The importance of good nutrition for individual health and well being is widely recognized yet for a significant number of people who rely on institutions for food and nutrition this importance has not always been a primary consideration People therefore may find themselves consuming food they would not ordinarily choose to eat with in some cases restricted choices precluding individual preferences and compromising health In recent years there have been major advances in the quality of catering in some areas particularly schools Other institutions which have not been thrust into the media spotlight have fared less well in terms of policy drive and commitment This insightful new book looks in detail at five institutions schools hospitals care homes for the elderly prisons and the armed forces As well as providing a fascinating history of the provision of food in each institution each section considers current policy and standards and their implementation adequacy of food provided with regard to the health status and dietary requirements of the people in the care of each institution efficiency of catering organization and issues relating to contract tendering expenditure and procurement A broad spectrum of further relevant issues is also covered including the meaning of food to those in institutions and determinants of choice Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition in Europe and Central Asia 2018 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,2019-04-02

The Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition in Europe and Central Asia 2018 provides new evidence for monitoring trends in food security and nutrition within the framework of the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda The in depth analysis of progress made against Sustainable Development Goal 2 Target 2 1 to end hunger and ensure access to food by all and Target 2 2 to end all forms of malnutrition as well as the state of micronutrient deficiencies is complemented by a review of recent policy measures taken to address food security and nutrition in all its dimensions The Europe and Central Asia ECA region encompasses great economic social and environmental diversity and its countries are facing various food security and nutrition challenges While they have made significant progress in reducing the prevalence of undernourishment over the past two decades new evidence shows a stagnation of this trend particularly in Central Asia Malnutrition in one or more of its three main forms undernutrition micronutrient deficiencies and overweight and obesity is present to varying degrees in all countries of the region Often all three forms coexist creating what is called the triple burden of malnutrition Overweight among children and obesity among adults continue to rise with now almost one fourth of the region s adults obese and constitute a significant concern for future health and well being and related costs While poverty levels in most ECA countries have been declining in recent years poverty coupled with inequality has led to increased vulnerability of disadvantaged groups and populations in rural and remote areas of low and lower middle income countries New analysis shows that adult women have a higher prevalence of severe food insecurity than men in some areas pointing to gender inequalities that are reflected in access to food Addressing gender and other inequalities is key to achieving the Sustainable Development Goals and heeding the call to leave no one behind The publication s focus this year is on migration gender and youth and the linkages with rural development and food security in Europe and Central Asia Migration is linked in multiple ways to gender youth and agricultural and rural development both as a driver and possible source of development opportunities with labour migration and remittances playing significant roles in the region Changing migration processes need to be fully understood to better address the challenges of migration and harness the potential benefits for sustainable development and revitalized rural areas Governments public and private institutions communities and other concerned parties must strengthen collaboration and scale up efforts towards achieving the goals of a thriving healthy and food secure region
