Reshaping Probation And Prisons:

Reshaping Probation and Prisons Hough, Mike, Allen, Rob, Una Padel, 2006-01-11 This text takes a look at the different aspects of the National Offender Management Service NOMS proposals It identifies the risks attached to NOMS assesses the prospects of success and more It is useful for politicians civil servants criminal justice managers and senior probation and prison staff

Handbook on Prisons Yvonne Jewkes, 2012-08-21 This is the most comprehensive and ambitious book on prisons to have been published a key text for anybody studying the subject and an essential work of reference for practitioners working in prisons and other parts of the criminal justice system It is especially timely in view of the many changes and debates about the role of prisons and their future organisation and management as part of the National Offender Management Service A key aim of the book is to explore a wide range of historical and contemporary issues relating to prisons imprisonment and prison management and to chart likely future trends Chapters in the book are written by leading scholars in the field and reflect the range and depth of prison research and scholarship Like the Handbook of Policing and Handbook of Crime Prevention and Community Safety the Handbook on Prisons will be the essential book on the subject

The Penal System Michael Cavadino, James Dignan, 2007-09-17 the most authoritative and sophisticated textbook on the penal system of England and Wales It is essential reading for anyone who wishes to understand the causes character and consequences of the current penal crisis David Downes Mannheim Centre of Criminology London School of Economics What do you look for in a good textbook You would expect it to be as up to date as possible To be presented in a clear and accessible style To cover the issues comprehensively The Penal System delivers in all of these ways Mick Cavadino and Jim Dignan write with passion and authority which makes for an immensely readable book If there is such a thing as an ideal textbook then this is it George Mair Professor in Criminal Justice Liverpool John Moores University remains the most comprehensive up to date and readable text on the subject Yvonne Jewkes Reader in Criminology The Open University The perfect mix of the theoretical and the practical Cavadino and Dignan s updated book is the smartest cutting edge textbook available on the crucial subject of penology Shadd Maruna Queen s University Belfast the book remains an essential resource for students in criminology and criminal justice The authors are hugely effective in delivering a comprehensive guide to criminal justice issues in the 21st century Students will also find the self study guide to electronic sources immensely helpful Loraine Gelsthorpe University of Cambridge The revised and updated edition of this bestselling textbook is the most integrated and authoritative overview of the penal system available The Penal System provides a complete introduction to all aspects of punishment within the wider context of the criminal justice system It covers all the key theories and topics that a student of criminology or criminal justice needs to know about in their course The new edition features Coverage of the deepening penal crisis New material on restorative justice Discussion of recent theoretical developments An overview of changes in the prison and probation services NOMS Critical analysis of recent developments in criminal justice policy A glossary of key terms and abbreviations An extended self study guide to internet resources A companion website to keep students and teachers up to date with relevant legislation www.sagepub.co.uk/thepenalsystem Building on the strengths of the third edition The Penal System remains the most comprehensive analysis of theory research and policy in the area Praise for previous editions There are few must buy books for students of criminology and criminal justice but since its first edition in 1992 The Penal System An Introduction has been one of them For accuracy and scope as well as its remarkable combination of scholarly rigour and readability the book has no equal and it has only got better through successive editions David Smith Professor of Criminology Lancaster University For more than ten years Cavadino and Dignan have provided by far the best policy relevant and theoretically informed account of the British penal system This new edition has only the high standards of its predecessors to beat Cavadino and Dignan may not have managed to change the penal system for the better with their book but no one has delivered a more accessible or intelligent account of why it is so hard to reform Mike Nellis Professor of Criminal and Community Justice University of Strathclyde

Probation and Privatisation Philip Bean, 2018-10-10 Privatisation was introduced into the probation service on the 1st June 2014 whereby work with medium and low risk offenders went to a number of private and voluntary bodies work with high risk offenders remained with the State The National Probation Service NPS covered State work whilst the 35 existing Probation Trusts were replaced by 21 Community Rehabilitation Companies CRCs Staff were allocated to either side of the divide but all remained as probation officers The effect was that the existing probation service lost control of all but 30 000 of the most high risk cases with the other 220 000 low to medium risk offenders being farmed out to private firms Privatisation was justified as the only available way of achieving important policy objectives of extending post release supervision to offenders on short sentences a group who are the most prolific offenders with high reconviction rates yet who receive no statutory support This book describes the process by which the probation service became privatised assessing its impact on the probation service itself and on the criminal justice system generally It considers both the justifications for privatisation as well as the criticisms of it and asks to what extent the probation service can survive such changes and what future it has as a service dedicated to the welfare of offenders It demonstrates how the privatisation of probation can be seen as a trend away from traditional public service in criminal justice towards an emphasis on efficiency and cost effectiveness This book is essential reading for criminology students engaged with criminal justice social policy probation punishment and working with offenders It will also be key reading for practitioners and policy makers in jurisdictions where there is an interest in extending their own privatisation practice

