Rethinking Sustainability Power Knowledge And Institutions:

Rethinking Sustainability Jonathan M. Harris, 2000 Rethinking Sustainability Jonathan Mark Harris, 2009-11-12

Bringing together the thoughts of economists political scientists anthropologists philosophers and agricultural policy professionals this volume focuses on the issues of sustainability in development Examining such topics as international trade political power gender roles legal institutions and agricultural research the contributors focus on the missing links in theory and practice that have been barriers to the achievement of truly sustainable development Any theory of sustainable development must take into account economic social and environmental dimensions Until recently the question What is development was often answered predominantly from the economist s perspective with high priority being assigned to expansion of economic output Social political institutional and ethical aspects have often been neglected But now that sustainable development has become a broadly accepted concept it is impossible to maintain a narrowly economic view of development For this reason the varied perspectives offered by the contributors to this volume are crucial to understanding the process of development as it relates to environmental sustainability and human well being The selection of articles is meant to be stimulating and provocative rather than comprehensive They are roughly divided between those dealing with broad theoretical issues concerning the economic political and social aspects of development Part I and those presenting more applied analysis Part II The common thread is a concern for examining which factors contribute to making development socially just and environmentally sound Rethinking Sustainability will be of interest to economists and social scientists development professionals and instructors seeking to offer their students a broad perspective on development issues Jonathan Harris is Senior Research Associate Global Development and Environment Institute at Tufts University as well as Adjunct Associate Professor of International Economics at Tufts University Fletcher School of Law Capabilities, Power, and Institutions Stephen Lawrence Esquith, Fred Gifford, 2010 The essays in Capabilities Power and Institutions extend criticize and reformulate the capabilities approach to development to better understand the importance of power especially institutional power Heritage Cuisines Dallen J. Timothy, 2015-11-19 Food is one of the most fundamental elements of culture and a significant marker of regional and ethnic identity It encompasses many other elements of cultural heritage beyond the physical ingredients required for its production These include folklore religion language familial bonds social structures environmental determinism celebrations and ceremonies landscapes culinary routes smells and tastes to name but a few However despite all that is known about foodways and cuisine from hospitality gastronomical supply chain and agricultural perspectives there still remains a dearth of consolidated research on the wide diversity of food and its heritage attributes and contexts This edited volume aims to fill this void by consolidating into a single volume what is known about cuisines and foodways from a heritage perspective and to examine and challenge the existing paradigms concepts and practices related to gastronomic practices intergenerational traditions sustainable agriculture indigenous rituals immigrant stories and many more heritage elements as they pertain to comestible cuisines and practices The book takes a global and thematic approach in examining heritage cuisines from a wide range of perspectives including agriculture hunting and gathering migration ethnic identity and place nationalism sustainability colonialism food diversity religion place making festivals and contemporary movements and trends All chapters are rich in empirical examples but steady and sound in conceptual depth This book offers new insight and understanding of the heritage implications of cuisines and foodways The multidisciplinary nature of the content will appeal to a broad academic audience in the fields of tourism gastronomy geography cultural studies anthropology and sociology

Wolflin, 2004-12-16 Coastal Lagoons Ecosystem Processes and Modeling for Sustainable Use and Development describes the concepts models and data needed to design and implement management programs for long term sustainability of coastal lagoons Based on a project conducted under the auspices of NATO CCMS the book provides information and methodologies essential for Food Tourism and Regional Development C. Michael Hall, Stefan Gössling, 2016-05-26 Food tourism is a topic of increasing importance for many destinations Seen as a means to potentially attract tourists and differentiate destinations and attractions by means of the association with particular products and cuisines food is also regarded as an opportunity to generate added value from tourism through local agricultural systems and supply chains and the local food system From a regional development perspective this book goes beyond culinary tourism to also look at some of the ways in which the interrelationships between food and tourism contribute to the economic environmental and social wellbeing of destinations communities and producers It examines the way in which tourism and food can mutually add value for each other from the fork to the plate and beyond Looking at products e g cheese craft beer noodles wine attractions restaurants and events and diverse regional examples e g Champagne Hong Kong Jamaica Margaret River southern Sweden and Tuscany the title highlights how clustering networking and the cultural economy of food and tourism and foodscapes adds value for regions Despite the attention given to food wine and culinary tourism no book has previously directly focused on the contribution of food and tourism in regional development This international collection has contributors and examples from almost every continent and provides a comprehensive account of the various intersections between food tourism and regional development This timely and significant volume will inform future food and tourism development as well as regional development more widely and will be valuable reading for a range of disciplines including tourism development studies food and culinary studies regional studies geography and environmental studies

