise of the silver penny in the seventh century and the reconfiguration of elite power in relation to coinage in the tenth and eleventh centuries. In the process, he counters the conventional view of early medieval currency as the domain only of elite gift-givers and intrepid long-distance traders. Even when there were few coins in circulation, Naismith argues, the ways they were used to give gifts, to pay rents, to spend at markets have much to tell us.

The Making of the Middle Ages Richard William Southern, 1953 The Making of Medieval History G. A. Loud, Martial Staub, 2017 Essays on the discipline of medieval history and its practitioners from the late eighteenth century onwards. A hugely interesting set of essays reflecting on a variety of ways in which medieval history has developed to the present time. Scholarship of the highest standard, deeply thought-provoking and deeply engaged with the inheritances and future tasks of medieval academic history. The collection will be essential reading for all medievalists.

John Arnold, Professor of Medieval History, University of Cambridge. Medieval history is present in many forms in our world. Monuments from the Middle Ages or inspired by them are a familiar feature of landscapes across Europe and beyond the period between the end of the Roman Empire in Western Europe and the Reformation and European expansion is an essential part of our imagination be it conveyed through literature the arts science fiction or even video games it is also commonly invoked in political debates Specialists in the field have played a major role in shaping modern perceptions of the era But little is known about the factors that have influenced them and their work The essays in this volume provide original insights into the fabric and dissemination of medieval history as a scholarly discipline from the late eighteenth century onwards The case studies range from the creation of specific images of the Middle Ages to the ways in which medievalists have dealt with European identity contributed to making and deconstructing myths and more specifically addressed questions relating to land and frontiers as well as to religion GRAHAM A LOUD is Professor of Medieval History at the University of Leeds MARTIAL STAUB is Professor of Medieval History at the University of Sheffield Contributors Christine Caldwell Ames Peter Biller Michael Borgolte Patrick Geary Richard Hitchcock Bernhard Jussen Joep Leerssen G A Loud Christian L bke Jinty Nelson Bastian Schl ter Martial Staub Ian Wood The Making of Medieval Antifraternalism G. Geltner,2012-04-05 A case study in opposition to religious authority in the pre modern period Geltner treats a phenomenon known as antifraternalism from a fresh methodological and documentary perspective He challenges many assumptions made about the early history of the mendicant orders and the origins scale and scope of resistance to them Savings and
