Negotiating Armenian-Azerbaijani Peace Ohannes Geukjian, 2016-04-22 Conflict resolution conflict management and conflict transformations are major themes in this unique book which examines explores and analyses the mediation attempts of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe in the Nagorno Karabakh conflict Ohannes Geukjian shows the most striking characteristic of a protracted internal conflict such as this is its asymmetry and explains that without meeting basic human needs like identity recognition security and participation resolving any protracted social conflict is very difficult The Armenian Azerbaijani case demonstrates how official diplomacy may not be able to solve protracted internal conflicts as without addressing the real causes of the problematic relationship attempts at peace making will always be sporadic and the space for mutual understanding and compromise shrink Geukjian shows that conflict transformation has a particular salience in asymmetric conflicts such as this where the goal is to transform unjust relationships and where a high degree of polarisation between the disputants has taken root Using the Nagorno Karabakh case this book focuses on the anatomy and causes of deadlock in negotiations and highlights the many difficulties in achieving a breakthrough

Communication in Peacebuilding Stefanie Pukallus, 2021-11-17 This book is concerned with the role that communication understood as including both the factual and fictional mass media as well as the performative and visual arts can play in post civil war peacebuilding It engages with questions of how a society can move from the civil war conditions of discursive dehumanisation to peaceful cooperation in post civil war settings and how peacebuilders can help communities utilise the transformative capacity of communication to encourage the reimagining of and engagement with former enemies as co citizens Ultimately civil and peaceful cooperation depends on the observance of discursive civility and the building of safe discursive spaces in which civil engagement between different groups of society including former combatants and survivors can safely take place This book argues that understanding communicative peacebuilding in this way is fundamental to the achievement of self sustainable everyday peace

Music and Solidarity Felicity Laurence, Olivier Urbain, 1999-11-30 The philosopher Christopher Small suggests that musical meanings are concerned with relationships both with other human beings and with the world and that music functions as a means of exploration affirmation and celebration of those relationships If members of different social groups have different values or different concepts of ideal relationships then the kinds of performances that enact those relationships will differ from one another Using music to express benevolent intentions is not in general one of its most obvious functions In fact military music has been used throughout history to destroy cross cultural communion Music is also a powerful and ubiquitous tool in propaganda and in facilitating various political projects in all kinds of inventive ways that have nothing much to do with the pursuit of peaceful and cooperative intercultural understanding or with helping people address issues of injustice This text moves far beyond the knowledge of music s power upon humans however this may be conceived and explained It addresses a field of inquiry that is still a tiny endeavor at least in comparison with all other academic efforts in the world The sparseness of serious theoretical engagement with the topic of music s potential role in the area of peace and policy is echoed by how little music is directly used in the real world for building a more humane consciousness Finding ways to that goal is the purpose of this work

Relational, Networked and Collaborative Approaches to Public Diplomacy R.S. Zaharna, Amelia Arsenault, Ali Fisher, 2014-02-05 Over the past decade scholars practitioners and leading diplomats have forcefully argued for the need to move beyond one way mass media driven campaigns and develop more relational strategies In the coming years as the range of public diplomacy actors grows the issues become more complexly intertwined and the use of social media proliferates the focus on relations will intensify along with the demands for more sophisticated strategies These changes in the international arena call for a connective mindshift a shift from information control and dominance to skilled relationship management Leading international scholars and practitioners embark on a forward looking exploration of creative conceptual frameworks training methods and case studies that advance relational networking and collaborative strategies in public diplomacy Light on academic jargon and rich in analysis this volume argues that while relationships have always been pivotal to the practice of public diplomacy the relational dynamics are changing Rather than focus on specific definitions the contributors focus on the dynamic interplay of influence in the public diplomacy environment That environment includes state and non state actors public and private partners competitors and collaborators new and old media and is conditioned by power ethics and cultures This book is an essential resource to students and practitioners interested on how to build relationships and transform them into more elaborate network structures through public communication It will challenge you to push the boundaries of what you think are the mechanisms benefits and potential issues raised by a relational approach to public diplomacy Forgiveness and Reconciliation Ani Kalayjian, Raymond F. Paloutzian, 2009-07-21 We all long for peace within ourselves families communities countries and throughout the world We wonder what we can do about the multitude of conflicts currently wreaking havoc across the globe and the continuous reports of violence in communities as well as within families Most of the time we contemplate solutions beyond our reach and overlook a powerful tool that is at our disposal forgiveness As a genocide survivor I know something about it As the genocide unfolded in Rwanda in 1994 I was devastated by what I believed to be the inevitable deaths of my loved ones The news that my parents and my seven siblings had indeed been killed was simply unbearable Anger and bitterness became my daily companions Likewise I continued to wonder how the Hutus and Tutsis in Rwanda could possibly reconcile after one of the most horrendous genocides of the 20th century It was not until I came to understand the notion of forgiveness that I was able to see the light at the end of the tunnel Common wisdom suggests that forgiveness comes after a perpetrator makes a genuine apology This wisdom informs us that in the aftermath of a wrongdoing the offender must acknowledge the wrong he or she has done express remorse express an apology commit to never repeating said harm and make reparations to the extent possible Only then can the victim forgive and agree to never seek revenge Health Policy Development Who Regional Office for the Western Pacific, World Health Organization. Regional Office for the Western Pacific, 2006 This handbook has been prepared for the guidance of practitioners involved in the policy making or policy analysis process in the health agencies of Pacific island countries WHO commissioned this work from two experienced policy practitioners who have had many years of experience in the policy process both in the field and in academic settings In this book they outline concisely the different aspects of the policy development process that are relevant and important for people currently involved in advising and making policy in the Pacific The SAGE Encyclopedia of Action Research David Coghlan, Mary Brydon-Miller, 2014-08-11 Action research is a term used to describe a family of related approaches that integrate theory and action with a goal of addressing important organizational community and social issues together with those who experience them It focuses on the creation of areas for collaborative learning and the design enactment and evaluation of liberating actions through combining action and research reflection and action in an ongoing cycle of cogenerative knowledge While the roots of these methodologies go back to the 1940s there has been a dramatic increase in research output and adoption in university curricula over the past decade This is now an area of high popularity among academics and researchers from various fields especially business and organization studies education health care nursing development studies and social and
