Proust Beckett And Narration:

Proust, Beckett, and Narration James H. Reid, 2003-10-13 This is a comprehensive comparison of the narrative techniques of two of the twentieth century's most important writers of prose. Using a combination of theoretical analysis and close readings of Proust's A la recherche du temps perdu and Beckett's trilogy of novels Molloy, Malone Dies, and The Unnamable, James H. Reid compares the two novelists' use of first person narration in constructing and demystifying fictions of consciousness. Reid focuses on the narrator's search to represent the voice that speaks the novel; a search, he argues, that structures first person narration in the works of both novelists. He examines in detail the significant impact of Proust's writing on Beckett's own work as well as Beckett's subtle reworkings of Proust's themes and strategies. This study is an important contribution to critical literature and offers fresh perspectives on the crucial importance of the Recherche and the trilogy in the context of the twentieth century novel.

Stories for Nothing Paul B. Kelley, 2002 Kelley presents a critical examination of the underlying poetic structures and narrative strategies of Samuel Beckett's major extended works in prose from the trilogy onward. Throughout the text, Kelley refers to Beckett's 1931 monograph on Marcel Proust and draws attention to Beckett's originality as well as his debt to the French writer. Kelley teaches French at Wake Forest University.

Modernism, Narrative and Humanism Paul Sheehan, 2002-08-01 In Modernism, Narrative and Humanism, Paul Sheehan attempts to redefine modernist narrative for the twenty-first century. For Sheehan, modernism presents a major form of critique of the fundamental presumptions of humanism. By pairing key modernist writers with philosophical critics of the humanist tradition, he shows how modernists sought to discover humanism's inhuman potential. He examines the development of narrative during the modernist period and sets it against, among others, the nineteenth-century philosophical writings of Schopenhauer, Darwin, and Nietzsche. Focusing on the major novels and poetics of Conrad, Lawrence, Woolf, and Beckett, Sheehan investigates these writers' mistrust of humanist orthodoxy and their consequent transformations and disfigurements of narrative order. He reveals the crucial link between the modernist novel's narrative concerns and its philosophical orientation in a book that will be of compelling interest to scholars of modernism and literary theory.

Modern Manuscripts and the Pre-History of Digital Humanities Alex Christie, 2024-06-01 While text processing is often associated with the digital humanities, it is still seen as worlds apart from literary modernism and its aesthetic preoccupations. This book upsets that narrative. Examining literary manuscripts from some of the twentieth century's best-known and lesser-known novelists, from Marcel Proust to Mina Loy, Alex Christie reveals where authors experimented with proto-digital writing methods by hand. Instead of looking to computers as sources of inspiration, the authors discussed turned to twentieth-century media for their ability to reveal new layers of the material world. From analog fantasies of contacting the dead to digital anxieties of invisible information, the aesthetic ambitions of these novels can be traced back to their authors' interest in emerging media devices and their technical operation. To capture the magic of such devices through writing these authors devised radical methods for generating literary text anticipating today's digital humanities A Reader's Guide to Proust's 'In Search of Lost Time' David Ellison, 2010-02-18 A detailed analysis of Proust's masterpiece aimed at students coming to the work for the first time Weakness: A Literary and Philosophical History Michael O'Sullivan, 2012-05-24 Examining the nature of weakness has inspired some of the most influential aesthetic and philosophical portraits of the human condition By reading a selection of canonical literary and philosophical texts Michael O'Sullivan charts a history of responses to the experience and exploration of weakness Beginning with Plato and Aristotle this first book length study of the concept explores weakness as it is interpreted by Lao Tzu Nietzsche Derrida the Romantics Dickens and the Modernists It examines what feminist writers Simone de Beauvoir and Luce Irigaray have made of the gendered biomythology constructed around the figure of the weaker vessel and it considers related notions such as im-potentiality a syntax of weakness and human vulnerability in the work of Agamben Beckett and Coetzee Through analysis of these differing versions of weakness O'Sullivan's study challenges the popular myth that aligns masculine identity with strength and force and presents a humane weakness as a guiding motif for debates in ethics Proust's Snobs, Inverts, and Jews Adeline Soldin, 2025-03-06 An intersectional investigation of identity formation in Marcel Proust's magnum opus As metonyms for broader categories such as class sexuality and ethnicity the three most discussed identity groups in Proust's La Recherche du Temps Perdu snobs invertes and Jews prove to be deeply intertwined and perplexing representations Attentive to these interwoven complexities Proust's Snobs Inverts and Jews examines the novelist's exploitation of classification systems as a means to subvert the notion of a fixed identity To illustrate Proust's challenges to a social order that restricts our perceptions of identity Adeline Soldin addresses the inconsistencies and friction surrounding the portrayal of these key figures in his seven volume novel Many scholars have recognized that the narrator's formative journey in La Recherche leads to disillusionment and increased mockery of his fellow characters Soldin contends however that Proust does not merely deride characters' behavior but rather interrogates their diverse motivations and tendencies thereby exposing the performative nature of identity Proust's Snobs Inverts and Jews draws on Judith Butler's theories of performativity to illustrate Proust's precocious portrayal of identity in La Recherche as an elusive unattainable idea that characters pursue yet consistently fail to establish Ultimately the enigmatic and anonymous narrator models fluidity and promotes fantasy and imagination to compensate for the limitations imposed on individuals by social and linguistic conventions The Prosthetic Imagination Peter Boxall, 2020-09-03 In The Prosthetic Imagination leading critic Peter Boxall argues that we are now entering an artificial age in which our given bodies enter into new conjunctions with our prosthetic extensions This new age requires us to reimagine our relation to our bodies and to our environments and Boxall suggests that the novel as a form can guide us in this imaginative task Across a dazzling range of prose fictions from Thomas More's Utopia to Margaret Atwood's Oryx and Crake Boxall shows how the novel has played a central role in forging the bodies in which we extend ourselves into the world But if the novel has helped to give our world a human shape it also contains forms of life that elude our existing human architectures new amalgams of the living and the non living that are the hidden province of the novel imagination These latent conjunctions Boxall argues are preserved in the novel form and offer us images of embodied being that can help us orient ourselves to our new prosthetic condition

Genetic Narratology Dirk Van Hulle, 2024-12-17 Genetic Narratology is the first full length volume to merge genetic criticism with narratology offering an innovative approach to understanding literature By examining the creative process behind literary works through drafts manuscripts and revisions this book reveals how narratives are shaped in real time Through diverse case studies from Charlotte Bront to Stephen King this collection demonstrates how the material processes of writing influence narrative structure pacing and even the untold By integrating genetic criticism with narratological methods contributors explore how stories evolve providing fresh insights into time space character and suspense Bridging the gap between the production and reception of texts this volume makes a compelling case for incorporating genetic methods into broader narratological frameworks enhancing not only our understanding of the genesis of literary works ultimately enriching the reading experience but also our awareness of the ways we narrativise this genesis The book will be of interest to students and researchers alike offering a new set of tools for analysing narrative across different versions