Tackling prison overcrowding Hough, Mike, Allen, Rob, 2008-10-22 Tackling prison overcrowding is a response to controversial proposals for prisons and sentencing set out in by Lord Patrick Carter's Review of Prisons published in 2007 The Carter review proposed the construction of vast Titan prisons to deal with the immediate problem of prison overcrowding the establishment of a Sentencing Commission as a mechanism for keeping judicial demand for prison places in line with supply along with further use of the private sector including private sector management methods Tackling prison overcrowding comprises nine chapters by leading academic experts who expose these proposals to critical scrutiny They take the Carter Report to task for construing the problems too narrowly in terms of efficiency and economy and for failing to understand the wider issues of justice that need addressing They argue that the crisis of prison overcrowding is first and foremost a political problem arising from penal populism for which political solutions need to be found This accessible report will be of interest to policy makers probation practitioners academics and other commentators on criminal policy

Handbook of Probation Loraine Gelsthorpe,Rod Morgan,2013-05-13 This Handbook provides a comprehensive authoritative and up to date source of information and analysis about all aspects of the work of the Probation Service It takes full account of the many changes that the Probation Service has undergone over the last few years and is currently undergoing as probation becomes part of the broader National Offender Management Service Contributors to the book are drawn from leading academics and practitioners in the field drawing upon the best expertise available Running through the book is a concern with a range of key current issues such as addressing the diversity of offenders and creating effective links with other criminal justice agencies and it includes perspectives from both probation service staff and from offenders and victims This book is an essential text for practitioners trainees and students of probation and those studying it as part of a wider criminology or criminal justice course

Addressing Offending Behaviour Simon Green,Elizabeth Lancaster,Simon Feasey,2013-05-13 Offending behaviour is one of the most talked about issues in contemporary society What can be done to stop people reoffending What can be done to help people escape their criminal lifestyles This book aims to review and analyse the different ways in which these questions are addressed in practice drawing upon the expertise of academics and practitioners The book provides a critical reference text for practitioners students and researchers interested in devising the most effective means of addressing offending behaviour Its focus is on the actual work undertaken with offenders and draws upon generic issues of practice applicable across the voluntary community and statutory sectors Addressing Offending Behaviour aims to bridge the gap between practice and research It explores a wide range of innovative techniques for offender intervention along with some of the most challenging academic theories It also considers the wider social political and legal context in which this work takes place and explores the values and bias which operate at both individual and institutional levels It will be key reading for both students and practitioners involved in the fields of criminology and criminal justice law policing probation prisons youth justice and social work

Where Next for Criminal Justice? David Faulkner,Ros Burnett,2012 Where next for criminal justice considers the criminal justice policies which should be adopted how they should be formed and the principles and values which should be used

Understanding the Management of High Risk Offenders Hazel

Kemshall,2008-09-16 This is an extremely important and timely book written by a pre eminent scholar in the field Hazel Kemshall has a proven track record not just of exceptional scholarship but equally importantly of engaging effectively with policy and practice Given the damaging synergies between media hype and public insecurities about dangerous offenders the evidence based measured and thoughtful analysis provided in this book provides a vital counterpoint to increasingly punitive and exclusionary discourses around public protection In promoting a more balanced humane and integrative approach to risk the book deserves to influence not just scholars but also policy makers and practitioners facing the complex challenges of managing risk and dangerousness Fergus McNeill Associate Fellow of the Centre for Sentencing Research Strathclyde University UK High risk offenders have attracted much media policy and practice interest in recent years New legislation and extensive multi agency partnerships have been initiated to improve the assessment and management of these offenders in the community Drawing on a wide range of cross national literature and original research by the author this timely book reviews current approaches to the community management of high risk offenders The book examines in detail a range of risk management techniques including Community protection measures such as sexual offender registration and community notification Restorative and re integrative measures such as Circles of Support and Accountability pro social modelling public health campaigns and environmental risk management approaches Hazel Kemshall argues for a blending of these two approaches to provide risk management interventions for the protective integration of high risk offenders back into the community In addition the book examines contemporary difficulties in risk assessment effective multi agency partnership working and recent policy and legislative initiatives in this challenging area of work Understanding the Management of High Risk Offenders is a vital resource for criminology and criminal justice students and stimulating reading for probation officers social workers police and prison staff among others

