Coping with Gender Inequities

Sherwood Thompson, Pam Parry, 2017-06-23 This book provides a discussion of women faculty members' experiences on college and university campuses and examines their thoughts, perceptions, responsibilities, and status in the academy. Most specifically, this book explores the differences between male and women faculty in the academy, women faculty's insight into teaching, research, and service, how women faculty perceive their work environment and the stress of faculty evaluation regarding tenure and promotion, and sharing of success stories and lessons learned. The author's intention is to share authentic narratives of women faculty members in their own voices. The voices that are selected for this book are from different disciplines; some participants are junior faculty while others are senior faculty. All of the participants share their eyewitness accounts of how they successfully navigated the road to the professorate. This discussion is critical at this junction in the history of higher education pertaining to gender equity. Women counterpart to male faculty members provide a very visible and meaningful role on campuses with all of the positive roles that women faculty play on campuses. Women faculty report that they are still experiencing to some degree less satisfaction and greater challenges than their male counterparts in many aspects of their profession. Irudayam, Ed.D., Patricio V. Jorge, Ed.D., 2020-08-31 PassPORTS ClassROOMS Irene Irudayam, Ed.D., Patricio V. Jorge, Ed.D. In today's knowledge economy, intellectual currency is getting transferred from one country to another, and the physical boundaries are no hindrance anymore when compared to the situation three decades back. No wonder universities in the United States are attracting students from all over the world. Two primary reasons of such attraction are i) quality of education provided by educational institutions in the United States is very high and ii) the return of investment on education is phenomenally high. Despite growing influx of students from various countries, little is known about the whole process of educational system and the way in which inputs are transformed into outputs to various students. In general, they learn on their own following the concept of learning while doing. At this juncture, this book is written with the purpose of providing students and public about what is contained in the black box: a sequence of the entire process of what students need to know from the beginning of entering the United States until they get out of the universities to get employed. Dr. Satya Parayitam, PhD

Faculty Mentoring Susan L. Phillips, Susan T. Dennison, 2023-07-03 Faculty mentoring programs greatly benefit the institutions that have instituted them and are effective in attracting and retaining good faculty. Prospective faculty members commonly ask about mentoring at on-campus interviews and indicate that it is a consideration when choosing a position. Mentoring programs also increase the retention rate of junior faculty, greatly reducing recruitment costs and particularly help integrate women, minority, and international faculty members into the institution while providing all new hires with an orientation to the culture, mission, and identity of the college or university. The book provides step-by-step guidelines for setting up planning and facilitating mentoring programs for new faculty members, whether one-on-one or using a successful group model developed and refined over twenty-five years by the authors. While it offers detailed guidance on instituting such programs at the departmental level it also makes the case for establishing school or institutional level programs and delineates the considerable benefits and economies of scale these can achieve The authors provide guidance for mentors and mentees on developing group mentoring and individual mentor prot g relationships the corresponding chapters being available online for separate purchase as well as detailed outlines and advice to department chairs administrators and facilitators on how to establish and conduct institution wide group mentoring programs and apply or modify the material to meet their specific needs For training and faculty development purposes we also offer two chapters as individual e booklets Each respectively provides a succinct summary of the roles and expectations of the roles of Mentor and Mentee Faculty Mentoring Mentor GuideFaculty Mentoring Mentee GuideThe booklets are affordably priced and intended for individual purchase by mentors and mentees and are only available through our Web site
