Residential Environments Choice Satisfaction And Behavior:

Residential Environments Juan I. Aragones, Guido Francescato, Tommy Gärling, 2002 Housing fulfills a basic human need for shelter It protects us from the weather and from hostile intruders Often it is an expression of personal identity and social status A home is a major personal financial investment and housing is an important part of the economy The home is also invested with profound psychological and social meaning It helps meet our needs to feel rooted and to belong It is a center of privacy a refuge from the world and at the same time the place where we interact with our family friends and acquaintances As such the home is an important factor in personal and social development particularly in childhood Because of the complex role of housing in human life residential environments are an important area of study in a wide variety of fields including anthropology architecture economics environmental design geography psychology and sociology The dwelling is the nucleus around which the discourse about residential environments is articulated but it is not its only component Residential environments also involve other elements such as the neighborhood neighbors and the larger urban community This multidisciplinary study of residential environments conveys the complex nature of people s experiences with thier residences neighborhoods and communities

Environmental Choice, Human Behavior, and Residential

Satisfaction William M. Michelson, 1977 Residential Satisfaction and Housing Policy Evolution Clinton

Aigbavboa, Wellington Thwala, 2018-07-04 This book explores residential satisfaction and housing policy trends in developing nations by using subsidised low income housing examples in South Africa Ghana and Nigeria as case studies While there has been much documentation on the formation of residential satisfaction and the evolution of housing policy in developed nations relatively little has been written about these topics in developing nations This book provides readers with two major practical insights The first is focused on the theoretical underpinning of residential satisfaction and the formation of residential satisfaction in subsidised low income housing through the development of a conceptual framework while the second is focused on housing policy evolution and its trends in South Africa In this section of the book comparative overviews of public housing in two West African countries are provided with an emphasis on the philosophical basis for its development in these countries The central aim of the book is to provide readers with ideas on residential satisfaction formation and housing policy trends in South Africa

Handbook of Quality of Life Research

Robert W. Marans, Robert J. Stimson, Noah J. Webster, 2024-03-14 This erudite Handbook demonstrates how multiple approaches have been used to conceptualize measure and model the complex issue of quality of life QOL and individual well being emphasizing place and space as critical factors in a meaningful QOL experience among diverse populations including special attention given to older adults

Home Environments Irwin Altman, Carol M. Werner, 2013-06-29 The present volume in the series focuses on homes residences and dwellings Although many fields have had a long standing interest in different aspects of home environments the topic has recently come to the forefront in the interdisciplinary environment and behavior field Researchers and theorists from many disciplines have begun to meet regularly share ideas and perspectives and move the investigation of psychological social and behavioral aspects of home environments to the central arena of environment and behavior studies This volume representative though not comprehensive attempts to provide a sampling of contemporary perspectives on the study of home environments As in previous volumes the authors are drawn from a variety of disciplines including environmental design fields of architecture and planning and from the social science fields of psychology sociology anthropology and history This diversity of authors and perspectives makes salient the principle that the study of homes in relation to behavior requires the contributions of many disciplines Moreover the chapters in this volume reflect an array of research and theoretical viewpoints different scales of home environments e g objects and areas the home as a whole the home as embedded in neighborhood and communities etc design and policy issues and necessarily a comparative and cross cultural perspective Home environments are at the core of human life in most cultures and it is hoped that the contributions to this volume display the excitement potential and importance of research and theory on homes

Building Evaluation Wolfgang F.E. Preiser, 2013-12-14 This book is about building evaluation in the broadest sense and it transcends the meaning and conventional boundaries of the evolving field of post occupancy evaluation by focusing on evaluation throughout the building delivery process This process is seen not just as being linear with a product in mind i e the completed and occupied building but rather it is seen as a cyclic evolution which has as its goal the continuous improvement of the quality of buildings This goal can only be accomplished if evaluation occurs throughout the building delivery process and if 1 the evaluation that does occur is systematic and rigorous 2 the data that is obtained can be fed into data bases and clearinghouses for use in future generations of buildings and 3 there is continuity in information flow The idea for this book originated with a symposium that was part of a conference held at the Technical University in Delft Netherlands in July of 1988 i e IAPS 10 the tenth biannual conference of the International Association for the Study of People and their Physical Surroundings Authors presented papers based on their book chapters and discussions ensued about the expanded boundaries of the field about theoretical methodological and practical issues as well as applications in building evaluation Other relevant topics were identified and several additional authors were invited to participate in order to round out the contents of this book

Deciding Where to Live Pierre Frankhauser, Dominique Ansel, 2016-09-13 This book proposes from a cross disciplinary perspective an original reading of current work on residential choice and the decisions associated with it Geographers social psychologists economists sociologists neurologists and linguists have worked together in the context of collective research into evaluation choice and decision making in the use of urban and periurban spaces A synthetic outlook has been constructed from these complementary scientific references The book which is designed as a handbook also provides the opportunity to set out the different approaches to deal with the models which have been developed in this field

Handbook of Environmental Psychology and Quality of Life Research Ghazlane Fleury-Bahi, Enric Pol, Oscar Navarro, 2016-08-12 This Handbook

presents a broad overview of the current research carried out in environmental psychology which puts into perspective quality of life and relationships with living spaces and shows how this original analytical framework can be used to understand different environmental and societal issues Adopting an original approach this Handbook focuses on the links with other specialties in psychology especially social and health psychology together with other disciplines such as geography architecture sociology anthropology urbanism and engineering Faced with the problems of society which involve the quality of life of individuals and communities it is fundamental to consider the relationships an individual has with his different living spaces This issue of the links between quality of life and environment is becoming increasingly significant with at a local level problems resulting from different types of annoyances such as pollution and noise while at a global level there is the central question of climate change with its harmful consequences for humans and the planet How can the impact on well being of environmental nuisances and threats for example natural risks pollution and noise be reduced How can the quality of life within daily living spaces home cities work environments be improved Why is it important to understand the psychological issues of our relationship with the global environment climatic warming ecological behaviours This Handbook is intended not only for students of various disciplines geography architecture psychology town planning etc but also for social decision makers and players who will find in it both theoretical and methodological perspectives so that psychological and environmental dimensions can be better taken into account in their working practices

Building Performance Evaluation Wolfgang F.E. Preiser, Andrea E. Hardy, Ulrich Schramm, 2017-08-30 The main aim of this book is to present an intriguing retrospective of Building Performance Evaluation BPE as it evolved from Post Occupancy Evaluation POE over the past 25 years On one hand this is done by updating original authors chapter content of Building Evaluation the first edition published in 1989 That in turn is augmented by an orientation toward current and future practice on the other including new authors who are engaged in ongoing cutting edge projects Therefore individual methodology oriented chapters covering the fundamental principles of POE and BPE go along with major thematic chapters topics of which like sustainability or integration of new technologies are addressed in a diversity of case studies from around the globe Research methodologies and framework of POEs continue to evolve POEs are one step on the larger scale of BPE in understanding how buildings function after they are occupied This resource helps architects building owners and facility managers understand the implications and reactions to the facilities that they designed built and or commissioned By considering the whole process from conception to future uses of the building there can be a more holistic approach to the planning programming design construction occupancy and future adaptability of the structure This book is dedicated to first editor Wolfgang F E Preiser who passed away during the process of editing and reviewing chapters of this volume
