Managing in Health Care Lesley Dowding, Jill Barr, 2018-10-08 Appropriate for health administrators in departments of sociology social policy and nursing Students in pre registration programmes and those meeting management theory for the first time There can be little doubt that the reforms of the last few decades within the health service have had a major impact on the management responsibilities for nurses midwives and health visitors Integrating management theory and principles with nursing practice Managing in the Healthcare demonstrates how the concepts and principles of management are intrinsically linked to the work that nurses do Feminist Ethics and Social Policy Rianne Mahon, Fiona Robinson, 2011-08-25 As national borders become more permeable women are increasingly travelling from poor to rich countries to take up jobs as care workers The struggle to maintain a healthy work care balance in Western nations is creating a care deficit in the developing world This volume links ethics to the social politics of care by examining the implications of the feminization of migrant labour and the shortcomings of social policy From Canada to Sweden and from Korea to Japan renowned and emerging scholars reveal that a truly feminist ethics of care must be grounded in the concrete lives of real people working in transnational webs of social relations Ageing in Contexts of Migration Ute Karl,Sandra Torres,2015-08-20 Population ageing and the globalisation of international migration are challenging the research agendas of social scientists around the world and posing numerous challenges for policy makers and practitioners whose goal is to formulate and design high quality and user friendly policies and services Both of these phenomena have brought for example attention to the fact that more and more people around the world are ageing in countries other than those where they were born The fact that elderly care sectors around the world need to recruit staff if they are to handle the growing number of older people that will need their services is also something that has been discussed when population ageing and the globalisation of international migration have been debated The elderly care sector s reliance on people with migrant backgrounds has namely increased as a result of these phenomena This collection is therefore situated at the intersection of ageing and migration studies and takes into account the various issues with which this intersection is concerned The chapters in this volume are written by established researchers in the field of ageing and migration around the world The collection explores these issues in three sections Elderly care regimes and migration regimes national perspectives Ageing in contexts of migration a multifaceted phenomenon Elderly care and migration The expert contributions in this volume address the array of issues associated with the study of ageing old age and elderly care in contexts of migration Health planning reports subject index United States.