After the End of History Robert E. Lane, 2009-11-16 Robert E Lane is one of the most prominent and distinguished critics of both the human impact of market economies and economic theory arguing from much research that happiness is more likely to flow from companionship enjoyment of work contribution to society and the opportunity to develop as a person than from the pursuit of wealth and the accumulation of material goods in market economies This latest work playfully personalizes the contrast through a dialogue between a humanistic social scientist Dessi and a market economist Adam Smith. It is all too rare to have the two sides talking to each other. Moreover, in Lane's witty and literate hands, it is an open-minded and balanced conversation in which neither side has all the answers. His unparalleled grasp of interdisciplinary social scientific knowledge is brought to bear on the largest questions of human life: What genuinely makes people happy? How should human society be organized to maximize the quality of human lives? David O'Sears, Professor of Psychology and Political Science, UCLA. Lane's deep knowledge of the sources of human happiness enables him to develop a powerful critique of economic theory. Robert A. Dahl, Sterling Professor Emeritus of Political Science, Yale University. Robert E. Lane is the Eugene Meyer Professor Emeritus of Political Science at Yale University. His previous publications include The Loss of Happiness in Market Democracies (2000) and The Market Experience (1991). Helping People Help Themselves. David Ellerman, 2009-04-15. David Ellerman relates a deep theoretical groundwork for a philosophy of development while offering a descriptive practical suggestion of how goals of development can be better set and met. Beginning with the assertion that development assistance agencies are inherently structured to provide help that is ultimately unhelpful by overriding or undercutting the capacity of people to help themselves, David Ellerman argues that the best strategy for development is a drastic reduction in development assistance. The locus of initiative can then shift from the would-be helpers to the doers, recipients of development. Ellerman presents various methods for shifting initiative that are indirect, enabling, and autonomy-respecting. Eight representative figures in the fields of education, community organization, economic development, psychotherapy, and management theory, including Albert Hirschman, Paulo Freire, John Dewey, and Søren Kierkegaard, demonstrate how the major themes of assisting autonomy among people are essentially the same. David Ellerman is currently a Visiting Scholar in the Economics Department at the University of California at Riverside. It's Legal but It Ain't Right. Nikos Passas, Neva R. Goodwin, 2010-02-22. It's Legal but It Ain't Right chronicles the abuse of power and privilege by businesses that defy the strictures of law and limits of regulation. Contributors stretch the conceptual boundaries of corporate deviance across a wide range of industries at a time when standards of corporate social responsibility and good corporate citizenship are in flux. William S. Laufer, Professor, The Wharton School of Business. This delightful and serious book involves a matter I have long felt of first importance: That is our tendency to make social truth and acceptance conform to personal or larger corporate interests. On this, I have written but gladly yield to this persuasive parallel. No one concerned with literate, informed, and relevant, as distinct from self-serving truth, should miss It's Legal but It Ain't Right. John Kenneth Galbraith. This absorbing and well-written book of essays on the harmful consequences of legal industries skillfully illuminates the ways in which some corporate harms fail to be transformed into criminal law making and enforcement and offers cogent suggestions for better regulation in the public interest. Dr. Michael Levi, Professor of Criminology, Cardiff University. Many U.S. corporations and the goods they produce negatively impact our society without breaking any laws. We are all too familiar with the tobacco industry's effect on public health and health care costs for smokers and nonsmokers as well as the role of profit in the pharmaceutical industry's research priorities. It's Legal but It Ain't Right tackles these issues plus the ethical ambiguities of legalized gambling, the firearms trade, the fast food industry, the pesticide industry, private security companies, and more. Aiming to identify industries and goods that undermine our societal values and to hold them accountable for their actions, this collection makes a valuable contribution to the ongoing discussion of ethics in our time. This accessible exploration of corporate legitimacy and crime will be important reading for advocates, journalists, students, and anyone interested in the dichotomy between law and legitimacy.

