

School library positions and roles

Teacher Librarian

Teacher librarians are responsible for leading the design, management and evaluation of all aspects of library operations. They teach classes, work with students on information and digital literacy-related tasks, collaborate with teaching staff and lead initiatives to enhance teaching and learning. They are specialists in literature for young people and actively support wellbeing in schools. Teacher librarians possess high-level curriculum knowledge and pedagogical expertise and are qualified to supervise an entire library team.

Other role titles

Teacher in charge of library, Head of library, Library Manager

Qualifications

Teacher librarians hold qualifications that meet eligibility for teacher registration in respective jurisdictions, along with an ASA accredited graduate or post graduate library and information qualification<sup>1</sup> that includes specialisations related to the school library context.

Librarians

Librarians are trained to lead the design, management, and evaluation of all aspects of school library operations with a strong focus on assisting people and organisations. They possess unique skills for developing and managing collections and retrieving information. Librarians are qualified to manage major projects including information technology systems and applications in a resource environment. They are trained to supervise and lead library staff.

Other role titles

Head of Library, Library Manager, School Librarian

Qualifications

Librarians and information managers hold an ASA accredited undergraduate or post graduate university qualification in library and information studies<sup>1</sup>.

Library Technicians

Library technicians usually work under the supervision of a teacher librarian or librarian and play a vital role in creating access to school library and information resources. Library technicians have knowledge and skills in cataloguing and the technical management of digital collections, such as ClickView, ebooks, and databases.

A library technician with a Diploma knows how to effectively use the detailed components of Library Management Systems and has knowledge and skills to effectively maintain and promote the school library collection. Library technicians are trained to contribute ideas about library design and user needs and services (both online and physical) and can take the lead in marketing the school library and developing innovations to best support teaching staff, students and the wider school community.

Other role titles

AI/Digital Library Technician

Qualifications

Library technicians hold an ASA accredited Diploma in Library and Information Studies<sup>1</sup>, usually delivered through a TAFE institute.

Library Assistant

Library assistants work as part of a service team assisting teacher librarians, teachers, librarians or library technicians with tasks and procedures. Library assistants maintain the library environment, assist students and teachers with how to use information services, provide data entry and undertake general administration and data entry and participate in program delivery where appropriate.

Other role titles

Library Officer, School Support Officer (Library), Education Support Officer (Library), Teacher Aide (Library)

Qualifications

No formal qualification is required for library assistant roles, however many TAFE and private vocational education providers offer Certificate I, II and IV in library and information services that can enhance an individual's skills and employment prospects for this type of position.
