Retailing New Perspectives:

New Perspectives on 20th Century European Retailing Peter Scott, Patrick Fridenson, 2021-05-13 Despite the publication of several studies examining European retailing in relation to the USA there is still a dearth of recent research in English that explores the development of retailing in specific European countries with the obvious exception of Britain over the twentieth century Even for the UK more research is needed to challenge claims such as the alleged backwardness of British retailing relative to North America or the presence of formidable environmental barriers to the industrialisation of retailing in Britain New Perspectives on 20th Century European Retailing showcases new research on various aspects of twentieth century European retailing that challenges the traditional view that Europe was a follower of America in retail innovation It brings together work by several mainly early career scholars who are doing innovative archival based research on various aspects of European retail history Following a general review of European retailing by the editors discussing key debates and new approaches seven thematic chapters present work that either sheds new light on old debates and or explores hitherto neglected topics Collectively they show that whereas retailers are often regarded as intermediaries in fact they are actors in their own right and they challenge the traditional view that Europe was a follower of America in retail innovation The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the Business History journal

New Perspectives on Retailing and Store Patronage Behavior Torben Hansen, Hans Stubbe Solgaard, 2006-04-18 Retailing and consumer patronage behavior constitute fascinating research areas within the field of marketing Retailing contributes to an increasing proportion of gross national products and employment but is however also faced with problems and opportunities like increased product complexity rapidly changing consumer expectations and the introduction of new technologies Also consumers are facing markets of increasingly complexity when making decisions on how to conduct their behavior primarily as a result of new technologies shorter products life cycles in general and higher complexity of products and services In this book we present and deal with various topics in relation to retailing and consumer patronage behavior Together these topics involve different problem settings and draw on different theories models and statistical techniques However it is common to all the results presented in the following chapters with the exception of chapter II that they in total or in part rest on a major survey which was conducted by the authors in 1999 Our now retired colleague Hans Engstr m participated in preparing this survey and did a great job in providing research ideas For this and for many stimulating discussions we are highly grateful