Configuring Value Conflicts in Markets Susanna Alexius,Kristina Tamm Hallström,2014-01-01 Economic values shape markets as does sustainability safety decency public health and democracy Based on micro process studies in a dozen markets this multi disciplinary book presents a typology of strategic responses to value plurality in markets and helps to explain how such value work influences market reform Value plurality may be reinforced and turned into open conflicts but also played down in configurations that neutralize align balance or hierarchize values By highlighting the role of values in markets this book clarifies why and how markets are organized

Technologies of InSecurity Katja Franko Aas,Helene Oppen Gundhus,Heidi Mork Lomell,2008-08-21 Technologies of Insecurity examines how general social and political concerns about terrorism crime migration and globalization are translated into concrete practices of securitisation of everyday life Who are we afraid of in a globalizing world How are issues of safety and security constructed and addressed by various local actors and embodied in a variety of surveillance systems Examining how various forms of contemporary insecurity are translated into and reduced to issues of surveillance and social control this book explores a variety of practical and cultural aspects of technological control as well as the discourses about safety and security surrounding them In security is a politically and socially constructed phenomenon with a variety of meanings and modalities And exploring the inherent duality and dialectics between our striving for security and the simultaneous production of insecurity Technologies of Insecurity considers how mundane objects and activities are becoming bearers of risks which need to be neutralised As ordinary arenas such as the workplace the city centre the football stadium the airport and the internet are imbued with various notions of risk and danger and subject to changing public attitudes and sensibilities the critical deconstruction of the nexus between everyday surveillance and in security pursued here provides important new insights about how broader political issues are translated into concrete and local practices of social control and exclusion

Probation Rob Canton, Jane Dominey, 2017-12-14 This book provides a comprehensive and accessible introduction to probation It brings together themes of policy theory and practice to help students and practitioners better understand the work of probation its limitations its potential but above all its value Setting probation in the context of the criminal justice system the book explores its history purposes and contemporary significance It explains what probation is and the practical realities of working with offenders in the community The book also covers the governance of probation and how policy and practice are responding to contemporary concerns about crime and community safety This book encourages readers to appreciate the practical and theoretical strengths and shortcomings of contemporary probation practice This revised and updated new edition includes a full description and discussion of recent reforms in the probation service and the Transforming Rehabilitation policy agenda It also offers further discussion of international perspectives on probation including international developments and collaborative efforts between countries This book is essential reading for trainee probation officers and students taking courses on probation offender management treatment and rehabilitation working with offenders and community justice

Ball, 2024-02-27 The Eighth Edition of Criminological Theory offers a rich introduction to how scholars analyze crime moving readers beyond a commonsense knowledge of crime to a deeper understanding of the importance of theory in shaping crime control policies

Spaces of Care Loraine Gelsthorpe, Pervuez Mody, Brian Sloan, 2020-04-16 The collection examines the ways in which the emerging interdisciplinary study of care provokes a reassessment of the connections and disjuncture between care and governance ethics and public personal and professional identities Evolving from a project coordinated by the Cambridge Socio Legal Group Spaces of Care brings together leading international scholars to articulate what we may consider to be a useful analytic of care Lawyers anthropologists sociologists and criminologists reflect on specific aspects of conceptualising caring relations in spaces These spaces include communities of care and abandonment self care and kinship care spaces as gaps in care the meanings of marketised care and the ways in which care is constructed and constrained in different ways in venues such as homes prisons workplaces and virtual spaces Common themes include temporality historical specificity and the dynamics of care across time and place subjectivity including different experiences of care the economies of care including the commodification of care public and private manifestations of care privatised care disruptions of care which generate vulnerabilities with regard to continuities of care eligibility those deemed to be deserving and undeserving of care relationalities of care collective and individual agency in caring relations kinship care and technologies and imaginaries of care as in new notions of care forged by those in online virtual worlds such as Second Life

