

Scenario – Sexual Abuse 1

Discuss the scenario on the following page with staff and work through the questions together.

What are your current concerns?

Staff should identify that there are several indicators that point towards both neglect and/or sexual abuse. These are:

- History of recorded neglect (e.g. poor clothing, recurring illnesses, poor sanitation resulting in flea bites)
- A range of other adults living in the home coupled with inadequate supervision
- Jesse fidgets and appears to have an itchy bottom/genitals
- Jesse tells you they can do whatever they like when relatives visit (inadequate supervision)
- Jesse's mother says the itching is probably due to fleas again – she could be unaware of what's taking place, be part of the abuse or allowing it to happen, therefore failing to protect Jesse from harm
- Jesse acts out sexualised behaviour on other pupils
- Jesse tells you they've seen videos of naked people and was shown it by their cousin
- Jesse seems to be unaware that what they've done is wrong

Like in many incidents of child abuse, several types of abuse can occur simultaneously. At times, this can make what appears to be happening seem more or less severe than what's actually occurring. For example, in this scenario, it's feasible that Jesse's indicators are a result of neglect until they speak about the video at the very end. Even the humping that Jesse acts out could be attributed to the fact there are many dogs in the household. This is why practitioners should always be curious, maintain an attitude of "it could happen here" and ask non-leading questions to gain a true picture of what's taking place.

What are your immediate next steps?

You should ensure staff can detail the appropriate safeguarding procedures in your setting and how they'd follow them. This is a good opportunity to discuss how staff can take a disclosure effectively, including taking as much time as needed to listen to the pupil, showing care and empathy, and speaking carefully to not retraumatise a pupil. Ensure staff know how/where to record this information and how they would pass it on to the safeguarding team.

There's also the opportunity to discuss whether this scenario would reach a threshold for social care involvement. Make staff aware that in cases where there could be a criminal case (e.g. child sexual abuse), you do not always need to inform parents/carers that you are making a referral to children's social care. If in any doubt about this, it is advisable to contact your local safeguarding/social care team to ask for clarity on the referral process.

Would you share this information with anyone or consider taking any further action?

Consider whether Jesse's parents would be spoken to and whether doing so would put them at further risk of harm. Would staff want to put anything into place for Jesse, such as pastoral support? What consideration could be given to the pupils who Jesse carried out the sexual acts on?

With hindsight, could anything have been done differently in this scenario?

Improving Child and Family Welfare Andy Wachtel, Canada. National Welfare Grants Division, 1994 This paper examines a set of 11 recently funded National Welfare Grants demonstration projects from this vantage point Five deal with child sexual abuse either in terms of how to organize our response to it more effectively or what treatment approaches are useful Three consider child welfare issues that are related to indirect or secondary abuse children who grow up with violence even if they are not the targets and children whom we try to protect by taking into alternative care The final trio of projects tests family support models These are approaches that try to develop stronger parental social networks or pro family neighborhood structures to attack the underlying problems that cause or permit abuse

Child Survivors and Perpetrators of Sexual Abuse Mic Hunter, 1995-03-14 If you're looking for new and innovative ways of working with survivors of child and adolescent sexual abuse or child juvenile perpetrators of sexual abuse then look no further Mic Hunter and a talented team of professionals begin by offering concise practical discussions on topics related to survivors including managing self regulation disorders in sexually abused boys treating ritual abuse survivors and inpatient treatment of adolescent survivors of sexual abuse Next the contributors focus on treating the child juvenile offender examining such issues as treating abuse reactive children parallel treatment for parents of abuse reactive children societal responses to sexually aggressive children and identifying and responding to juvenile sexual abuse offenders For each issue examined contributors offer concrete directions for intervention Written both for practitioners and advanced clinical students this accessibly written volume will serve as a valuable resource This book is like going to a conference and getting all the best presentations Models a nice concrete technique for use with a problem population Sandra K Hewitt Ph D Private Practice Edina Minnesota This excellent short paperback contains well written well referenced chapters by leading figures in the field of child abuse and neglect covering an ambitious range of topics involving child survivors as well as children who sexually abuse other children This small book is a timely and important addition to the sexual abuse literature and will be of particular interest to those professionals working with children and young people who show sexually coercive or abusing behaviour towards other children Eileen Vizard in Young Minds Newsletter The book is subtitled treatment innovations and this sets the tone for its whole approach This is a readable and practical book written for clinicians and is obviously based on much solid clinical experience The chapter on ritual abuse is particularly good being both readable and thought provoking It is a very thorough examination of the difficulties which can arise in working with severely abused people and tackles very realistically the potential risks for both client and therapist when working with very damaged individuals The thorny issues surrounding the validity of recovered memories are also tackled extremely well Overall the book is an excellent review of current understanding and treatment of sexually abused children and adolescents However clinicians working with adult survivors of abuse will also find much that is useful in the book Carol Sellars in Clinical Psychology Forum
