Making an Issue of Child Abuse Barbara J. Nelson, 1986 Making an Issue of Child Abuse Barbara J. Nelson, 1984 A history of the social agenda of child abuse and policy set by society government and other agencies

Agenda-Setting James W. Dearing, Everett Rogers, 1996-08-28 What is the major social problem in the news today Who made it so important Social issues that are widely recognized on the media agenda often demand attention on the public agenda and in turn move quickly up the policy agenda creating policy changes Based on research of contemporary social issues that have hit the headlines including the war on drugs drink driving the Exxon Valdez oil spillage AIDS and the Ethiopian famine this book provides important theoretical and practical insights into the agenda setting process and its role in effecting social change Combating Child Abuse Neil Gilbert, 1997 Many countries are struggling with issues involving the definition of child maltreatment reporting requirements processes for responding to reports and services to abused children and their families This book illustrates approaches to dealing with these problems by examining and comparing the designs of child abuse systems Advances in Child Abuse Prevention Knowledge Deborah Daro, Anne Cohn Donnelly, Lee Ann Huang, Byron J. Powell, 2015-06-05 This book addresses new avenues in child abuse prevention research that will expand our capacity to protect children These new avenues result from the emergence of new research methods made possible through technologic advances an understanding of the benefits of cross disciplinary research and learning and the entrance of many young scholars in the field The book explores what these avenues produce in terms of clarifying the complex problems that continue to limit our progress in addressing child maltreatment and promoting optimal child development Specifically the book showcases individual contributions from emerging scholars and show how these scholars use the frameworks and advanced methods to shape their work apply their findings and define their learning communities The book highlights the benefits of creating explicit and extended opportunities for researchers to network across disciplines and areas of interest The primary authors are young scholars from universities across the U S who have worked together as Fellows of the Doris Duke Fellowships for the Promotion of Child Well Being seeking innovations to prevent child abuse Through this program the Fellows have engaged in a robust self generating learning network designed to create the type of ongoing professional linkages and decision making style that fosters an interdisciplinary and team planning approach to research design and policy formation Thinking About Social Problems Donileen Loseke, 2017-07-05 The new second edition of this distinctive and widely adopted textbook brings into the classroom an overview of how images of social problems can shape not only public policy and social services but also the ways in which we make sense of ourselves and others It introduces two primary changes First some attention is devoted to the new social movements that emphasize social change through identity transformation rather than through structural change Second the text now also looks more closely at the importance of emotions in constructing public consciousness of social problems When the first edition was published Teaching Sociology noted Loseke does a superb job explaining the relationship between sociology and social problems in a text that is very well researched and engaging yet with tremendous attention to detail and accuracy. It would provide a solid base for any social problems class. Contemporary Sociology wrote that the book is engagingly well written in a personal unpretentious style and well informed by the author's knowledge of the professional literature.

Ending the Cycle of Violence Einat Peled, Peter G. Jaffe, Jeffery L. Edleson, 1995. This work covers the complex issues involved in intervention with children of battered women and provides an overview of current practice including strategies and program models.

Handbook of Family Violence Alan S. Bellack, Michel Hersen, R.L. Morrison, Vincent B. Van Hasselt, 2013-06-29. In the last decade there has been heightened clinical and investigative activity in the area of family violence. This of course is partly attributable to recent surveys showing a high incidence of family violence in the United States. For example, there are indications that nearly 30% of married women in this country are victims of physical abuse by spouses at some point in their marriage. Further, FBI statistics show that approximately 13% of all homicides are husband-wife killings. Moreover, it has been projected that such figures are likely to increase over the next several years. Consistent with these trends, funding of family violence research by both federal and private agencies has increased. Indeed, federal agencies such as the National Institute of Mental Health and the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice have provided considerable support for work in this area. In addition, family violence, particularly wife battering, child abuse, and sexual abuse of children, has been the focus of media attention at the national level and has generated intensive interest in both lay and professional publications. Moreover, there have been several recent governmental hearings and investigations regarding the prevalence of these problems.
