Making Of Memory:

The Making Of Memory Steven Rose, 2012-09-30 Steven Rose's The Making of Memory is about just that in both its senses the biological processes by which we humans and other animals learn and remember and how researchers can explore these mechanisms But it is also about much more When the first edition of this fascinating book won the Science book Prize in 1993 the judges described it as a riveting read a first hand account by a practicing scientist working at the forefront of medical research and Rose does not duck the issues which that raises Now ten years on research has itself moved forward and Rose has taken the opportunity to fully revise the book But this is more than mere revision Where ten years ago he argued the case for research on memory because it is the most extraordinary of human attributes Rose's own research has now opened the doors to a potential new treatment for Alzheimer's Disease undreamed of a decade ago and in an entirely new chapter he describes how this potential breakthrough has occurred The Making of Memory Steven Peter Russell Rose, 1992 The recipes included in this book range from family dinners centred around pot roast pheasant with grilled polenta or red mullet with rosemary to lavish buffets and menus for special occasions like oysters and passion fruit fool on St Valentine's Day By the author of Portrait of Pasta The Making of Memory Steven Rose, 1992 Traumatic Storytelling and Memory in Post-Apartheid South Africa Christopher J. Colvin, 2018-12-14 This book explores the practice of traumatic storytelling that emerged out of the South African Truth and Reconciliation Commission and came to play a key role in the lives of the members of the Khulumani Support Group for victims of apartheid era political violence Group members found traumatic storytelling both frustrating and yet also an important form of memory work that shaped how they saw themselves in the post apartheid era Drawing on ethnographic fieldwork the author examines how traumatic storytelling functioned not only as a kind of psychological healing and national political theatre but also as a potent form of social relation economic exchange political activism and expressive practice With emphasis on the personal social and political significance of the act of traumatic storytelling this volume asks why members of Khulumani despite their many disappointments continued to engage intensively in storying their experiences for themselves and others Examining what powers storytelling held for both group members and their witnesses and considering the ways in which storytelling enabled new senses of self and new understandings of what was possible in the years after the end of apartheid this book considers what we might learn more broadly from the experiences of Khulumani about the possibilities and limits of traumatic memory making as an instrument of personal social and political repair As such it will appeal to scholars of sociology anthropology and criminology with interest in justice and post conflict societies British Cultural Memory and the Second World War Lucy Noakes, Juliette Pattinson, 2013-11-21 Few historical events have resonated as much in modern British culture as the Second World War It has left a rich legacy in a range of media that continue to attract a wide audience film TV and radio photography and the visual arts journalism and propaganda architecture museums music and literature The enduring presence of the war in the public world is echoed in its ongoing centrality in many personal and family memories with stories of the Second World War being recounted through the generations This collection brings together recent historical work on the cultural memory of the war examining its presence in family stories in popular and material culture and in acts of commemoration in Britain between 1945 and the present

Recovering Lost Species in the Modern Age Dolly Jorgensen,2019-10-29 A groundbreaking study of how emotions motivate attempts to counter species loss This groundbreaking book brings together environmental history and the history of emotions to examine the motivations behind species conservation actions In Recovering Lost Species in the Modern Age Dolly J rgensen uses the environmental histories of reintroduction rewilding and resurrection to view the modern conservation paradigm of the recovery of nature as an emotionally charged practice J rgensen argues that the recovery of nature identifying that something is lost and then going out to find it and bring it back is a nostalgic practice that looks to a historical past and relies on the concept of belonging to justify future oriented action The recovery impulse depends on emotional responses to what is lost particularly a longing for recovery that manifests itself in such emotions as guilt hope fear and grief J rgensen explains why emotional frameworks matter deeply both for how people understand nature theoretically and how they interact with it physically The identification of what belongs the lost nature and our longing the emotional attachment to it in the present will affect how environmental restoration practices are carried out in the future A sustainable future will depend on questioning how and why belonging and longing factor into the choices we make about what to recover