Environmental and Natural Resource Economics Jonathan M. Harris, Brian Roach, 2021-11-28. Environmental issues are of fundamental importance, and a broad approach to understanding the relationship between the human economy and the natural world is essential. In a rapidly changing policy and scientific context, this new edition of Environmental and Natural Resource Economics reflects an updated perspective on modern environmental topics. Now in its fifth edition, this textbook includes enhanced and updated material on energy, climate change, greening the economy, population, agriculture, forests, and water, reflecting the greater urgency required to solve the big environmental problems in these areas. It introduces students to both standard environmental economics and the broader perspective of ecological economics, balancing analytical techniques of environmental economics topics with a global perspective on current ecological issues such as population growth, global climate change, and green national income accounting. Harris and Roach's premise is that a pluralistic approach is essential to understand the complex nexus between the economy and the environment. This perspective, combined with its emphasis on real-world policies, is particularly appealing to both instructors and students. This is the ideal text for undergraduate classes on environmental, natural resource, and ecological economics, and postgraduate courses on environmental and economic policy. Emergent Trends in Comparative Education Lauren Ila Misiaszek, Robert F. Arnove, Carlos Alberto Torres, 2022-07-21. Emergent Trends in Comparative Education: The Dialectic of the Global and the Local addresses the changes and multiple new topics that arise in education vis-à-vis processes of globalization and social transformation. As such, it complements and expands the scope of Comparative Education. The Dialectic of the Global and the Local, Fifth Edition, Chapters systematically examine the intersecting global crises in society and education occasioned by COVID-19 across types and levels of education, geographic and linguistic contexts, and fields of theory and practice. Topics addressed include the African ethic Ubuntu, Global Citizenship Education, GCE, UNESCO STEM teacher education, low-fee schools, social movements, and protest pedagogy, sustainability, media and technology, testing, and the economics of education. Furthermore, this book offers insight into how education systems can contribute to environmental social justice. Various authors employ a social justice lens to analyze the global, regional, local dialectics shaping the working of education systems with regard to who pays for and who benefits from current policy initiatives around the world.

Sustainable Development Rumen Gechev, 2005.

