and consequently the researcher cannot escape through some mystical notion of being objective the political ethical and legal consequences of undertaking research Research is vital to the construction of public spaces for debate decision making and action Hence there is a close relationship between methodological practices research design and the conditions under which violence democracy and rights can be addressed Researching Violence Democracy and the Rights of People explores what is at stake methodologically both theoretically and practically for researchers seeking to expand opportunities for people to become visible upon the public stages of debate decision making and action and thus make audible their experiences of wrongs and injustices express their rights and engage democratically in processes of change Drawing on international contributions and contexts this book introduces readers to the complex realities of real research and the substantive issues that their methodological approaches strive to deal with It will benefit undergraduate and postgraduate students as well as post doctoral and experienced researchers across a range of cultural and social science disciplines as well as educational and sociological researchers Its aim is to explore and contribute to the development of innovatory approaches to engaging in research that make a difference in the lives of people researchers and community practitioners Supervision in Social Work Liz Beddoe, Jane Maidment, 2017-10-02

Supervision is currently a hot topic in social work. The editors of this volume, both social work educators and researchers, believe that good supervision is fundamental to the development and maintenance of effective practice in social work. Supervision is seen as a key vehicle for continuing development of professional skills, the safeguarding of competent and ethical practice, and oversight of the wellbeing of the practitioner. As a consequence, the demand for trained and competent supervisors has increased, and a perceived gap in availability can create a call for innovation and development in supervision. This book offers a collection of chapters which contribute new insights to the field. Authors from Australia and New Zealand, where supervision inquiry is strong, offer research-informed ideas and critical commentary with a dual focus on supervision of practitioners and students. Topics include external and interprofessional supervision, retention of practitioners, practitioner resilience, and innovation in student supervision. This book will be of interest to supervisors of both practitioners and students and is highly relevant to social work academics. This book was originally published as a special issue of Australian Social Work.

Well-being and Resiliency in Youth Nicole Nicotera, Julie Anne Laser-Maira, 2017. This title emphasizes the step-by-step procedures readers will need to implement evidence-based innovative techniques and skills that emphasize well-being and resilience in youth. The strategies are specifically chosen to capture and hold the interest of youth who are often reticent to counselling. Furthermore, the skills-based approach of the book aims to demystify what one actually does in session with youth by moving away from the vagueness of talk therapy when youth have nothing to say and toward sessions that engage youth in action, stimulating communication and change. Counting Our Losses Darcy L. Harris, 2011-01-19. This text is a valuable resource for clinicians who work with clients dealing with non-death, non-final, and ambiguous losses in their lives. It explores adjustment to change, transition, and loss from the perspective of the latest thinking in bereavement theory and research. The specific and unique aspects of different types of loss are discussed, such as infertility, aging, chronic illnesses, and degenerative conditions, divorce and separation, immigration, adoption, loss of beliefs, and loss of employment. Harris and the contributing authors consider these from an experiential perspective rather than a developmental one in order to focus on the key elements of each loss as it may be experienced at any point in the lifespan. Concepts related to adaptation and coping with loss, such as resilience, hardiness, meaning-making, and the assumptive world, transcendence, and post-traumatic growth, are considered as part of the integration of loss into everyday life experience.
