Rails To North Wales:

Rails to North Wales Sydney D. Wainwright,1978 The Place of North Wales Huw Vaughan Thomas,1996 Britain from the Rails Benedict Le Vay,2014-12-01 Including the nation s best kept secret railways Cover Crossing the Border Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Welsh Affairs Committee,2013-03-06 Problems with key M4 transport route continue to risk damage to Welsh economy The route has suffered from under investment and congestion for too long The UK and Welsh Governments must work together to find attainable funded solutions to these problems The Committee also says the high toll on the Severn Crossing is still hampering the development of businesses in Wales and deterring inward investment to Wales and the UK Government should bring forward proposals for reducing it The Committee also welcomes the new investment in cross border rail links into Wales but the exclusion of South Wales from the HS2 proposals means businesses and people may relocate eastwards across the border The development of a high speed rail link from Wales to England would be an important boost to the Welsh economy and help to achieve the aim of successive Governments of rebalancing the UK economy There are good examples of joint working between the two governments to secure improvements to strategic cross border routes and especially welcome is the almost 2 billion of rail investment on the electrification of the Great Western Main Line and a proposed new rail link to Heathrow Airport But the Committee says it is unclear why the Welsh Government should be entitled to a Barnett consequential payment in respect of the Crossrail project but not HS2 It also notes that rail connectivity between North and Mid Wales and England has been overlooked for too long and calls for more frequent rail connections from Mid Wales to England Spirit of Northern Rails David Goodyear,2024-04-30 This book endeavours to capture the very essence of the railways in the northern UK exploring in photographs their imprint upon the landscape Railways are illustrated as they traverse the bleak fells pass by traditional cotton mills and industrial heritage stride over iconic viaducts crossing vast windswept valleys and coastal estuaries and as they share the grandeur of iconic cathedrals of both religious and railway station designs while not forgetting the intricate network of canals intertwining with the rails that eventually carried the very traffic that kept these waterways in use Here is a personal selection which I trust helps explore all that characterises and reveals the moods and atmosphere which conjure the heart and Spirit of railways traversing our northern climes Locomotives train designs and liveries past and present will help recall the rails of the 1980 s and 90 s and offer an interesting contrast to the more modern images of the present millennium With a mix of traction and train fleets both in use on passenger and freight consists this selection of images reveals their participation in capturing the heart of railways in the north Readers are invited to share this fascinating adventure and indeed the inherent Northern Spirit which permeates throughout such a journey Industrial Clusters John F. Wilson,Chris Corker,Joe Lane,2022-07-01 Industrial Clusters shows the latest state of knowledge on the topic of industrial clusters with a particular focus on clustering in the UK bringing together a chronological coverage of the phenomenon This set of original essays by a group of leading business and industrial historians offers fresh perspectives about clusters and clustering. A primary emphasis of the collection is how knowledge is generated and disseminated across a cluster and whether these processes stimulated innovation and consequently longer term sustainability. This analysis also prompts questions about which unit of analysis to examine from the entrepreneurs and firms they created through to the industry as a whole and district in which they are located or whether one should look outside the region for explanatory factors. Covering regions as diverse as North Wales, the Scottish Highlands, the City of London, the Potteries, Sheffield and Lancashire, the essays have been channelled to provide a detailed understanding of these issues. The editors have also provided a challenging Conclusion that suggests a new research agenda that could well unravel some of the mysteries associated with clustering. This edited collection will be of interest to international researchers, academics and students in the fields of business and management, history, innovation, industrialisation and clusters.

Cross-border provision of public services for Wales Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Welsh Affairs Committee, 2010-03-11 Working practices between the UK and Welsh Assembly governments in relation to cross border policies appear much improved since the Committee's earlier reports on this subject. But a number of outstanding issues remain in transport, health and further and higher education. On transport the Committee welcomes the planned electrification of the Great Western Main Line. However the Department for Transport appears to have washed its hands of any strategic responsibility for cross border roads. The A483 is the clearest example of a road vital for travel within Wales but which is not important to the English region in which it is located and as a result loses out on funding. The Committee stresses the need for comparative data on which to build solid research comparing NHS performance in the devolved nations. More needs to be done to raise public awareness of the differences in services people can expect to receive on both sides of the border. Transparency of information is vital. Research proposals in the UK Government's Higher Ambitions strategy for higher education make no reference to nations other than England despite the UK wide research remit of the Department for Business, Innovation and Skills. The Committee calls for details about how research funding proposals apply to all four nations.

The story of the traveling post offices and the trains that have served as an essential part of Britain's mail delivery system for almost two centuries. Railways have been used for the carriage of mail in Britain since soon after the Liverpool Manchester Railway opened in 1830, the development of the first traveling post offices following, enabling the Post Office to achieve maximum efficiencies in mail transportation. As the rail network grew, the mail network grew with it, reaching a peak with the dedicated mail trains that ran between London and Aberdeen. The Post Office also turned to railways when it sought a solution to the London traffic that hindered its operations in the Capital, obtaining powers to build its own narrow gauge automatic underground railway under the streets to connect railway stations and sorting offices. Although construction and completion were delayed by the First World War, the Post Office London Railway was eventually brought into use and was an essential part of Post Office operations for many years. Changing circumstances brought an end to both the traveling post offices and the underground railway, but mail is still carried in bulk by train and a part of the railway has found a new life as the Mail Rail tourist attraction. Author Peter Johnson has delved into the archives and old newspapers to uncover the inside story of