The criteria for sustainable development have become a decisive factor in the formulation and assessment of economic policy models. By its nature, sustainable development is a multidimensional category; therefore, it requires an interdisciplinary approach. This study is focused on the economic aspects of sustainable development. However, the analysis includes the interdependences of the noneconomic dimensions. The author proposes a new definition for sustainable development that incorporates those dimensions and suggests a new GDP matrix that better integrates the quantitative and the qualitative parameters of the economic output including its effect on the environmental equilibrium. Routledge Handbook of Food and Nutrition Security Bill Pritchard, Rodomiro Ortiz, Meera Shekar, 2016-03-31. The concept of food and nutrition security has evolved and risen to the top of the international policy agenda over the last decade. Yet it is a complex and multi-faceted issue requiring a broad and interdisciplinary perspective for full understanding. This Handbook represents the most comprehensive compilation of our current knowledge of food and nutrition security from a global perspective. It is organized to reflect the wide scope of the contents; its four sections correspond to the accepted current definitional frameworks prevailing in the work of multilateral agencies and mainstream scholarship. The first section addresses the struggles and progression of ideas and debates about the subject in recent years. The other sections focus on three key themes: how food has been and should be made available including by improvements in agricultural productivity; the ways in which politico-economic and social arenas have shaped access to food; and the effects of food and nutrition systems in addressing human health, known as food utilisation. Overall, the volume synthesizes a vast field of information drawn from agriculture, soil science, climatology, economics, sociology, human and physical geography, the nutrition and health sciences, environmental science, and development studies. 'Alternative' cultures and leisure Alan Law, Stephen Wearing, 2017-12-22. Contemporary discourse on sustainability points to the need for substantial if not radical shifts in relations between productivity, environment, consumption, and identities in ways which bring or restore balance to the intersecting domains. The catchphrase of sustainability has made its way into mainstream discourse on the heels of the ongoing global financial crisis and responses to global warming. The literature of leisure, sport, and particularly tourism are replete with fine examples of sustainability contributing to full ecology planning approaches. This book aims to stimulate debate and discussion within the leisure studies community about the roles of alternative cultures in producing viable models of sustainable relations between work, leisure, and environment. Key elements of these discussions, such as participatory democracy and deep ecology, have long been characteristic of cultural configurations loosely called counter or alternative to a voracious hierarchical and unconscious modernity. However, the leisure studies community has largely neglected their significance up until now. How are leisure, sustainable livelihoods, and alternative cultures connected, and what influence do they have? This book was originally published as a special issue of Annals of Leisure Research. Agri-Culture Jules Pretty, 2013-06-17. Refreshingly fluent narrative brimming full of stories and metaphors. Tim O'Riordan, University of East Anglia, UK. A great balance between storytelling and analysis which points to the critical need for gaining control over resources Jacqueline Ashby CIAT Colombia Full of supporting evidence and clear arguments Norman Uphoff Cornell University US A wonderful book put together with such vision and passion Mark Ritchie Institute of Agriculture and Trade Policy US A superb volume This is a valuable monograph that all policy makers scholars and farmers must read to understand their roles and responsibilities Vo Tong Xuan Angiang University Vietnam Beautifully written The implications of the book s ideas are deep and extensive Julia Guivant University of Florianopolis Brazil Something is wrong with our agricultural and food systems Despite great progress in increasing productivity in recent decades hundreds of millions of people remain hungry and malnourished and further millions suffer for eating too much food or the wrong sort Agri Culture envisages the expansion of a new form of food production and consumption founded on more ecological principles and in harmony with the cultures knowledges and collective capacities of the producers themselves It draws on many stories of successful agricultural transformation in developing and industrialized countries but with a warning that true prosperity will depend on the radical reform of the institutions and policies that control global food futures and fundamental changes in the way we think The time has come for the next agricultural revolution

Case Studies in Food Retailing and Distribution John Byrom, Dominic Medway, 2018-11-05 Case Studies in Food Retailing and Distribution aims to close the gap between academic researchers and industry professionals through the presentation of real world scenarios and the application of field based research The book provides contemporary explorations of food retailing and consumption from various contexts around the globe Using a case study lens successful examples of practice are provided and areas for further theoretical investigation are offered Coverage includes the impact of retail concentration and the ongoing relevance of independent retailing how social forces impact upon food retailing and consumption trends in organic food retailing and distribution discussion of how wellbeing and sustainability have impacted the sector perspectives on the future of food retailing and distribution This book is a volume in the Consumer Science and Strategic Marketing series Addresses business problems in in food retail and distribution Includes pricing and supply chain management Discusses food retailing in urban and rural settings Covers both global distribution and entry in developing nations Features real world case studies that demonstrate what does and does not

