Approaches and Processes of Social Science Research Tshabangu, Icarbord, Ba', Stefano, Madondo, Silas Memory, 2020-12-18 For the social sciences the approach and processes in research are quite different The type of evidence that social scientists can collect is often very dependent on the method that has been used to gather the data The type of findings that can be discussed are often not straightforward at all and no easy comparison can be made with the natural sciences although this is not impossible The methodology in the social sciences has the same role as technology and lab techniques in the natural sciences as these need to be developed rapidly to account for the increasing complexity of the natural objects to be studied The methodologies in the social sciences need to go through an intense period of critique reflection and reformulation to consider the complexity of social issues under investigation Therefore the area of social sciences research and methodologies should continually be studied to advance the field Approaches and Processes of Social Science Research presents new research methodologies in the social science field and aims at providing a broad introduction to the methodology of social research in its main theoretical foundations as well as in its practical applications Readers will develop a critical thinking attitude about social problems which in turn will sharpen their analytic approach to research This book includes four main parts philosophical perspectives strategies for conducting research common approaches for handling and collecting data and critical aspects of research writing throughout the process While highlighting topics such as critical theory in research ethical issues research processes data analysis and more this book is ideal for researchers in the social sciences and practitioners stakeholders academicians and students interested in deepening their understanding of the ideas and the practices of social science research

Intellectual Agent, Mediator and Interlocutor Toyin Falola, Emmanuel M. Mbah, 2014-06-19 Encompassing the time period from the colonial era to the present day this book critically examines the changing nature of African politics and the factors that underpin such changes We argue in the volume that many of the problems that plague contemporary politics ethnicity governance conflict bad economic policies the absence of dialogue and other social issues have their roots in the fifteen years after the Second World War just prior to independence 1945 1960 Because these issues had been grossly mismanaged by the colonial enterprise those fifteen years could arguably be characterized as the incubation period for the dysfunction that has stymied African politics since independence For it was during these transitional years that African leaders learned how not to speak to each other How to introduce meaningful dialogue to address issues between and among Africans is where the transition in African politics stands today The approach used here is interdisciplinary giving the book a wider appeal to those interested in history political science peace and conflict studies international relations and many disciplines Additionally the topics covered are so important and intellectual and have been penned by an A team of African scholars that other scholars students and professionals can use the volume as a reference text Therefore college students both undergraduate and graduate college instructors researchers policy makers and the development community working to stabilize Africa will find the book to be of immense importance Furthermore this volume will serve as a guide for advocates for the development community on how to address the numerous problems affecting the continent as well as the correct approach to boosting public awareness about contemporary African issues

adoptees as they navigate race culture and nationality Raised in white families they are ideal racial subjects in support of the trope of colorblindness as a cure for racism in America and continue to enjoy the most privileged legal status in terms of immigration and naturalization of any immigrant group built on regulations created specifically to facilitate the transfer of foreign children to American families Invisible Asians offers an engaging account that makes an important contribution to our understanding of race in America and illuminates issues of power and identity in a globalized world

Methodologies in Peace Psychology Diane Bretherton, Siew Fang Law, 2015-09-03 This volume looks at research methods through the lens of peace studies and peace values Apart from reviewing established methods from peace psychology it presents some innovative ideas for conducting research in the area of peace psychology Many of these methods are drawn from the field from activities used by active peace practitioners A critical component of this volume is its core argument that peace research should be conducted by peaceful means and should model peaceful processes Organized thematically the volume begins with a review of the established best practices in peace psychology research methodology including methods for qualitative research for quantitative research and participative action networks In doing so it also points to some of the limitations of working for peace within the tradition of a single discipline and to the need to expand psychology methodology to methodologies Therefore the second half of the volume proceeds to explore the realm of innovative relatively unorthodox research methods such as participatory and workshop methods the creative arts and sports for research purposes The use of new advances in information technology to conduct peaceful research are also discussed The concluding chapters synthesize key issues from the previous chapters and links peace psychology with ideas and implementation of research designs and practices Finally it discusses the nature of academic knowledge and more specifically academic knowledge in peace psychology and where that fits into the mission to build a more peaceful world Overall this book aims to provide peace psychologists with an array of possibilities and best practices for approaching their research Many researchers find the experience of doing research a somewhat lonely if not isolating experience Methodologies in Peace Psychology Peace Research by Peaceful Means aims to alleviate this feeling as the use of these more innovative methods leads to a closer engagement with the community and a much more social experience of research This volume is a useful tool for both new and experienced researchers because it provides leads for idealistic young researchers who want their work to make a difference in addition to encouraging more reflection and analysis for experienced peace psychologists

The 'Local Turn' in Peacebuilding Joakim Ojendal, Isabell Schierenbeck, Caroline Hughes, 2018-10-11 Contemporary practices of international peacebuilding and post conflict reconstruction are often unsatisfactory There is now a growing awareness of the significance of local governments and local communities as an integrated part of peacebuilding in order to improve quality and enhance precision of interventions In spite of this the local is rarely a key factor in peacebuilding hence everyday peace is hardly achieved The aim of this volume is threefold firstly it illuminates the substantial reasons for working with a more localised approach in politically volatile contexts Secondly it consolidates a growing debate on the significance of the local in these contexts Thirdly it problematizes the often too swiftly used concept the local and critically discuss to what extent it is at all feasible to integrate this into macro oriented and securitized contexts This is a unique volume tackling the local turn of peacebuilding in a comprehensive and critical way This book was published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly Research Methods in Conflict Settings Dyan Mazurana, Karen Jacobsen, Lacey Andrews Gale, 2013-07-22 This volume compiles lessons learned by field researchers many of whom have faced demanding situations characterized by violence distrust and social fragmentation The Myth of Self-Reliance Naohiko Omata, 2017-06 For many refugees economic survival in refugee camps is extraordinarily difficult Drawing on both qualitative and quantitative research conducted over several years this volume challenges the reputation of a self reliant model given to Buduburam refugee camp in Ghana and sheds light on considerable economic inequality between refugee households The Myth of Self Reliance provides valuable insights into refugees experiences of repatriation to Liberia after protracted exile and their responses to the ending of refugee status for remaining refugees in Ghana
