Christian G. Meyer

Psychosomatic Delusion Why The Mind Is Not The Source Of All Our Ills:

Psychosomatic Delusion Dantzer,1998-10 From the Introduction to The Psychosomatic Delusion We all believe in the healing power of the mind The idea seems so simple and appealing that we often cannot resist the temptation of blaming those who become ill and conversely applauding those who succeed in fighting such life threatening illnesses as cancer After many years of work I have realized that it is not so simple There is a profound and legitimate need for a different model of the relationship between stress and disease that cares for the whole patient This book has been written with the belief that this goal is at hand provided we are ready to accept complexity and deal with it by adopting a systems perspective of health instead of taking refuge in a fairy land populated with fuzzy concepts such as stress holistic medicine and healing powers

Why Only Humans Weep Ad Vingerhoets,2013-02-28 Crying has fascinated mankind for millenia Since ancient times we have known that our ability to produce emotional tears is unique human characteristic This book is one of the first to explore this complex phenomenon Written by a leading authority in the field it will contribute significantly to a scientific understanding of this topic

The Self in the Family Luciano L'Abate,1997-01-07 In his acclaimed book A Theory of Personality Development Luciano L Abate introduced a revolutionary theory of personality development and functioning that departed radically from traditional theories In place of hypothetical traits existing in an empirical vacuum Dr L Abate offered an image of observable interpersonal competencies functioning within the basic contexts of home work leisure and the marketplace Central to his theory was a developmental model that posited the family as the primordial setting in which propensities are formed and behavior patterns set By defining personality in terms of the growth and interplay of interpersonal competencies the L Abate theory provided an epistemologically and empirically sound basis for understanding personality function and dysfunction as corollaries and extensions of one another In The Self in the Family Luciano L Abate and Margaret Baggett again break new ground by expanding the L Abate theory of personality development to encompass criminal and psychopathological behavior Drawing upon mounting empirical evidence that the family paradigm is the major determinant of personality socialization throughout the life span the authors develop a selfhood model with demonstrable links between the three domains of personality function criminality and psychopathology With the help of the model they show how it is now possible to arrive at a personality based interpretation of most deviant behaviors including criminality psychopathology addictions and even psychosomatic illnesses and they describe various preventive and psychotherapeutic applications for this expanded theory of family based personality development The authors further elaborate on the theories developed in Dr L Abate s previous books by introducing the core concepts of hurt the basic feeling underlying much of personality functioning and dysfunctioning and a continuum of likeness the fundamental determinant of interpersonal choices and behavior in friendships parent child relations and marital relations Offering an empirically rigorous developmentally based unified field theory of personality function criminality and psychopathology The Self in the Family is essential reading for developmental and clinical psychologists family therapists personality theorists and criminality and psychopathology researchers