Why Punish? Rob

Canton, 2017-09-16 Why do we punish Is it because only punishment can achieve justice for victims and right the wrong of a crime Or is it justified because it reduces crime by deterring potential offenders offering rehabilitative treatment to others and incapacitating the most dangerous The complex answers to this enduring question vary across time and place and are directly linked to people's personal cultural social religious and ethical commitments and even their sense of identity This unique introduction to the philosophy of punishment provides a systematic analysis of the themes of retribution deterrence rehabilitation incapacitation and restorative justice Integrating philosophical sociological political and ethical perspectives it provides a thorough and wide ranging discussion of the purposes meanings and justifications of punishment for crime and the extent to which punishment does could or should live up to what it claims to achieve Why Punish challenges criminology and criminal justice students as well as policy makers judges magistrates and criminal justice practitioners to think more critically about the role of punishment and the moral principles that underpin it Bridging abstract theory with the realities of practice Rob Canton asks what better punishment would look like and how it can be achieved

Changing Contours of Criminal Justice Mary Bosworth, Carolyn Hoyle, Lucia Zedner, 2016-11-17 Celebrating the 50th Anniversary of the Oxford Centre for Criminology this edited collection of essays seeks to explore the changing contours of criminal justice over the past half century and to consider possible shifts over the next few decades The question of how social science disciplines develop and change does not invite any easy answer with the task made all the more difficult given the highly politicised nature of some subjects and the volatile evolving status of its institutions and practices A case in point is criminal justice at once fairly parochial much criminal justice scholarship is now global in its reach and subject areas that are now accepted as central to its study victims restorative justice security privatization terrorism citizenship and migration to name just a few were topics unknown to the discipline half a century ago Indeed most criminologists would have once stoutly denied that they had anything to do with it Likewise some central topics of past criminological attention like probation have largely receded from academic attention and some central criminal justice institutions like Borstal and corporal punishment have at least in Europe been abolished Although the rapidity and radical nature of this change make it quite impossible to predict what criminal justice will look like in fifty years time reflection on such developments may assist in understanding how it arrived at its current form and hint at what the future holds The contributors to this volume have been invited to reflect on the impact Oxford criminology has had on the discipline providing a unique and critical discussion about the current state of criminal justice around the world and the origins and future implications of contemporary practice All are leading internationally renowned criminologists whose work has defined and often re defined our understanding of criminal justice policy and literature

Criminal Behaviour in Context Nick Flynn, 2017-09-25 This book examines the extent to which criminal desistance the change process involved in the ending of criminal behaviour is affected by personal and social circumstances which are place specific Grounded in criminological spatial analysis as well as more general social scientific investigations of the role of space and place in contemporary social economic and cultural life it examines why large numbers of prisoners in the United States and the United Kingdom appear to be drawn from and after release return to certain urban neighbourhoods In doing so Criminal Behaviour in Context assesses the effect of this unique life course experience on the pathways and choices open to ex prisoners who attempt to give up crime Including new data on the geographical distribution of offenders interviews with serving prisoners and drawing on theories about social context identity and subjectivity it discusses the implications of the evidence and arguments presented for prisoner reintegration policy and practice

Criminal Justice in Transition Anne-Marie McAlinden, Clare Dwyer, 2015-11-12 This book represents a critical examination of key aspects of crime and criminal justice in Northern Ireland which will have resonance elsewhere It considers the core aspects of criminal justice policy making in Northern Ireland which are central to the process of post conflict transition including reform of policing judicial decision making and correctional services such as probation and prisons It examines contemporary trends in criminal justice in Northern Ireland and various dimensions of crime relating to female offenders young offenders sexual and violent offenders community safety and restorative justice The book also considers the extent to which crime and criminal justice issues in Northern Ireland are being affected by the broader processes of policy transfer globalisation and transnationalism and the extent to which criminal justice in Northern Ireland is divergent from the other jurisdictions in the United Kingdom Written by leading international authorities in the field the book offers a snapshot of the cutting edge of critical thinking in criminal justice practice and transitional justice contexts
