Nutritional Effectiveness of Food Subsidies and Other Food-related Interventions Eileen T. Kennedy, Harold Alderman, 1987 Introduction Food subsidy measures and their nutritional impact a conceptual overview Typology of nutrition interventions Targeting Cost and administrative concerns of food transfer programs Other issues related to food subsidies Comparative analysis of selected nutrition interventions Conclusions      Parents' Cultural Belief Systems Sara Harkness, Charles M. Super, 1996-01-01 This illuminating new volume offers a multifaceted view of parenting cultural belief systems their origins in culturally constructed parental experience their expressions in parental practices and their consequences for children's well being and growth Discussing issues with implications beyond the study of parenthood the book shows how the analysis of child outcomes which relate to parents cultural belief systems or parental ethnotheories can provide valuable insights into the nature and meaning of family and self in society and in some cases a basis for culturally sensitive therapeutic interventions Illuminating the powerful influence of parents cultural belief systems on the health and development of children this volume will be welcomed by a broad audience Anthropologists and psychologists interested in cultural theory and the interface of self and society will find a rich source of ideas and information Parent educators family therapists pediatricians and others who deal with ethnically diverse populations will discover invaluable information on what makes parents think and act the way they do The book can be used as a primary text for courses in cognitive anthropology and cultural psychology and as an auxiliary text for culturally oriented courses in lifespan development education health and human services      Famine B. Currey, G. Hugo, 2012-12-06      The Biological Standard Of Living On Three Continents John Komlos, 2019-07-11 The effort of anthropometric historians to unearth the broad patterns of human biological well being has led to the examination of nearly forgotten centuries old records from dusty archives in practically all the continents of the globe French historians in the Annales tradition were among the first to adopt methods from physical anthropology and from the biological sciences but the real expansion of the field dates from the pathbreaking work of Richard Steckel and Robert Fogel which launched the discipline of anthropometric history on American soil Research has confirmed that physical stature is related to nutritional status and therefore to real family income and thus to the general standard of living Historians and development economists will find this line of research useful as it informs us about the standard of living of members of society for whom data on wages are seldom available women children aristocrats farmers and slaves In addition this research has shown that the biological standard of living may diverge from conventional indicators of welfare during the early stages of industrialization Thus per capita income is an ambiguous measure of welfare during some phases of growth and it must be supplemented with data from other indicators such as physical stature The essays in this volume broaden our knowledge of the human effects of the momentous economic changes of the last two centuries extending analysis to regions for which such information has been lacking including Russia Canada Indonesia Italy and Spain

Latin American Societies in Transition Robert C. Williamson, 1997-01-14 This is an examination of the social structures that shape Latin American societies Knowledge of demography rural and urban life and ethnic and status relationships is critical for understanding the political and economic fabric of those societies Although the author draws on materials from all the social sciences the primary frame of reference is sociological The book presents in an organized form the findings from an ever growing number of studies about Latin American society The book proceeds from a brief introduction of the political and economic patterns of Latin America to an examination of the country as a social system The focus of the text is an analysis of social processes and structures as well as the major social institutions A prevailing theme is the extent to which Latin America is a society in conflict and change among the questions raised are the interrelationships between different systems How does the ethnic structure relate to stratification based on criteria other than race What avenues of mobility are to be found in the class system What are the linkages between rapid urbanization and the economy How is the power distributed between the older oligarchy and the new commercial and industrial elites What is the role of an emerging middle class To what degree can urban migrants move beyond their marginal position in a competitive urban society How effectively can Latin America function in the international scene

Industrial Relations and the Canadian Charter of Rights Marian Dworaczek,1988 The Demographic Transition and Development in Africa Charles Teller,Assefa Hailemariam,2011-03-04 The heated Malthusian Bosrupian debates still rage over consequences of high population growth rapid urbanization dense rural populations and young age structures in the face of drought poverty food insecurity environmental degradation climate change instability and the global economic crisis However while facile generalizations about the lack of demographic change and lack of progress in meeting the MDGs in sub Saharan Africa are commonplace they are often misleading and belie the socio cultural change that is occurring among a vanguard of more educated youth Even within Ethiopia the second largest country at the Crossroads of Africa and the Middle East different narratives emerge from analysis of longitudinal micro level analysis as to how demographic change and responses are occurring some more rapidly than others The book compares Ethiopia with other Africa countries and demonstrates the uniqueness of an African type demographic transition a combination of poverty related negative factors unemployment disease food insecurity along with positive education health and higher age of marriage trends that are pushing this ruggedly rural and land locked population to accelerate the demographic transition and stay on track to meet most of the MDGs This book takes great care with the challenges of inadequate data and weak analytical capacity to research this incipient transition trying to unravel some of the complexities in this vulnerable Horn of Africa country A slowly declining population growth rates with rapidly declining child mortality very high chronic under nutrition already low urban fertility but still very high rural fertility and high population resource pressure along with rapidly growing small urban places

Public Administration Series--Bibliography ,1988-04 Famine in East Africa Ronald E. Seavoy,1989-09-27 Efforts to commercialize agriculture in peasant societies through investments in technology and various pricing strategies have failed to create the food surpluses needed to forestall famine and support industrialization in East Africa Seavoy explores this problem basing his study on the case of Tanzania a country that experiences recurrent peacetime famines associated with failures in subsistence agriculture Providing an analysis of East African subsistence culture he investigates the failures of national agricultural policies and defines strategies for inducing subsistence farmers to shift to commercial production Seavoy looks at various development initiatives involving technological inputs political pressure taxation and land tenure provisions and their effects on the political economy of subsistence agriculture He presents a detailed survey of subsistence culture its agricultural and pastoral practices and such variables as labor topography rainfall and population density The shaping of the East African political economy under colonial rule is discussed together with the economic social and political legacy that has persisted to the present day Seavoy examines Tanzanian agricultural policy which has aimed at facilitating the transition to commercial agriculture He finds that the country is a long way from achieving the assured food surpluses that would enable the nation to support an urban industrial workforce Among the underlying causes he notes the continuing population explosion the farmers objections to commercialized agriculture and deficiencies in the physical infrastructure trained personnel and political institutions He argues that surpluses will not be created until political leaders use the power of national government to enforce the shift to commercial production A noteworthy and original contribution to development literature this work is relevant to studies in modern political economy Third World development agricultural economy and related disciplines      Medical and Health Care Books and Serials in Print ,1986      Energy Intake and Activity Ernesto Pollitt,Peggy Amante,1984 Abstract A collection of 18 authoritative review papers taken from a series of related workshops addresses various aspects of the association of energy intake with physical activity The papers are organized among 5 general topic areas including energy balance studies concerning the association of inappropriate energy intakes with adaptation and reproductive competence of populations methodological issues concerning energy balance studies and data in both adults and children the effects of reduced energy intake on agricultural productivity activity and metabolism motor development and sleep and microeconomic and other consequences and policy implications of reduced activity and energy intake deficiencies      Catalog Food and Nutrition Information Center (U.S.),1974      Integrating Diet Quality and Food Safety Into Food Security Programmes Marian F.