Handbook of Research on Institution Development for Sustainable and Inclusive Economic Growth in Africa Osabuohien, Evans S., Oduntan, Emmanuel A., Gershon, Obindah, Onanuga, Olaronke, Ola-David, Oluyomi, 2020-12-04 African countries are pursuing a number of development agendas toward achieving economic growth that is inclusive pro poor and sustainable particularly the type that can unleash the potential of women and booming youthful populations However available evidence shows that many African countries have experienced economic hardships and have performed more poorly than other developing and emerging countries in the global south The Handbook of Research on Institution Development for Sustainable and Inclusive Economic Growth in Africa is an essential research publication that provides comprehensive research on the processes of building viable institutions in Africa that will serve as the fulcrum for utilizing and managing resources as well as promoting economic growth that is inclusive and sustainable Featuring topics such as climate change financial development and poverty this book is ideal for researchers policymakers developers economic professionals academicians government officials business professionals and students Quality of Life in Urban Landscapes Roberta Cocci Grifoni, Rosalba

D'Onofrio, Massimo Sargolini, 2017-12-14 This volume introduces an innovative tool for the development of sustainable cities and the promotion of the quality of life of city inhabitants It presents a decision support system to orient public administrations in identifying development scenarios for sustainable urban and territorial transformations The authors have split the volume into five parts which respectively describe the theoretical basis of the book the policies in question and indicators that influence them the decision support system that connects indicators to policies the case study of Ancona Italy and potential future directions for this work This volume is based on transdisciplinary research completed in May 2016 that involved about 40 researchers at The University of Camerino Italy and other European universities With purchase of this book readers will also have access to Electronic Supplementary Material that contains a database with groups of indicators of assessment of urban quality of life and a toolkit containing the data processing system and management information system used in the book's case study Sustainable Culinary Systems C. Michael Hall, Gossling Stefan, 2013-01-04

There is increasing public and academic interest in local and sustainable foods and food tourism These interests have been reflected in such diverse elements as the growth of farmers markets green restaurants food miles carbon and sustainability labelling concerns over food supply and security Slow Food Fair Trade and a desire to buy and eat locally Food related hospitality and tourism is integral to this process because of the way in which it simultaneously acts to globalise and localise food consumption and create new foodways and commodity chains This book therefore aims to provide an integrated understanding of the contemporary interest in food and food tourism through the use of an international collection of illustrative case study chapters as well as the provision of a novel integrative framework for the book a sustainable culinary system This is the first volume to examine the concept of sustainable culinary systems particularly with specific reference to tourism and hospitality Divided into two parts firstly the notion of the local is explored reflecting the increased interest in the championing of local food production and consumption Secondly treatment of sustainability in food and food tourism and hospitality in settings that reach beyond the local in a business and socio economic sense is reviewed The book therefore reflects much of the contemporary public interest in the conscious or ethical consumption and production of food as well as revealing the inherent tensions between local and broader goals in both defining and achieving sustainable culinary systems and the environmental social and economic implications of food production and consumption This book provides the reader with an integrated approach to understanding the subject of how culinary systems may be made more sustainable and will be valuable reading to all those interested in sustainable food and food tourism Encyclopedia of Sustainability Robin Morris

Collin, Robert William Collin, 2009-12-09 This three volume encyclopedia explores the concept of sustainability in the contexts of the environment economics and justice This expansive encyclopedia breaks new ground giving definition and focus to an urgent and much talked about topic that is extraordinarily wide ranging and all too often misunderstood As the first major reference work in its field the three comprehensive volumes span the entire scope of sustainability from ecological concepts to financial concerns to public policy and community action giving readers a solid foundation from which to think critically about efforts to make a more sustainable world The Encyclopedia of Sustainability comprises three volumes each dedicated to one of three equally important contexts in which the term is used environment and ecology business and economics and equity and fairness Each volume provides authoritative but accessible coverage of basic concepts and terms as well as policy initiatives controversies and future trends Volumes also include biographical sketches of important contributors to sustainability efforts from the scientific economic public policy and activist realms plus extensive listings of print and online resources for further exploration
