Prosopographia Imperii Romani Saec Iiiii Editio Altera Pars Vi:

Married Life in Greco-Roman Antiquity Claude-Emmanuelle Centlivres Challet, 2021-12-30 Beyond the institution of marriage its norms and rules what was life like for married couples in Greco Roman antiquity This volume explores a wide range of sources over seven centuries to uncover possible answers to this question On tombstones curse or oracular tablets in contracts petitions letters treatises biographies novels and poems throughout Egypt Greece and Rome 107 couples express themselves or are given life by their contemporaries and share their experiences of and views on marital relationships and their practical and emotional consequences Renowned scholars and the next generation of experts explore seven centuries of source material to uncover the dynamics of the married life of metropolitan and provincial famous and unknown young and old couples Men s and women s hopes fears traumas joys endeavours and needs are analysed and reveal an array of interactions and behaviours that enlighten us on gender roles social expectations and intimate dealings in antiquity Known texts are revisited new evidence is put forward and novel interpretations and concepts are offered which highlight local and chronological specificities as well as transhistorical commonalities The analysis of married life in Greco Roman antiquity from ongoing vetting process to place where to find security reveals the fundamental yearning to be included and loved and how the tensions created by the sometimes contradictory demands of traditional ideals and individual realities can be resolved furthering our knowledge of social and cultural mechanisms Married Life in Greco Roman Antiquity will provide valuable resources of interest to scholars and students of Classical studies as well as social history gender studies family history the history of emotions and microhistory

The Early Martyr Narratives Éric Rebillard, 2020-11-27 From Eusebius of Caesarea who first compiled a collection of martyr narratives around 300 to Thierry Ruinart whose Acta primorum martyrum sincera et selecta was published in 1689 the selection and study of early hagiographic narratives has been founded on an assumption that there existed documents written at the time of martyrdom or very close to it As a result a search for authenticity has been and continues to be central even in the context of today s secular scholarship But as ric Rebillard contends the alternative approach to set aside entirely the question of the historical reliability of martyr narratives is not satisfactory either Instead he argues that martyr narratives should be consider as fluid living texts written anonymously and received by audiences not as precise historical reports but as versions of the story In other words the form these texts took between fact and fiction made it possible for audiences to readily accept the historicity of the martyr while at the same time not expect to hear or read a truthful account In The Early Martyr Narratives Rebillard considers only accounts of Christian martyrs supposed to have been executed before 260 and only those whose existence is attested in sources that can be dated to before 300 The resulting small corpus contains no texts in the form of legal protocols traditionally viewed as the earliest most official and authentic records nor does it include any that can be dated to a period during which persecution of Christians is known to have taken place Rather than deduce from this that they are forgeries written for the sake of polemic or apologetic

Rebillard demonstrates how the literariness of the narratives creates a fictional complicity that challenges and complicates any claims of these narratives to be truthful

Notarii and exceptores Hans C. Teitler, 2023-01-16 In 411 AD an ecclesiastical conference was held in Carthage under the presidency of Flavius Marcellinus tribunus et notarius On that occasion exceptores and notarii ecclesiastici acted as shorthand writers Thus at this conference we meet three species of one genus at different stages of their development a tribunus et notarius a high imperial official who despite his title probably did not know how to write shorthand exceptores minor civil servants working in public offices who were certainly stenographers at the time and notarii ecclesiastici ecclesiastical bureaucrats whose task at the Carthaginian conference was to assist the exceptores with their work but who at other times were more like tribuni et notarii With the situation in 411 AD as a starting point an attempt is made to sketch the role and significance of notarii and exceptores in the Roman Empire from the Early Principate to circa 450 AD
