The SAGE Encyclopedia of African Cultural Heritage in North America Mwalimu J. Shujaa, Kenya J. Shujaa, 2015-07-13 The Encyclopedia of African Cultural Heritage in North America provides an accessible ready reference on the retention and continuity of African culture within the United States Our conceptual framework holds first that culture is a form of self knowledge and knowledge about self in the world as transmitted from one person to another Second that African people continuously create their own cultural history as they move through time and space Third that African descended people living outside of Africa are also contributors to and participate in the creation of African cultural history Entries focus on illuminating Africanisms cultural retentions traceable to an African origin and cultural continuities ongoing practices and processes through which African culture continues to be created and formed Thus the focus is more culturally specific and less concerned with the broader transatlantic demographic political and geographic issues that are the focus of similar recent reference works We also focus less on biographies of individuals and political and economic ties and more on processes and manifestations of African cultural heritage and continuity artistic and literary productions A second parallel strand focuses on the fight for political and social inclusion or on the dynamics beneath the recognition of group and gender identities to explore how activism and artistic literary productions challenge received identity boundaries and accepted social and cultural hierarchies Bringing together recognition and transcoding transcodification the book deconstructs crystalized and codified categories and celebrates the crossing of boundaries

The Grasp That Reaches beyond the Grave Venetria K. Patton, 2013-01-01 Explores black women writers treatment of the ancestor figure The Grasp That Reaches beyond the Grave investigates the treatment of the ancestor figure in Toni Cade Bambara s The Salt Eaters Paule Marshall s Praisesong for the Widow Phyllis Alesia Perry s Stigmata and A Sunday in June Toni Morrison s Beloved Tananarive Due s The Between and Julie Dash s film Daughters of the Dust in order to understand how they draw on African cosmology and the interrelationship of ancestors elders and children to promote healing within the African American community Venetria K Patton suggests that the experience of slavery with its concomitant view of black women as natally dead has impacted African American women writers emphasis on elders and ancestors as they seek means to counteract notions of black women as somehow disconnected from the progeny of their wombs This misperception is in part addressed via a rich kinship system which includes the living and the dead Patton notes an uncanny connection between depictions of elder ancestor and child figures in these texts and Kongo cosmology These references suggest that these works are examples of Africanisms or African retentions which continue to impact African American culture

Spirituality as Ideology in Black Women's Film and Literature Judylyn S. Ryan, 2005 Given the ways in which spirituality functions in the work of such Black women writers and filmmakers as Toni Morrison Ntozake Shange Maya Angelou Julie Dash and Euzhan Palcy Judylyn Ryan proposes in this challenging new study that what these women embrace in their narrative construction and characterization is the role and responsibility of the priestess bearing and distributing life force to sustain the community of people who read and view their work Central to these women's vision of transformation is what Ryan calls a paradigm of growth and an ethos of interconnectedness which provide interpretive models for examining and teaching a broad range of artistic cultural and social texts The focus on theology provides a new way of viewing the connections among New World African diaspora religious traditions challenging the widespread and reductive assumption that Afro Christianity shares no philosophical commonalities with Santeria Candomble Voodoo and other traditions that are not christological In addition to exploring spirituality as epistemology the book also provides an intertextual reading of Black women's literary and film texts that examines the ways in which these works expose mediate and interpret the cultural social and historical conditions surrounding their production While most discussions of Black women's engagement with and contribution to the discursive space of the culture assume an oppositional or reactive stance Ryan argues that the disposition reflected in the texts she examines tends to be relational and proactive conferring an autonomy that the gravitational pull between opposites lacks This intertextual reading constitutes a multimedia auteur criticism of a collective artistic vision
