Secularism Islam Modernity:

Formations of the Secular Talal Asad, 2003-02-03 A dark but brilliantly original work one of the most important books on religion and the modern in recent years H Net Reviews Opening with the provocative query what might an anthropology of the secular look like this book explores the concepts practices and political formations of secularism with emphasis on the major historical shifts that have shaped secular sensibilities and attitudes in the modern West and the Middle East Talal Asad proceeds to dismantle commonly held assumptions about the secular and the terrain it allegedly covers He argues that while anthropologists have oriented themselves to the study of the strangeness of the non European world and to what are seen as non rational dimensions of social life things like myth taboo and religion the modern and the secular have not been adequately examined The conclusion is that the secular cannot be viewed as a successor to religion or be seen as on the side of the rational It is a category with a multi layered history related to major premises of modernity democracy and the concept of human rights This book will appeal to anthropologists historians religious studies scholars as well as scholars working on modernity A difficult if stunningly eloquent book a response both elusive and forthright to the many shelves of books on terrorism which this country's trade publishers are rushing into print Bryn Mawr Review of Comparative Literature This wonderfully illuminating book should be read alongside the author's Genealogies of Religion Religion One of the most interesting scholars of religious writing today Christian Scholar's Review Asad's brilliant study remains a defining piece of intellectual and scholarly contribution for all of those interested in exploring the religious and the secular in the modern era The American Journal of Islamic Social Sciences

Secularism, Islam and Modernity 'Ālam Khvundmīrī, 2001-07-23 Syed Alam Khundmiri 1922-83 was an important intellectual figure of his times a true humanist with rare philosophical insights ranging over a wide field The volume brings together Khundmiri's seminal essays which set out his dominant concerns Marxism with its indifference to questions of minorities in nationalism existentialism which he saw as being closed off to the problems of community and Islam which he examined in relation to history and notions of time and change Overall this absorbing collection of essays encapsulates Khundmiri's dual project of situating Islam in the modern context and scrutinizing the modern in the light of Islam Particularly relevant in the present context of the increasing sacralization of politics it will be read with great interest by students and scholars of philosophy history sociology Islamic studies Marxism comparative religion cultural studies and political and social theory as well as by the aware and concerned lay reader

Anand,2008

In this dissertation I explore social identity secularism and Indian Muslims conceptions and experiences of living in a secular state while debating among themselves the meanings of ethical Muslim selfhood Through participant observation and interviews based on over 15months of intensive field research undertaken in a predominantly Muslim area of south east Mumbai my research focused on two groups of Muslim men middle class entrepreneurs and householders in their early to mid thirties and senior students from their late teens to early twenties from a madrasa Islamic seminary attached to a prominent mosque in the city Owing to its complex and intense dynamism I also emphasize the city as an important agent in shaping everyday life The core of my work is to explore secular life and secularism central to India s liberal conception of itself as a pluralist democracy that emerge through the lived experiences of Muslim men engaging with various daily pressures and transactions in an intensely dynamic urban context while trying to maintain a self understood to be ethical in terms of an inherited Islamic tradition In discussing everyday phenomena such as piety and religious authority gender childraising popular culture personal and professional pursuits and ethical conduct I demonstrate that the ostensibly religious domain of Islam is not necessarily the only or even primary basis for achieving selfhood for even those who identify as observant and devout Muslims Rather I argue the religious domain of Islam in this context is defined as such and intersected by discourses and practices of the self as a political and economic agent that is a self defined in terms of political modernity Thus this dissertation also contributes to the current anthropological rethinking of categories like religion secularism and politics in relation to social processes and subjects a series of projects that are related in the Indian context to modernity and liberal conceptions of statehood sovereignty and personhood A major conclusion of this work is that while most Indian Muslims have largely internalized and accept the liberal differentiation of politics and religion the modern secular project in India nevertheless remains incomplete

Religion, Modernity, and the Global Afterlives of Colonialism Atalia Omer, Joshua Lupo, 2024-09-15 Religion Modernity and the Global Afterlives of Colonialism examines the tenacious lingering impact of European colonial ideology on religion and politics around the world Even though the formal structures of colonialism have crumbled with a few notable exceptions European colonial ideology continues to operate across the globe resulting in limited nationalistic conceptualizations of religion and politics Religion Modernity and the Global Afterlives of Colonialism shows convincingly that not only has colonialism had a devastating impact on the colonized but its reach has turned inward to erode the colonizer's own social and political systems By examining the colonial violence constitutive of liberal political ideology the continued oppression of Muslims in Europe in the name of security and the way neoliberal economics bends religious hermeneutics to its will the authors of Religion Modernity and the Global Afterlives of Colonialism call attention to the threats that face our world today They also point to potential sites of hope for example the work of a priest in the Balkans who seeks to build solidarity across religious differences groups in Africa who are constructing decolonial religious imaginaries and the Islamo futurism of Dune which haltingly imagines a form of modernity beyond the West Contributors Atalia Omer Joshua Lupo Santiago Slabodsky Nadia Fadil S Sayyid Luca Mavelli Edmund Frettingham Cecelia Lynch Slavica Jakeli and Gil Anidjar

Defending Muhammad in Modernity SherAli Tareen, 2020-01-31 In this groundbreaking study SherAli Tareen presents the most comprehensive and theoretically engaged work to date on what is arguably the most long running complex and contentious dispute in modern Islam the Barelv Deoband polemic The Barelv and Deoband groups are two normative orientations reform movements with beginnings in colonial South Asia Almost two hundred years separate the beginnings of this polemic from the present Its specter however continues to haunt the religious sensibilities of postcolonial South Asian Muslims in profound ways both in the region and in diaspora communities around the world Defending Muhammad in Modernity challenges the commonplace tendency to view such moments of intra Muslim contest through the prism of problematic yet powerful liberal secular binaries like legal mystical moderate extremist and reformist traditionalist Tareen argues that the Barelv Deoband polemic was instead animated by what he calls competing political theologies that articulated during a moment in Indian Muslim history marked by the loss and crisis of political sovereignty contrasting visions of the normative relationship between divine sovereignty prophetic charisma and the practice of everyday life Based on the close reading of previously unexplored print and manuscript sources in Arabic Persian and Urdu spanning the late eighteenth and the entirety of the nineteenth century this book intervenes in and integrates the often disparate fields of religious studies Islamic studies South Asian studies critical secularism studies and political theology

The Politics of Secularism in International Relations Elizabeth

Shakman Hurd, 2009-01-10 Conflicts involving religion have returned to the forefront of international relations And yet political scientists and policymakers have continued to assume that religion has long been privatized in the West This secularist assumption ignores the contestation surrounding the category of the secular in international politics The Politics of Secularism in International Relations shows why this thinking is flawed and provides a powerful alternative Elizabeth Shakman Hurd argues that secularist divisions between religion and politics are not fixed as commonly assumed but socially and historically constructed Examining the philosophical and historical legacy of the secularist traditions that shape European and American approaches to global politics she shows why this matters for contemporary international relations and in particular for two critical relationships the United States and Iran and the European Union and Turkey The Politics of Secularism in International Relations develops a new approach to religion and international relations that challenges realist liberal and constructivist assumptions that religion has been excluded from politics in the West The first book to consider secularism as a form of political authority in its own right it describes two forms of secularism and their far reaching global consequences
