Ritual And Spontaneity In The Psychoanalytic Process A Dialectical Constructivist View:

Ritual and Spontaneity in the Psychoanalytic Process Irwin Z. Hoffman, 2014-06-03 The psychoanalytic process is characterized by a complex weave of interrelated polarities transference and countertransference repetition and new experience enactment and interpretation discipline and personal responsiveness the intrapsychic and the interpersonal construction and discovery In Ritual and Spontaneity in the Psychoanalytic Process Irwin Z Hoffman through compelling clinical accounts demonstrates the great therapeutic potential that resides in the analyst's struggle to achieve a balance within each of these dialectics According to Hoffman the psychoanalytic modality implicates a dialectic tension between interpersonal influence and interpretive exploration a tension in which noninterpretive and interpretive interactions continuously elicit one another It follows that Hoffman's dialectical constructivism highlights the intrinsic ambiguity of experience an ambiguity that coexists with the irrefutable facts of a person's life including the fact of mortality The analytic situation promotes awareness of the freedom to shape one's life story within the constraints of given realities Hoffman deems it a special kind of crucible for the affirmation of worth and the construction of meaning in a highly uncertain world The analyst in turn emerges as a moral influence with an ironic kind of authority one that is enhanced by the ritualized aspects of the analytic process even as it is subjected to critical scrutiny An intensely clinical work Ritual and Spontaneity in the Psychoanalytic Process forges a new understanding of the curative possibilities that grow out of the tensions the choices and the constraints inhering in the intimate encounter of a psychoanalyst and a patient Compelling reading for all analysts and analytic therapists it will also be powerfully informative for scholars in the social sciences and the humanities Kohut, Loewald and the Postmoderns Judith G. Teicholz, 2015-12-22 In Kohut Loewald and the Postmoderns Judith Teicholz using the contemporary critique of Kohut and Loewald as a touchstone of inquiry into the current status of psychoanalysis focuses on a select group of postmodern theorists whose recent writings comprise a questioning subtext to Kohut's and Loewald's ideas Acutely aware of the important differences among these theorists Teicholz nonetheless believes that their respective contributions which present psychoanalysis as an interactive process in which the analyst's own subjectivity plays a constitutive role in the joint construction of meanings achieve shared significance as a postmodern critique of Kohut and Loewald She is especially concerned with the relationship both theoretically and technically between Kohut's emphasis on the analyst's empathic resonance with the analysand's viewpoint and affect and the postmodern theorists' shared insistence on the expression of the analyst's own subjectivity in the treatment situation Her analysis incorporates fine insight into the tensions and ambiguities in Kohut and Loewald whose work ultimately emerges as a way station between modern and postmodern viewpoints and her appreciation of Kohut and Loewald as transitional theorists makes for an admirably even handed exposition She emphasizes throughout the various ways in which Kohut and Loewald gave nascent expression to postmodern attitudes but she is no less appreciative of the originality of postmodern theorists who address genuine lacunae in the thought and writings of these exemplars of an earlier generation Teicholz's examination of what she terms two overlapping partial revolutions in psychoanalysis that of Kohut and Loewald on one hand and of the postmoderns on the other throws an illuminating searchlight on the path psychoanalysis has traveled over the last quarter of the 20th century

Toward a Psychology of Uncertainty Doris Brothers, 2011-04-12 Since trauma is a thoroughly relational phenomenon it is highly unpredictable and cannot be made to fit within the scientific framework Freud so admired In Toward a Psychology of Uncertainty Trauma Centered Psychoanalysis Doris Brothers urges a return to a trauma centered psychoanalysis Making use of relational systems theory she shows that experiences of uncertainty are continually transformed by the regulatory processes of everyday life such as feeling knowing forming categories making decisions using language creating narratives sensing time remembering forgetting and fantasizing Insofar as trauma destroys the certainties that organize psychological life it plunges our relational systems into chaos and sets the stage for the emergence of rigid life constricting relational patterns These trauma generated patterns which often involve denial of sameness and difference the creation of complexity reducing dualities and the transformation of certainty into certitude figure prominently in virtually all of the complaints for which patients seek analytic treatment Analysts she claims are no more strangers to trauma than are their patients Using in depth clinical illustrations Dr Brothers demonstrates how a mutual desire to heal and to be healed from trauma draws patients and analysts into their analytic relationships She recommends the reconceptualization of what has heretofore been considered transference and countertransference in terms of the transformation of experienced uncertainty In her view the increased ability of both analytic partners to live with uncertainty is the mark of a successful treatment Dr Brothers perspective sheds fresh light on a variety of topics of great general interest to analysts as well as many of their patients such as gender the acceptance of death faith cult like training programs and burnout Her discussions of these topics are enlivened by references to contemporary cinema and theatre
