Town and Country Planning in the UK Simin Davoudi, David Webb, Geoff Vigar, John Pendlebury, Tim Townshend, Trevor Hart, Vincent Nadin, 2014-12-05 Town and country planning has never been more important to the UK nor more prominent in national debate Planning generates great controversy whether it s spending 80m and four years inquiry into Heathrow s Terminal 5 or the 200 proposed wind turbines in the Shetland Isles On a smaller scale telecoms masts take away house extensions and even fences are often the cause of local conflict Town and Country Planning in the UK has been extensively revised by a new author group This 15th Edition incorporates the major changes to planning introduced by the coalition government elected in 2010 particularly through the National Planning Policy Framework and associated practice guidance and the Localism Act It provides a critical discussion of the systems of planning the procedures for managing development and land use change and the mechanisms for implementing policy and proposals It reviews current policy for sustainable development and the associated economic social and environmental themes relevant to planning in both urban and rural contexts Contemporary arrangements are explained with reference to their historical development the influence of the European Union the roles of central and local government and developing social and economic demands for land use change Detailed consideration is given to the nature of planning and its historical evolution the role of the EU central regional and local government mechanisms for developing policy and managing these changes policies for guiding and delivering housing and economic development sustainable development principles for planning including pollution control the importance of design in planning conserving the heritage community engagement in planning The many recent changes to the system are explained in detail the new national planning policy framework the impact of the loss of the regional tier in planning and of the insertion of neighbourhood level planning the transition from development control to development management the continued and growing importance of environmental matters in planning community engagement partnership working changes to planning gain and the introduction of the Community Infrastructure Levy and new initiatives across a number of other themes Notes on further reading are provided and at the end of the book there is an extensive bibliography maintaining its reputation as the bible of British planning

The Theory and Practice of Local Governance and Economic Development M. Considine, S. Giguere, 2008-02-14 This book provides a comparative study of the use of partnerships and new forms of governance to achieve policy goals that promote economic and social development In addition to a consideration of the theoretical challenges posed by these institutional developments the book reviews recent experiences in Asia Pacific Europe and North America

Production and Use of Urban Knowledge Hans Thor Andersen, Robert Thomas Atkinson, 2013-06-13 This book provides new insights on cities and the nature of urban development and the role of knowledge management in urban growth It considers how knowledge informs policies and supports decision making and can assist in addressing the drivers of urban change The way that knowledge is produced and used in urban development is analysed with examples drawn from a range of European countries This book illustrates how the development and implementation of policies for urban areas can draw on knowledge management even as the knowledge economy itself stimulates the evolution of the city as a place of innovation and creativity Whilst knowledge grows in importance so do urban issues particularly in economic and political contexts at both European and national levels These essays explore growth in the range of knowledge available in urban contexts the ways to generate new knowledge from a wide range of stakeholders and how these can make an effective contribution to decision making processes in urban development The attractiveness of cities and surrounding areas to knowledge based forms of industry and investment and the competitiveness and performance of cities are a matter of major concern for national governments In a sense it has become too important to leave to city politicians and it is a topic requiring sustained reflection This book gives the reader a detailed understanding of the issues involved and prompts further reflections

The Routledge Companion to Urban Regeneration Michael E. Leary, John McCarthy, 2013-10-30 In the past decade urban regeneration policy makers and practitioners have faced a number of difficult challenges such as sustainability budgetary constraints demands for community involvement and rapid urbanization in the Global South Urban regeneration remains a high profile and important field of government led intervention and policy and practice continue to adapt to the fresh challenges and opportunities of the 21st century as well as confronting long standing intractable urban problems and dilemmas This Companion provides cutting edge critical review and synthesis of recent conceptual policy and practical developments within the field With contributions from 70 international experts within the field it explores the meaning of urban regeneration in differing national contexts asking questions and providing informed discussion and analyses to illuminate how an apparently disparate field of research policy and practice can be rendered coherent drawing out common themes and significant differences The Companion is divided into six sections exploring globalization and neo liberal perspectives on urban regeneration emerging reconceptualizations of regeneration public infrastructure and public space housing and cosmopolitan communities community centred regeneration and culture led regeneration The concluding chapter considers the future of urban regeneration and proposes a nine point research agenda This Companion assembles a diversity of approaches and insights in one comprehensive volume to provide a state of the art review of the field It is a valuable resource for both advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students in Urban Planning Built Environment Urban Studies and Urban Regeneration as well as academics practitioners and politicians

Governing Compact Cities Philipp Rode, 2018-01-26 Governing Compact Cities investigates how governments and other critical actors organise to enable compact urban growth combining higher urban densities mixed use and urban design quality with more walkable and public transport oriented urban development

Philipp Rode draws on empirical evidence from London and Berlin to examine how urban policymakers professionals and stakeholders have worked across disciplinary silos geographic scales and different time horizons since the early 1990s

New Labour and Planning Phil Allmendinger, 2011-01-17 Allmendinger presents a thorough analysis of the planning system throughout the years of the Labour government and what this means for the future of UK planning policy Whose Urban Renaissance? Libby Porter, Kate Shaw, 2009-01-13 The desire of governments for a renaissance of their cities is a defining feature of contemporary urban policy From Melbourne and Toronto to Johannesburg and Istanbul government policies are successfully attracting investment and middle class populations to their inner areas Regeneration or gentrification as it can often become produces winners and losers There is a substantial literature on the causes and unequal effects of gentrification and on the global and local conditions driving processes of dis and re investment But there is little examination of the actual strategies used to achieve urban regeneration what were their intents did they succeed and if not why not and what were the specific consequences Whose Urban Renaissance asks who benefits from these urban transformations The book contains beautifully written and accessible stories from researchers and activists in 21 cities across Europe North and South America Asia South Africa the Middle East and Australia each exploring a specific case of urban regeneration Some chapters focus on government or market strategies driving the regeneration process and look closely at the effects Others look at the local contingencies that influence the way these strategies work Still others look at instances of opposition and struggle and at policy interventions that were used in some places to ameliorate the inequities of gentrification Working from these stories the editors develop a comparative analysis of regeneration strategies with nuanced assessments of local constraints and counteracting policy responses The concluding chapters provide a critical comparison of existing strategies and open new directions for more equitable policy approaches in the future Whose Urban Renaissance is targeted at students academics planners policy makers and activists The book is unique in its geographical breadth and its constructive policy emphasis offering a succinct critical and timely exploration of urban regeneration strategies throughout the world
