Pulping The South Third World Tree Plantations In The Global Paper Economy:

Industrial Tree Plantations and the Land Rush in China Yunan Xu, 2020-03-12 This book analyses the political and economic causes mechanisms and impacts of the industrial tree plantation boom in China In the past two decades the industrial tree plantation sector has been expanding rapidly in China especially in Guangxi Province Based on extensive primary data this book concentrates on the political economy of the sector s expansion with a focus on the recent and dramatic agrarian transformation involving the land labour nexus the impact on villagers livelihoods the role of the state and political reactions from below The book questions the stereotypical portrayal of local communities as the excluded villager Instead it demonstrates that this is a much more complex issue with varying levels of passive and active forms of inclusion and exclusion within local communities While most literature focuses on crop booms for food and biofuel production the industrial plantation sector has largely been overlooked despite it being one of the biggest sectors in the current rush for land Filling this lacuna this book also reveals that while China has traditionally been painted as a major land grabber and consumer of crop booms it is also a destination of foreign investment In doing so the book highlights how large scale foreign land deals can also take place in traditional grabber countries like China which feeds into the wider debates about global land politics and resource grabbing This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of land grabbing rural development and agrarian transformations as well as Chinese development

Pulping the South Ricardo Carriere, Larry Lohmann, 1996-08-15 The expansion of the pulp and paper industry is one of the most important causes of land and water conflicts in the South This book examines the threat to livelihood soil and biodiversity generated by large scale pulpwood plantations in the South

Tree Plantation Extractivism in Chile Alejandro Mora-Motta, 2024-03-29 This book examines how extractivism transforms territories and affects the well being of rural people drawing on in depth fieldwork conducted on tree plantations in Chile The book argues that pine and eucalyptus monoculture plantations in southern Chile are a form of extractivism representing a mode of nature appropriation that captures large amounts of natural resources to produce wooden based raw materials with little processing and an export oriented focus The book discusses the nexus of extractivism territorial transformations well being and emerging resistances using a participatory action research methodological approach in the Region of Los R os southern Chile The findings show how the configuration of an extractivist logging enclave generated a substantial and irrevocable reordering of human nature relations resulting in the territorial and ontological occupation of rural places that disrupted the fundamental human needs of peasants and indigenous people The book maintains that Chile s green growth development approach does not challenge the consolidated tree plantation enclave controlled by large multinationals Instead green growth legitimises the extractivist logic The book draws parallels with other countries and regions to contribute to wider debates surrounding these topics This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of the extractive industries development studies political ecology and natural resource governance

Capitalism in the Age of Globalization Samir Amin, 1997-02-15 This is an analysis of the increasingly differentiated regions of the South the former Eastern bloc countries and Western Europe The author integrates his economic arguments about the nature of the crisis with political arguments based on his vision of human history as the product of social response to material realities The book analyzes the rise of ethnicity and fundamentalism and deconstructs the Bretton Woods institutions notably the IMF and the World Bank as managerial mechanisms protecting the profitability of capital World Forests, Markets and Policies Matti Palo, J. Uusivuori, G. Mery, 2012-12-06 In the 1990s the world community has arrived at a particularly in developing countries and in economic historical turning point Global issues the decline of forests in transition These three organizations have of biological diversity climate change the fate of different backgrounds and focuses but have found forest peoples fresh water scarcity desertification it relevant and rewarding to their core operations to deforestation and forest degradation have come collaborate in WFSE activities The intention of to dominate the public and political debate about these organizations is to continue supporting the forestry In the economic sphere forest industries WFSE research and developing the mutual collaboration have assumed global dimensions oration The World Forests Society and Environment In the year 2000 WFSE took on a new challenge Research Program WFSE is a response by the re extending its research network to involve five new search community to this globalization The WFSE Associate Partners the Center for International slogan Globalization calls for global research re Forestry Research CIFOR in Indonesia the Center for both the means and the end of the program or for Research and Higher Education on Natural The program is involved in promoting and executing Resources of Tropical America CATIE in Costa Rica ing research in different parts of the world and Rica the International Center for Research in Agro through its publications and communications network Forestry ICRAF in Kenya the World Forestry work linking researchers worldwide Financing Pulp Mills: An Appraisal of Risk Assessment and Safeguard Procedures Machteld Spek, 2005-01-01 This study analyses the risk assessment and socio environmental safeguard procedures associated with the financing of pulp mill projects The type and cost of the fibre source is clearly key to the economic competitiveness of any pulp mill Nevertheless investment institutions often carry out only limited assessment of the fibre source of the proposed mill Although a growing number of financial institutions have adopted policies to employ social and environmental safeguard screening for investments in developing countries and transitioning economies the scope of such screenings is in fact quite limited and they are often implemented ineffectively Provided by publisher Complex Systems Theory and Development Practice Samir Rihani, 2002 Ranging over a wide terrain of social political and economic thinking and specific country experiences the author explains the key concepts in complex systems theory and their possible applications in development practice He examines various development issues and institutions in the light of what he sees as the limitations of rigid linear thinking in an essentially fluid non linear world Little wonder he concludes that the results of half a century of development effort have been so disappointing BOOK JACKET Vital Signs 1998-1999 Lester R. Environmentalism, Ethical Trade, and Commodification Adam Henne, 2015-06-05 This book explores the global connections between Chilean landscapes and Northern consumers embodied by the Forest Stewardship Council logo the green seal of approval for certified sustainably produced good wood How do we decide what makes good forestry What knowledges and values are expressed or silenced when good is defined with a market mechanism like certification Henne s ethnographic study documents the new forms of labor and the new expectations about sustainability and responsibility that certification generates in the context of the competing ideas about how to manage a forest or even what a forest is that constitute forest certification in Chile A critical analysis of certification s practices helps understand the role of ethical trade initiatives in creating sustainable survivable global futures

Forest Restoration in Landscapes Stephanie Mansourian, Daniel Vallauri, 2006-02-23 Is it a sign of the times that last year the Nobel committee chose to award the Nobel Peace prize to Wangari Maathai for having planted 30 million trees We believe so We think that while in the 20th century conservation made significant progress on setting up a global protected area network the 21st century will be a time of forest restoration The fact that Wangari Maathai is the first African woman to receive such an honourable distinction is in itself a major accomplishment What is even more remarkable is that for the first time this highly esteemed prize which has long been associated with political feats was given for an environmental achievement And not just any environmental achievement but forest restoration It is a comfort to see that it is not just us at WWF the global conservation organisation who believe forest restoration to be of global significance but that the Nobel committee is in agreement Holding Corporations Accountable Judith Richter, 2001-08 This work asks Given the impact of transnationals on human health the environment working conditions and the economic prospects of nations is industry self regulation sufficient As WHO Unicef code on baby milk substitutes marketing was ineffective practical regulation needs to be fostered

Big Business, Poor Peoples John Madeley, 1999-06-20 Are transnational corporations TNCs the solution to poverty in the Third World or are they part of the problem John Madeley examines the impact on the poor of TNC activities in forestry agriculture fisheries mining oil extraction and tourism Recent Developments in Acacia Planting John W. Turnbull, Heather R. Crompton, Khongsak Pinyopusarerk, 1998 Assistance to Forestry: Experiences and Potential for Improvement Reidar Persson, 2003-01-01 Forestry assistance in perspective The setting Discussion of successes and failures Problems with forestry assistance Some general points concerning development assistance Why is existing knowledge not used Some points to consider when discussing changes in forestry assistance Some concrete proposals
