Biomass Burning and Its Inter-Relationships with the Climate System John L. Innes, Martin Beniston, Michel M. Verstraete, 2006-04-11 JOHN L INNES University of British Columbia Vancouver Canada The interactions between biomass burning and climate have been brought into focus by a number of recent events Firstly the Framework Convention on Climate Change and more recently the Kyoto Protocol have drawn the attention of policy makers and others to the importance of biomass burning in relation to atmospheric carbon dioxide concentrations Secondly the use of prescribed fires has become a major management tool in some countries with for example the area with fuel treatments which include prescribed burns and mechanical treatments having increased on US National Forest System lands from 123 000 ha in 1985 to 677 000 ha in 1998 Thirdly large numbers of forest fires in Indonesia Brazil Australia and elsewhere in 1997 and 1998 received unprecedented media attention Consequently it is appropriate that one of the Wengen Workshops on Global Change Research be devoted to the relationships between biomass burning and climate This volume includes many of the papers presented at the workshop but is also intended to act as a contribution to the state of knowledge on the int relationships between biomass burning and climate change Previous volumes on biomass burning e g Goldammer 1990 Levine 1991a Crutzen and Goldammer 1993 Levine 1996a 1996b Van Wilgen et al 1997 have stressed various aspects of the biomass climate issue and provide a history of the development of our understanding of the many complex relationships that are involved Biomass Burning and Global Change: Remote sensing, modeling and inventory development, and biomass burning in Africa Joel S. Levine, 1996 Global Biomass Burning provides a convenient and current reference on such topics as the remote sensing of biomass burning from space the geographical distribution of burning the combustion products of burning in tropical temperate and boreal ecosystems burning as a global source of atmospheric gases and particulates the impact of biomass burning gases and particulates on global climate and the role of biomass burning on biodiversity and past global extinctions Pub desc Tunneling Systems in Amorphous and Crystalline Solids Pablo Esquinazi, 2013-03-09 The aim of this book is to provide a wealth of information on the influence of quantum tunneling systems on the low temperature properties of solids The nineteen contributors of this book review thermodynamic acoustic dielectric and optical properties of amorphous and crystalline solids in eight chapters The newest experiments on long time spectral diffusion and heat release electric field and strain effects as well as nonequilibrium phenomena are thoroughly discussed Several theoretical contributions provide an overview of the most original ideas and theoretical methods used nowadays to understand the nature and dynamics oftunneling systems in solids and their interactions The book provides full description on the experimental and theoretical details of the relevant experiments and theories Within the broad spectrum of properties that are related to the contribu tion of tunneling systems I have selected special topics which will be of value for experienced as well as graduate students working on low temperature re search Most of the chapters serve as useful introductory surveys

since they are not too specialized I wish to express my thanks to the following colleagues for their important comments on several chapters of this book Ansel C Anderson Guy Bellessa Dimitri Parshin Roman Personov Robert Silbey James Skinner Ulrich Weiss and Helmut Wipf I would like to thank Mrs Annette Setzer for her help with the reference list as well as to the co workers at the Department of Superconductivity and Magnetism Universitiit Leipzig for their support

Burning Table Mountain S. Pooley, 2014-09-19 Cape Town's iconic Table Mountain and the surrounding peninsula has been a crucible for attempts to integrate the social and ecological dimensions of wild fire This environmental history of humans and wildfire outlines these interactions from the practices of Khoikhoi herders to the conflagrations of January 2000 The region's unique famously diverse fynbos vegetation has been transformed since European colonial settlement through urbanisation and biological modifications both intentional forestry and unintentional biological invasions In all the diverse visions people have formed for Table Mountain aesthetic and utilitarian fire has been regarded as a central problem This book shows how scientific understandings of fire in fynbos developed slowly in the face of strong prejudices Human impacts were intensified in the twentieth century which provides the temporal focus for the book The disjunctures between popular perception expert knowledge policy and management are explored and the book supplements existing short term scientific data with proxies on fire incidence trends recovered from historical records
