Community Resilience under the Impact of Urbanisation and Climate Change Chirisa, Innocent, Mabeza, Christopher, 2019-01-06 As the world today faces messy problems what in some circles has been called global weirding the term resilience has taken centre stage This is crunch time as we grapple with the negative effects of both climate change and urbanisation Some commentators have compared the huge problems we face today to Oom Schalk s proverbial leopard waiting for us in the withaak s shade Do we endlessly count Oom Schalk s proverbial leopard s spots This is the question posed by a stellar cast of academics researchers and experts whose contributions in this text is a rallying cry for action to build resilience to the challenging impact of urbanisation and climate change To that end this volume gives hope about the potential for human agency Our challenge however is to re examine our values to change our conservation conversation and return to a more wise and holistic understanding of ourselves and our place in the Universe Perhaps then only can the obituaries on our demise stay locked in the drawer

Resilience in Children, Families, and Communities Ray D. Peters, Bonnie Leadbeater, Robert J. McMahon, 2004-12-16 Despite the numerous benefits derived from major technological and medical innovations of the past century we continue to live in a world rife with significant social problems and challenges Children continue to be born into lives of poverty others must confront daily their parent s mental illness or substance abuse still others live amid chronic family discord or child abuse For some of these children life s difficulties become overwhelming Their enduring trauma can lead to a downward spiral until their behavioral and emotional problems become lifelong barriers to success and wellbeing Almost no one today would deny that the world is sometimes an inhospitable even dangerous place for our youth Yet most children even those living in high risk environments appear to persevere Some even flourish And this begs the question why in the face of such great odds do these children become survivors rather than casualties of their environments For many decades scholars have pursued answers to the mysteries of resilience Now having culled several decades of research findings the editors of this volume offer an in depth leading edge description and analysis of Resilience in Children Families and Communities Linking Context to Practice and Policy The book is divided into three readily accessible sections that both define the scope and limits of resilience as well as provide hands on programs that families neighborhoods and communities can implement In addition several chapters provide real life intervention strategies and social policies that can be readily put into practice The goal to enable children to develop more effective problem solving skills to help each child to improve his or her self image and to define ways in which role models can affect positive outcomes throughout each child s lifetime For researchers clinicians and students Resilience in Children Families and Communities Linking Context to Practice and Policy is an essential addition to their library It provides practical information to inform greater success in the effort to encourage resilience in all children and to achieve positive youth development

Human Behavior Theory and Social Work Practice with Marginalized Oppressed Populations Roberta R. Greene,Michael Wright,Melvin Herring,Nicole Dubus,Taunya Wright,2019-04-29 Human Behavior Theory and Social Work Practice with Marginalized Oppressed Populations addresses what social workers can do to combat the increasingly complex social concerns that face the profession and explores how to incorporate the celebration of diversity and the protection of human rights into social work curricula and the helping process. The authors combine human behavior theories with a narrative postmodern practice methodology that deals with both the client's or constituencies' presenting problem and equity issues and as a result the book is both theoretical and applied. Two major integrating themes throughout are at the forefront of the book: the celebration of diversity and the equality of human rights. The goal is to strengthen diversity and human rights components of the social work curriculum and to provide more practice guidelines for cross-cultural practice.

Responding to Climate Change in Asian Cities Diane Archer, Sarah Colenbrander, David Dodman, 2016-11-03. The role of cities in addressing climate change is increasingly recognised in international arenas including the Sustainable Development Goals, the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change and the New Urban Agenda. Asia is home to many of the countries that are most vulnerable to climate change impacts and along with Africa will be the site of most urban population growth over the coming decades. Bringing together a range of city experiences, Responding to Climate Change in Asian Cities provides valuable insights into how cities can overcome some of the barriers to building climate resilience including addressing the needs of vulnerable populations. The chapters are centred on an overarching understanding that adaptive urban governance is necessary for climate resilience. This requires engaging with different actors to take into account their experiences, vulnerabilities and priorities, building knowledge including collecting and using appropriate evidence and understanding the institutions shaping interactions between actors from the national to the local level. The chapters draw on a mix of research methodologies demonstrating the variety of approaches to understanding and building urban resilience that can be applied in urban settings. Bringing together a range of expert contributors, this book will be of great interest to scholars of urban studies, sustainability and environmental studies, development studies and Asian studies.
