Restructuring Teacher Education Fastback:

Restructuring Teacher Education Alan R. Tom, 1991 This booklet focuses on reform of the professional portion of initial teacher preparation Following an introduction entitled Professional Education Under Attack the booklet is organized into three sections The first section evaluates the validity of four common criticisms of professional education of teachers including those made by proponents of the academic reform model These criticisms include claims that education courses are vapid segmented impractical and directionless The second section presents three reform proposals the academic model the research on teaching model associated with the knowledge base movement of the 1980s and John Goodlad's collaborative model The discussion of the models includes the extent to which these three proposals address the four common criticisms of professional study The third section speculates about the kind of structural reform in teacher education that seems desirable and feasible in light of the characteristics and underlying assumptions of the three reform models Whether a collaborative approach can bring together the forces that are currently divided is problematic but it is concluded such a development may well be the best opportunity to retain and renew professional education for teachers Contains 46 references LL

Resources in Education, 2001-04 Restructuring Early Childhood Education Michael F. Kelley, Elaine Surbeck, 1991 The first of six national educational goals proclaimed by President Bush to be accomplished by the year 2000 is that all children will start school ready to learn This booklet examines this goal in terms of what it will take to ensure that all children develop the capacities or readiness to be successful in school In the introduction it is asserted that for children and families to succeed in the lifelong process of learning early childhood experiences both in and out of the home must be as personalized as possible The first chapter looks at the early childhood years and the concept of school readiness The second chapter explains why restructuring rather than reform of early childhood education is needed A framework for providing comprehensive intervention services is discussed in the third chapter The fourth chapter profiles programs in Missouri Minnesota and California that seek to broaden the role of schools in early childhood education The fifth chapter examines curriculum issues intrinsic to a restructuring of early childhood education The sixth chapter deals with appropriate methods for child assessment In a concluding section it is argued that services for children and families be coordinated and that early childhood education be restructured to become personalized and family centered HTH Restructuring Education

Through Technology Theodore Wayne Frick, 1991 This paper examines the role of technology in restructuring education by analyzing how it influences seven important relationships in the educative process 1 teacher student relationships 2 student content relationships 3 teacher content relationships 4 student context relationships 5 teacher context relationships 6 content context relationships and 7 educational system environment relationships After a brief historical overview of the uses of technology in education the paper discusses the nature of systems in education and examines the process of restructuring through systems change in the seven pairs of relationships as they exist today and as they might change in a restructured
