Wynar,2003 1970 issued in 2 vols v 1 General reference social sciences history economics business v 2 Fine arts humanities science and engineering Proteas Maryke Middelmann,2012-02-07 South Africa is situated at the Southern most tip of Africa and boasts over 21 000 species of plants all crammed into one country The Cape Floral Kingdom the smallest of the six floral kingdoms of the world occupies a mere 90 000 square kilometers in the south western corner of South Africa yet it is home to over 8 500 species of plants By comparison the British Isles which is three and a half times larger than this support only 1 400 species Only the Panama rain forest has a comparable species density to the Cape Floral Kingdom The earliest record is that of a Dutch missionary who gathered plants in 1624 when his ship replenished its water supply on the return voyage from Batavia to Holland His descriptions and drawings gave the world its first clues to a treasure house of new and exciting plants along its shores Various botanists visited the Cape in the years that followed and by the year 1700 nearly 1 000 Cape plants were known The flowers most commonly associated with South Africa are of course the proteas named by Linnaeus after the Greek god Proteus who was able to assume many different forms The name is apt as proteas are found in all shapes They may like Protea cynaroides the South African floral emblem have enormous flower heads but there are species that have flowers heads of only 30 mm diameter They even come as trees like the world famous silver tree Leucadendron argenteum This tree was reported to be cultivated in Kew Gardens England as early as 1789 The Scottish botanist Francis Masson on a great voyage around the world with Captain Cook collected no less than 400 species of plants new to scientists of Europe including 79 specimens of protea and 50 species of Cape pelargonium commonly but incorrectly known as geraniums It is difficult to compare the small sweet smelling Freesia found in the flora of the Western Cape with the impressive long stemmed Freesias which are now sold worldwide as cut flowers At the auctions in Holland Freesias worth more than 100 million US are sold annually The so called Guernsey lily is actually just another bulb from the Cape the Nerine sarniensis One explanation of how Nerine reached Guernsey is that a Dutch ship homeward bound from the Far East was wrecked on the Channel Islands On board were boxes of Cape bulbs consigned to Holland Washed ashore on Guernsey the bulbs took root and in due course to the astonishment and delight of the inhabitants flowered One of the first flowers to be shipped commercially to Europe was the Ornithogalum or Chinchinchee which because of its extremely long shelf life could be sent by sea They were in high demand in the early 1950s and seem to have made a come back with new varieties Countries such as the Netherlands Japan and Germany have developed enormous horticultural industries over the years by focusing their efforts on breeding and selection of plants many of which are native to South Africa including gladioli freesias lobelia to name but a few Proteas were not commercialised until much later because they were difficult to propagate The author had access to numerous magazine and newspaper clippings from around the world which came into her possession after the death of Walter Middelmann who was known by the family to be a great collector of books and cuttings on the many subjects that interested him This together with documents of the South African Protea Producers and Exporters Association SAPPEX and the International Protea Association IPA as well as other associations world wide makes for an interesting history It all started with wild harvesting in the early 1960s to cultivar development up to 2010 The author was the chairman of both SAPPEX and IPA for many years She was also editor of both SAPPEX News quarterly and the IPA Journal bi annually from which a wealth of information was available Apart from these documents she also relied on SIDA, Contributions to Botany, 2002 Guide to Trees Introduced into Southern Africa Hugh Glen, Braam van Wyk, 2016-08-01 Southern Africa is home to more than 2 000 introduced not indigenous trees These non native species are encountered daily and form a familiar part of our urban landscapes growing successfully in parks gardens along road sides and in other open spaces This guide features nearly 600 of the most common and familiar of these and using the same model of identification as FG Trees of Southern Africa facilitates ID based on leaf and stem features The book provides the country of origin for each species and offers key information on cultivation and uses Each entry is supported by colour images that depict key features and a shaded map that shows the plant's cold tolerance where the species can grow An essential guide for landscapers and gardeners as well as tree enthusiasts who will struggle to find these trees in their guide to indigenous trees American Book Publishing Record, 2002
