Nairobi Challenge:

Turnaround Challenge Michael Blowfield, Leo Johnson, 2013-09-13 Do we have the rights to optimism Can capitalism deliver a next great wave of growth The future wrote William Gibson is already here It just isn't evenly distributed yet Lucid and polemical Turnaround Challenge is a dig into that future and its meaning for business It dissects the nexus of social economic environmental and governance crises confronting us and a series of colliding megatrends with the potential to reshape opportunities for growth Three cities of the future are emerging The first is Petropolis the alluringly familiar but decreasingly resilient city locked into the century old technologies of fossil fuel driven mass production This is the city of rising inequality credit fuelled consumption offshored jobs climate volatility and unsustainable household and national debt The second city is Cyburbia This is mass production on the steroids of IT the latest manifestation of science fictions city without pain but one inhabited by voice activated popcorn dispensers of athletics shoes with in built Twitter feeds of sensor packed and censoring glass towers that risk reducing their citizens to digital factors of production in the supply chain of big data The third is the Distributed City where technology is deployed with the intent to connect us not virtually but physically from Nairobi's network of innovation spaces to Hamburg's Participatory Budgeting experiments from Barcelona's network for micro manufacturing to Austin's distributed smart grid These are the cities of society's future and they have very different implications for business success and our ability to navigate the social economic and environmental megatrends that confront us Blowfield and Johnson present the DNA of the winners of the future high growth and disruptive businesses emerging from the bottom up and with the capacity to tackle society's biggest challenges head on Nairobi Becoming Joost

Fontein, Tessa Diphooorn, Peter Lockwood, Constance Smith, 2024-02-09 Echoing the edgy disjunctive ever emergent city of Nairobi that it explores Nairobi Becoming Security Uncertainty Contingency strives to be several things in the making It is a historically and anthropologically minded examination of a shifting cityscape an experimental collaborative exercise in curated juxtaposition and assemblage and an interdisciplinary subjunctive urban ethnography It brings together curated interventions by twenty seven artists scholars and writers to trace Nairobi's becoming Methodologically experimental and multimodal it seeks to balance an appreciation of Nairobi's fragmented character while also recognizing its contingent coherency Nairobi Becoming curates an eclectic collection of different voices and interventions to evoke something of the city's manifold guises and historicities an urban mosaic of partial experiences as well as dawning possibilities for future becomings Assembling scholarship literature creative non fiction and visual art the contributions are arranged around particular themes while resisting the urge to develop a singular coherent voice Security in its various guises is the linking thread the point of articulation that connects apparently disparate elements of Nairobi life from sex work to roadbuilding goat markets to funerals Security is here an analytical operator a concept that refracts the seemingly diverse modalities of life in Nairobi and with the related domains of uncertainty and contingency brings the city's dynamics of fragmentation and coherence to the surface in surprising ways If confronting Nairobi's will to coherence amidst the strains of fragmentation is the empirical and analytical challenge of Nairobi Becoming then it is through collaboration and juxtaposition curation and contrast and the messiness of assemblage that this book chimes with the fraught multiplicities of a city in the making As such this book is also an exploration of the inevitable tension that exists between curatorial intent and the possibility of allowing each contribution to stand for itself

Challenges of African Growth B. J. Ndulu, 2007 Poverty in Africa is largely the outcome of slow growth With the region hosting 10 percent of the world's population but a staggering 30 percent of the world's poor the challenges it faces are enormous but NOT insurmountable The message of this book is clear poverty eradicating development in Africa is possible In fact there are indications that Africa is at a turning point and there is growing momentum among front runner economies in the region toward higher and sustained growth This study challenges African countries and their development partners to consolidate and continue this momentum and to exploit the advantages of the continent as a latecomer particularly in innovation and in drawing lessons from successful export led growth experiences in Asia and Latin America Challenges of African Growth identifies opportunities constraints and strategic choices that African countries face in their quest for achieving the growth necessary for poverty alleviation More important the study provides a broad menu of strategic options for ensuring not only that countries embark on a growth path but also that the growth is shared and sustainable The critical areas for action rest on four pillars the investment climate infrastructure innovation for increasing productivity and competitiveness and institutional capacity

Global Sustainability, Cultural Perspectives and Challenges for Transdisciplinary Integrated Research Benno Werlen, 2015-05-28 This book offers new perspectives of transdisciplinary research in methodological as well as theoretical respects It provides insights in the two fold bio physical and the socio cultural global embeddedness of local living conditions on the basis of selected empirical studies from Latin America Asia Africa Australia and Europe The theoretical foundations of ecological research and sustainability policies were developed at the end of the nineteenth century They are largely based on investigations of living spaces and the evolution and differentiation of varied life forms This perspective is embedded in the practical and theoretical European problem situations of the past and lacks social and cultural differentiation The transformation of spatial and natural relations as a result of the globalization process is so radical that new theories are needed to solve 21st century ecological problems Moreover in view of the lack of an ontologically sound and promising strategy for transdisciplinary problem solving as well as an acceptable consideration of the power of cultural schemas relating to natural living's interpretations there is a strong need to focus on sustainable social practices habits and routines rather than on predominantly living spaces or eco topes This book elaborates on the transdisciplinary approach by reflecting on the theoretical heritage and a global perspective of sustainability by focusing on the primary role of a social approach in sustainability research and by putting emphasis on cultural dimension of sustainability It postulates that global sustainability is grounded in a global understanding of our everyday activities

