The International Jute Commodity System Chhabilendra Roul, 2009 The jute commodity system as prevalent in the Indian subcontinent is a conglomeration of paradoxes Jute was once called the golden fibre on account of its contribution to means of livelihood to millions of farmers traders manufacturers in the unorganized sector mill workers in the organized sector as well scores of people employed in the service sector relating to trading manufacturing and exports of jute and jute goods Jute industry along with textile manufacturing provided the foundation of modern manufacturing industry in India Simultaneously this industry was also the fountain head of the growth of private entrepreneurship and capital in India Most of the traditional Industrial Houses in India grew out of trading and manufacturing of jute and jute goods coal and tea On the other hand most of the farmers involved in cultivation of natural fibres like jute are small and marginal farmers Without alternative avenues of gainful employment elsewhere these millions in South Asia would be deprived of a part of their livelihood The entire commodity chain of natural fibres is characterized by low productivity low value addition high volumes and low returns The advent and discovery of mineral oil helped exploit cheap HDPE and PP polyethylene sacks which started replacing the natural fibre based packaging materials As a result the jute industry got wiped out from Europe America and the Far East Today it is survived in the Indian subcontinent and to a lesser extent in Brazil The unique feature of the volume is that it focuses on the first hand experience of the policy makers and other stakeholders in the jute commodity system who are confronted with a dilemma of reviving a declining economic subsector At this juncture when there is need for a Commodity Development Strategy suitable to the ethos of a commodity like the jute fibre the present volumes attempts to devise such a strategy thorough analysis of the system based on authentic and up to date information The Book furnishes an erudite analysis and stock taking of the jute commodity system This analysis points out to the fact that there is a need for a holistic systemic approach to the problems being faced by this sector focusing on the economic exploitation of the whole jute plant holistic research for addressing productivity and processing efficiency in the entire commodity chain of jute and creating a network of organisations for advocacy for jute and allied fibres which would focus on repositioning the golden fibre as sustainable and eco friendly commodity with the help of green and sustainable development advocacy groups The Commodity Development Strategy highlights the need for greater effort for significant degree of product diversification which would entail significant consumption of the fibre or fabric in volume terms The volume ends with an optimistic note with ideas of inclusive development under the Millennium Development Goals and Carbon Credits Sustainable Development under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change the welcome paradigm shifts in the approach to the jute sector The effort by Sh Roul is a timely one on the eve of the observance of 2009 as International Year for Natural Fibres by the United Nations The book is quite comprehensive with its focus on a wide range of issues pertaining to the jute agri commodity system addressed against a historical background and from macro economic analytical perspective The volume offers stimulating reading for those interested in the dynamics of agricultural commodity systems like jute and allied fibres The book is expected to help sensitise national governments international organizations and nongovernmental organizations towards the eco sustainability of jute as a natural fibre The book can serve as an excellent reference book for post graduate students in economics jute and textiles management development studies regional development and agriculture and agro marketing The Eastern Economist; a Weekly Review of Indian and International Economic Affairs ,1980

Hungary's Integration Into European Union Markets Bart?omiej Kami?ski,1999 Abstract June 1999 Can Hungarian firms cope with competitive pressures and market forces within the European Union market a criterion for joining The empirical evidence suggests that Hungary can withstand such competitive pressures without suppressing the real incomes of Hungary s citizens Hungary has achieved impressive results in reorienting both its production and trade Between 1989 and 1992 as the former CMEA markets collapsed and Hungary liberalized imports and the exchange rate regime exports to the European Union EU expanded with manufactured exports redirected largely to Western mostly EU markets During this first phase of expansion characterized by a dramatic reorientation and explosion of trade the value of Hungary s exports increased 84 percent In 1993 export expansion lost steam and EU oriented exports fell 12 percent In a second phase of expansion in 1994 97 driven by restructured and rapidly changing export offers exports again registered strong performance their value increasing 132 percent There was a dramatic shift from an export basket dominated by resource intensive low value added products to one driven by manufactures with a rapidly accelerating growth of engineering products Machinery and transport equipment rose from 12 percent of exports to the EU in 1989 to more than 50 percent in 1997 The shift from natural resource and unskilled labor intensive products to technology and capital intensive products in EU oriented exports suggests the potential for integration higher in the value added spectrum More stringent EU environmental regulations will affect a relatively low and falling share of Hungary s exports The Hungarian share of environmentally dirty products imported by the EU has increased but these products have not been trendsetters among Hungarian exports their share in exports falling from 26 percent in 1989 to 16 percent in 1996 The rapid pace of Hungary s turnaround seems to reflect the emergence of second generation firms mostly foreign owned Foreign owned firms tend to be more export oriented Hungary has been one of the more successful transition economies because its economy was receptive to foreign direct investment from the outset Between 1990 and 1997 Hungary absorbed roughly half of all foreign capital invested in Central Europe This paper a product of Trade Development Research Group is part of a larger effort in the group to study regional integration The author may be contacted at bkaminski@worldbank.org Regional Economic Outlook, October 2010, Europe, Building Confidence International Monetary Fund. European Dept.,2010-10-20 The recovery in Europe continues supported by strong policy action to contain sovereign debt problems in the euro area In advanced Europe lingering uncertainties and market pressures make for moderate and unequal growth creating challenges for macroeconomic and financial sector policies The REO also sheds light on the governance issues revealed by the crisis arguing that better policy frameworks in particular at the euro area level promise a stronger Europe For the first time the REO devotes a separate chapter to the outlook for emerging Europe where after a deep recession an export led recovery is under way However the rebound is uneven across the region and policymakers face the difficult challenge of dealing with the legacies of the crisis while not hurting the recovery Beyond the short term the REO argues that the region will need to find new growth engines as the capital inflows driven and credit fueled domestic demand boom needs to give way to more balanced growth Indeed the REO emphasizes that active fiscal policy and coordinated prudential measures are key to avoiding a repeat of the boom bust cycle the region has just endured
