Fiske, 2008 Sponsored by the Association for Education Finance and Policy AEFPP this groundbreaking new handbook assembles in one place the existing research based knowledge in education finance and policy thereby helping to define this evolving field of research and practice It provides a readily available resource for anyone seriously involved in education finance and policy in the United States and around the world The Handbook traces the evolution of the field from its initial focus on school inputs and the revenue sources used to finance these inputs to a focus on educational outcomes and the larger policies used to achieve them It shows how the current decision making context in school finance inevitably interacts with those of governance accountability equity privatization and other areas of education policy Because a full understanding of the important contemporary issues requires input from a variety of perspectives the Handbook draws on contributors from a variety of disciplines While many of the chapters cover complex state of the art empirical research the authors explain key concepts in language that non specialists can understand Improving Urban Access Elliott D. Sclar, Måns Lönnroth, Christian Wolmar, 2016-03-31 By 2050 two thirds of the world's population will live in cities To thrive they will need efficient and sustainable forms of transport but to achieve this the financial incentives guiding urban transport operation must change and change rapidly Urban transport plays a critical role in determining the social environmental and economic shape of cities Improving Urban Access New Approaches to Funding Transport Investment provide innovative ideas on how we might reorganize transport finance to ensure that it is suited to serving the social environmental and economic principles that must guide future urban living Continuing the work begun by its predecessor Urban Access for the 21st Century the authors assess the complexity of implementing new finance approaches and suggest ways to make positive and radical changes Although the range of revenue raising options remain limited to users indirect beneficiaries and the general public these can be recast to transform the way transport is paid for and therefore how its services are delivered New finance models only succeed when they are intrinsically linked to the economic social cultural and political forces that create urban life Together these volumes provide a starting point for the deeper research and policy design needed to successfully create urban transport finance systems that can address the challenges that 21st century cities present

Project Development Methodologies for Reconstruction of Urban Freeways and Expressways James B. Saag, 1999 This synthesis presents a review of the current practices associated with the techniques and policies employed by state and local transportation agencies to address the many project development issues required for the reconstruction of existing urban and suburban freeways and expressways This topic is of special interest because there is a need to reconstruct many highway facilities that have been in existence for over 40 years The need arises both from the deterioration of the infrastructure and from changes in capacity requirements This synthesis will be of interest to state and local highway design engineers traffic engineers finance and contracting specialists and contracting personnel in these agencies It will also be of interest to consultants who are engaged in freeway expressway reconstruction projects While many of the project development methodologies in practice for reconstruction of urban and suburban freeways and expressways are similar to those used for new construction there are unique differences that apply primarily to the reconstruction of major urban highway facilities This report of the Transportation Research Board highlights the similarities and differences in the planning and management of projects as well as in contracting and financing innovations Methods for effectively managing traffic during the reconstruction process are important to the process as are traffic control procedures in the work zone Public participation and public information dissemination related to traffic changes are vitally important to the effective completion of a reconstruction project Other aspects such as the design process including the use of 3 D and 4 D visualization pavement renewal procedures environmental impact mitigation and enhancement activities that are considered in the process are also addressed

Fiscal Decentralization and Local Finance in Developing Countries Roy Bahl, Richard M. Bird, 2018-03-30 This book draws on experiences in developing countries to bridge the gap between the conventional textbook treatment of fiscal decentralization and the actual practice of subnational government finance The extensive literature about the theory and practice is surveyed and longstanding problems and new questions are addressed It focuses on the key choices that must be made in decentralizing on how economic and political factors shape the choices that countries make and on how by paying more attention to the need for a more comprehensive approach and the critical connections between different components of decentralization reform everyone involved might get more for their money List of Publications Issued by Committee on Banking, Finance, and Urban Affairs United States. Committee on Finance, State and Local Finances Under Pressure David L. Sjoquist, 2003-01-01 State and Local Finances under Pressure explores the future of state and local government fiscal systems given the numerous pressures they face from economic legal technological demographic and political forces It explores how these multiple forces play out in terms of the changes state and local governments should and are likely to make The contributors argue that state and local governments must make substantial changes and that failure to act is likely to result in adverse effects and increasing pressures for modifications that are more difficult to implement and more politically unpalatable Without reform state and local fiscal systems will grow increasingly out of sync with economic reality The authors suggest that government responses are likely to be evolutionary but that in 25 years the recorded changes will be substantial The first chapter provides a historic perspective of state and local fiscal trends Each of the subsequent chapters describes the nature of one of the pressures state and local governments face including political and legal forces globalization of business demographic and technological changes deregulation of utilities and urban sprawl Policymakers economists political scientists fiscal policy analysts and public administrators will find this comprehensive book of interest

Urban Infrastructure Finance from Private Operators Patricia Clarke Annez, 2006 The author examines the role of private participation in infrastructure PPI in mobilizing finance for key urban services that is urban roads municipal solid waste management and water and sanitation since the early 1990s when private participation came to be seen as a key element in infrastructure development Her review indicates that for financing urban services PPI has disappointed playing a far less significant role than was hoped for and which might be expected given the attention it has received and continues to receive in strategies to mobilize financing for infrastructure Looking beyond the number the author examines transactions and finds that there are good reasons practical political economic and institutional for these disappointments Recommending that cities in developing countries try harder is not likely to relieve all these constraints Experience shows that there are a number of features that raise the risk profile of urban infrastructure for private investors which has meant that the bulk of the transactions that have taken place have been exceptions rather than harbingers of a growing trend Many of the measures that could reduce the risk profile are outside the control of many cities others unlikely to change and yet another group of steps to be taken that would improve prospects for urban service provision whether in the hands of public or private operators These findings suggest a more pragmatic and selective approach to the focus on PPI as a source of finance and more focus on the array of some of the fundamental steps among them strengthening the public finances of cities to improve both the capacity to deliver services and to reduce the risks that private investors must take when they invest in urban infrastructure