Informal Public Transport in Practice Melekidzedek Khayesi, Fredrick Muyia Nafukho, 2016-03-03 Transport discourse often concentrates on what is missing from transport policy and practice in developing countries vis vis high income countries rather than articulating local creativity in responding to transport needs as revealed in informal public transport modes such as matatu motorcycle bicycle and animal transport This book helps to correct some of the tendency of inadequate contextualization of knowledge technology and practice learning and transfer from one setting to another in transport and other development programmes While countries such as Kenya have ambitions to develop their transport systems to fit into the globalized transport system they also need to plan transport for ordinary life in both urban and rural areas The matatu service provided by privately owned transport carriers can be seen as a mirror of the life of Kenya revealing how indigenous African entrepreneurship and capitalism straddles various economic political and social systems This book offers a phenomenological and situated analysis of the matatu entrepreneurship in the political economy of Kenya and its embeddedness in society By adopting a social science approach this book highlights a number of political social and practical issues to demonstrate the matatu is not a decontextualized disembodied and lifeless piece of moving metal carrying people and goods but rather part of a self organizing industry with its own logic of practice This book is dedicated to Ajanga Khayesi Mapping Systematic Theology in Africa Ernst M Conradie, Charl E Fredericks, 2004-08-01 The emergence of an indigenous African theology especially since the 1960s is well documented A wealth of literature has been published in the context of African theology especially over the last two or three decades This indexed bibliography contains a number of publications in and for the African context specifically relevant to the fields of systematic theology and ethics Management Challenges for Africa in the Twenty-First Century Felix M. Edoho, 2000-12-30 Edoho and his contributors examine the management challenges facing African governments and businesses on the eve of a new millennium As the authors make clear Africa s future is defined by how Africa does in the 21st century For Africa a major challenge is how to effectively and efficiently manage its vast wealth Africa is not poor because it is poor it is poor because it cannot manage its development process The shortages of managerial knowledge skills and talents are pervasive Consequently the region lacks the ability to organize production and run operations effectively and efficiently The task of developing managerial manpower in Africa is not only imperative it is urgent After outlining theoretical and applied perspectives on management the volume examines the public and private sector planning and management It then explores the globalization of management technology provides case studies of African management dilemmas looks at management ethics and morality and concludes with an analysis of the role of management in African national development As the authors make clear abundant resources will not of themselves usher in an African economic renaissance Africa needs skills to identify and analyze its resources to undertake investment and to establish and run all kinds of organizations Until Africa develops its indigenous managerial talents development will continue to be elusive and the process traumatizing An important resource for scholars students and policy makers involved with African economic development The Street Is My Pulpit Mwenda Ntarangwi, 2016-05-15 To some Christianity and hip hop seem antithetical Not so in Kenya There the music of Julius Owino aka Juliani blends faith and beats into a potent hip hop gospel aimed at a youth culture hungry for answers spiritual material and otherwise Mwenda Ntarangwi explores the Kenyan hip hop scene through the lens of Juliani s life and career A born again Christian Juliani produces work highlighting the tensions between hip hop s forceful self expression and a pious approach to public life even while contesting the basic presumptions of both In The Street Is My Pulpit Ntarangwi forges an uncommon collaboration with his subject that offers insights into Juliani s art and goals even as Ntarangwi explores his own religious experience and subjective identity as an ethnographer

What emerges is an original contribution to the scholarship on hip hop's global impact and a passionate study of the music's role in shaping new ways of being Christian in Africa

Indians in Kenya Sana Aiyar, 2015-04-06 Working as merchants skilled tradesmen clerks lawyers and journalists Indians formed the economic and administrative middle class in colonial Kenya In general they were wealthier than Africans but were denied the political and economic privileges that Europeans enjoyed Moreover despite their relative prosperity Indians were precariously positioned in Kenya Africans usually viewed them as outsiders and Europeans largely considered them subservient Indians demanded recognition on their own terms Indians in Kenya chronicles the competing often contradictory strategies by which the South Asian diaspora sought a political voice in Kenya from the beginning of colonial rule in the late 1890s to independence in the 1960s Indians intellectual economic and political connections with South Asia shaped their understanding of their lives in Kenya Sana Aiyar investigates how the many strands of Indians diasporic identity influenced Kenya's political leadership from claiming partnership with Europeans in their mission to colonize and civilize East Africa to successful collaborations with Africans to battle for racial equality including during the Mau Mau Rebellion She also explores how the hierarchical structures of colonial governance the material inequalities between Indians and Africans and the racialized political discourses that flourished in both colonial and postcolonial Kenya limited the success of alliances across racial and class lines Aiyar demonstrates that only by examining the ties that bound Indians to worlds on both sides of the Indian Ocean can we understand how Kenya came to terms with its South Asian minority
