Film Review Index: 1950-1985 Patricia King Hanson, Stephen L. Hanson, 1986 Neorealist Film Culture, 1945-1954 Francesco Pitassio, 2025-10-01 Unique truthful brutal Neorealism is often associated with adjectives stressing its peculiarities in representing the real its lack of antecedents and its legacy in terms of film style While this is useful when confronting auteurs such as De Sica Rossellini or Visconti it becomes problematic when examining a widespread cultural practice that realistic modes deeply affected This cultural production included filmmaking literature visual culture and photography as well as media discourses It was internally contradictory but fruitful inasmuch as its legacy influenced national culture for many decades to come The volume spotlights post war Italian film culture by locating a series of crossroads i e topics barely examined when discussing neorealism nation memory and trauma visual culture stardom and performance The aim is to deconstruct neorealism as a monument and to open up its cultural history

Film, Lacan and the Subject of Religion Steve Nolan, 2009-07-23 In their study of religion and film religious film analysts have tended to privilege religion Uniquely this study treats the two disciplines as genuine equals by regarding both liturgy and film as representational media Steve Nolan argues that in each case subjects identify with a represented other which joins them into a narrative where they become participants in an ideological reality Finding many current approaches to religious film analysis lacking Film Lacan and the Subject of Religion explores the film theory other writers ignore particularly that mix of psychoanalysis Marxism and semiotics often termed Screen theory that attempts to understand how cinematic representation shapes spectator identity Using translations and commentary on Lacan not originally available to Screen theorists Nolan returns to Lacan's contribution to psychoanalytic film theory and offers a sustained application to religious practice examining several priest films and real life case study to expose the way liturgical representation shapes religious identity Film Lacan and the Subject of Religion proposes an interpretive strategy by which religious film analysts can develop the kind of analysis that engages with and critiques both cultural and religious practice

Sociology on Film Chris Cagle, 2016-12-28 After World War II Hollywood's social problem films tackling topical issues that included racism crime mental illness and drug abuse were hits with critics and general moviegoers alike In an era of film famed for its reliance on pop psychology these movies were a form of popular sociology bringing the academic discipline's concerns to a much broader audience Sociology on Film examines how the postwar problem film translated contemporary policy debates and intellectual discussions into cinematic form in order to become one of the preeminent genres of prestige drama Chris Cagle chronicles how these movies were often politically fractious the work of progressive directors and screenwriters who drew scrutiny from the House Un American Activities Committee Yet he also proposes that the genre helped to construct an abstract discourse of society that served to unify a middlebrow American audience As he considers the many forms of print media that served to inspire social problem films including journalism realist novels and sociological texts Cagle also explores their distinctive cinematic aesthetics Through a close analysis of films like Gentleman's Agreement The Lost Weekend and Intruder in the Dust he presents a compelling case that the visual style of these films was intimately connected to their more expressly political and sociological aspirations Sociology on Film demonstrates how the social problem picture both shaped and reflected the middle class viewer's national self image making a lasting impact on Hollywood's aesthetic direction
