Travel Writing and Empire Steven H. Clark, 1999 Travel writing has become central to postcolonial studies This book provides an introduction to the genre particularly to its dynamics of power and representation and the degree to which it has promoted ideologies of empire The book combines detailed evaluations of major contemporary models of analysis new historicism travelling theory and post colonial studies with a series of specific studies detailing the complicity of the genre with a history of violent incursion from Columbus reports from the New World through to the nomadism of postmodern travelogue Among its particular areas of concern are Othering discourses of cannibalism and infanticide the production of colonial knowledge geographic medicinal zoological the role of sexual anxiety in the construction of the gendered travelling body the interplay between imperial and domestic spheres reappropriation of alien discourse by indigenous cultures Post colonial studies has concentrated on travellers as conduits of erasure and appropriation This book resists the temptation to think in terms of a simple monolithic Eurocentrism and offers a more complex reading of texts produced before during and after periods of imperial ascendancy In doing so it provides a more nuanced account of the hegemonic functions of travel writing As such it is necessary reading for students and academics of cultural studies literary theory anthropology and history

Tourism, Magic and Modernity David Picard,2011-09-01 Drawing from extended fieldwork in La R union in the Indian Ocean the author suggests an innovative re reading of different concepts of magic that emerge in the global cultural economics of tourism Following the making and unmaking of the tropical island tourism destination of La R union he demonstrates how destinations are transformed into magical pleasure gardens in which human life is cultivated for tourist consumption Like a gardener would cultivate flowers local development policy nature conservation and museum initiatives dramatise local social life so as to evoke modernist paradigms of time beauty and nature Islanders who live in this human garden are thus placed in the ambivalent role of human flowers embodying ideas of authenticity and biblical innocence but also of history and social life in perpetual creolisation

A Politics of Presence Peter Pels, 2013-12-16 Christian missions in Africa are commonly viewed as a blatant example of ethnocentrism This stereotype partly exists because the day to day interaction between missionaries and Africans has so rarely been studied This book shows how Africans and missionaries co produced a Catholic Church in the Uluguru mountains of Eastern Tanzania in the late colonial period thereby adapting each others routines in the fields of initiation education magic and religion It explores how the presence of the mission resulted in a rift between spiritual and worldly magic and in the underdevelopment of the capacity of Waluguru to manage their own practices of revelation

Embedding Ethics Lynn Meskell, Peter Pels, 2020-05-27 Anthropologists who talk about ethics generally mean the code of practice drafted by a professional association for implementation by its members As this book convincingly shows such a conception is far too narrow A more radical approach is to recognize that moral judgments are made at every juncture of scientific practice and they require a negotiation of responsibility with all stakeholders in the research enterprise Embedding Ethics questions why ethics have been divorced from scientific expertise Invoking different disciplinary practices from biological archaeological cultural and linguistic anthropology contributors show how ethics should be resituated at the heart of rather than exterior to scientific activity Positioning the researcher as a negotiator of significant truths rather than an adjudicator of a priori precepts enables contributors to relocate ethics in new sets of social and scientific relationships triggered by recent globalization processes from new forms of intellectual and cultural ownership to accountability in governance and the very ways in which people are studied Case studies from ethnographic research museum display archaeological fieldwork and professional monitoring illustrate both best practice and potential pitfalls This important book is an essential guide for all anthropologists who wish to be active contributors to the discussion on ethics and the ethical practice of their profession

Literacy and Globalization Uta Papen, 2006-09-27 Using literacy practices in the newly independent post apartheid Namibia as a lens through which to examine the effects of globalisation this broad case study looks at issues surrounding tourism state control and the new forces of consumerism By placing literacy at the centre of an investigation into social and cultural change as experienced by individuals Papen shows that in times of change reading and writing are always implicated in structures of power and inequality The book considers language practices that can exclude some members of Namibian society and also looks at the strategies used by local people to accommodate and even embrace the onward march of global English and the influx of foreign visitors practices and modes of commerce and interaction

Consumption and Identity Jonathan Friedman, 2005-06-28 First published in 2004 Studies in Anthropology and History is a series that will develop new theoretical perspectives and combine comparative and ethnographic studies with historical research Volume fifteen and this is about the relation between consumption and broader cultural strategies The papers are the product of a workshop organized in Denmark under the aegis of the Center for Research in the Humanities which took place in 1989 While the majority of participants were anthropologists there were also sociologists and historians present

Narratives of Nation in the South Pacific Nicholas Thomas, 2005-06-27 It is striking that in many Pacific nations national narratives are subordinate to other fundamental historical imaginings such as those concerning local political dynasties and conversion to Christianity While leaders in Pacific states have frequently sought to legitimate new nations through local tradition and custom these constructions of identity frequently mask divisions arising from gender hierarchy and other social relationships These studies from Papua New Guinea Vanuatu Samoa and the Cook Islands add much to our knowledge of historical imaginings and contemporary culture in the Pacific but raise wider questions concerning the current transformation of national identities
