Disrupting Early Childhood Education Research Will Parnell, Jeanne Marie Iorio, 2015-12-22 Recent and increasing efforts to standardize young children's academic performance have shifted the emphases of education toward normative practices and away from qualitative substantive intentions Connection to human experience compassion for societal ailments and the joys of learning are straining under the pressure of quantitative research competition and test scores exemplified by federal funding competitions and policymaking Disrupting Early Childhood Education Research critically interrogates the traditional foundations of early childhood research practices to disrupt the status quo through imaginative cutting edge research in diverse U S and international contexts Its chapters are driven by empirical data derived from unique research projects and a variety of contemporary methodologies that include phenomenological studies auto ethnographic writings action oriented studies arts based methodologies and other innovative approaches By giving voice to marginalized social science researchers who are active in learning school and early education sectors this volume explores the meanings of actionable and everyday approaches based on the experiences of young children their families and educators

Unsettling the Colonial Places and Spaces of Early Childhood Education Veronica Pacini-Ketchabaw, Affrica Taylor, 2015-03-24 Unsettling the Colonial Places and Spaces of Early Childhood Education uncovers and interrogates some of the inherent colonialist tensions that are rarely acknowledged and often unwittingly rehearsed within contemporary early childhood education Through building upon the prior postcolonial interventions of prominent early childhood scholars Unsettling the Colonial Places and Spaces of Early Childhood Education reveals how early childhood education is implicated in the colonialist project of predominantly immigrant post colonial settler societies By politicizing the silences around these specifically settler colonialist tensions it seeks to further unsettle the innocence presumptions of early childhood education and to offer some decolonizing strategies for early childhood practitioners and scholars Grounding their inquiries in early childhood education the authors variously engage with postcolonial theory place theory feminist philosophy the ecological humanities and indigenous onto epistemologies

Negotiating Adult-Child Relationships in Early Childhood Research Deborah Albon, Rachel Rosen, 2013-08-15 Negotiating Adult Child Relationships in Early Childhood Research presents a substantive critique of technicist and neoliberal approaches to ethics through an exploration of the complicated and often messy situations faced in negotiating relationships in research with children Despite growing acknowledgement of their centrality relationships between adult researchers and very young participants have been neglected and under theorised and in response this book offers a comprehensive conceptualisation of adult child research relationships through examination of questions including How do power and inequity impact on adult child research relationships What does it mean for relationships when researchers intervene in the field How do bodies matter in research relationships What does an emphasis on relationships with young children mean for the research process Drawing on data from their own research the authors contend that relationships are part of a wider web of social relations and space time configurations They propose and develop a relational ethics of answerability and social justice inspired by the work of Bakhtin and in addition explore the way material bodies come to matter the ambiguity of consent in educator research and the risks and possibilities of research relationships Chapters include innovative formulations of reciprocity sensing practices and political ethical responsibility This book contributes to current debates about research with young children offering an incisive and thorough exploration of the importance of relationships to the research process Relevant for international audiences this book is essential reading for early childhood students and educators researchers and lecturers with an interest in research with children and practice Children Who Resist Post-Separation Parental Contact Barbara Jo Fidler, Nicholas Bala, Michael A. Saini, 2012-09-13 Interest in the problem of children who resist contact with or become alienated from a parent after separation or divorce is growing due in part to parents increasing frustrations with the apparent ineffectiveness of the legal system in handling these unique cases There is a need for legal and mental health professionals to improve their understanding of and response to this polarizing social dynamic Children Who Resist Post Separation Parental Contact is a critical empirically based review of parental alienation that integrates the best research evidence with clinical insight from interviews with leading scholars and practitioners The authors Fidler Bala and Saini a psychologist a lawyer and a social worker are an multidisciplinary team who draw upon the growing body of mental health and legal literature to summarize the historical development and controversies surrounding the concept of alienation and explain the causes dynamics and differentiation of various types of parent child relationship issues The authors review research on prevalence risk factors indicators assessment and measurement to form a conceptual integration of multiple factors relevant to the etiology and maintenance of the problem of strained parent child relationships A differential approach to assessment and intervention is provided Children s rights the role of their wishes and preferences in legal proceedings and the short and long term impact of parental alienation are also discussed Considering legal clinical prevention and intervention strategies and concluding with recommendations for practice research and policy this book is a much needed resource for mental health professionals judges family lawyers child protection workers mediators and others who work with families dealing with divorce separation and child custody issues Children's Exploration and Cultural Formation Mariane Hedegaard, Elin Eriksen

Ødegaard, 2020-02-28 This open access book examines the educational conditions that support cultures of exploration in kindergartens It conceptualises cultures of exploration whether those cultures are created through children s own engagement or are demanded of them through undertaking specific tasks within different institutional settings It shows how the conditions for children s exploration form a web of activities in different settings with social relationships local landscapes and artefacts The book builds on the understanding of cultural traditions as deeply implicated in the developmental processes meaning that local considerations must be reflected in education for sustainable futures Therefore the book examines and conceptualises exploration and cultural formation through locally situated cases and navigates toward global educational concepts The book provides different windows into how children may explore in everyday practice settings in kindergarten and contributes to a loci based ecological integral knowledge relevant for early childhood education The Art and Science of Child Custody Evaluations Jonathan W. Gould, David A. Martindale, 2007-07-10 Addressing key topics in child custody evaluation this book provides essential knowledge for practitioners who want to meet the highest standards for both scientific validity and legal admissibility The authors are leading experts who describe the latest data based approaches to understanding and assessing relevant child parent and family factors Going beyond the basics the book gives in depth attention to challenging frequently encountered issues such as how to evaluate allegations of domestic violence child sexual abuse and child alienation Also covered are the complexities of interviewing children effectively and working in the adversarial forensic context A user friendly appendix contains sample letters and statements of understanding with permission to photocopy Rethinking Inclusive Education: The Philosophers of Difference in Practice Julie

Allan,2007-11-07 One of the important responsibilities that advocates of inclusion need to continually practise is that of self criticism This includes examining and re examining the assumptions informing our perspectives the concepts that we use including inclusive education and our intentions especially in relation to the question of change We need to beware of the danger of unexamined orthodoxies the possibilities of adopting inclusive language with little if any changes in our thinking and practice and a sterile and insensitive position with regard to the pursuit of new or alternative ideas In this very important book Allan powerfully reminds us of the necessity and centrality of these concerns and provides a direct perceptive and thoughtful examination and critique of the varied barriers to the task of how to make inclusion happen Allan challenges the reader to step back and re examine the rationale for inclusion through an alternative mindset She challenges the varied attacks upon inclusion including those in the education business to stop using economic it costs too much and pedagogical it is bad for the other children in the class and traumatic for the disabled children and social just too much for the teacher s workload reasons for closing the door and doing the right thing and those who argue that inclusion was an experiment that did not work Parental Alienation, DSM-5, and ICD-11 William Bernet,2010 Parental alienation is an important phenomenon that mental health professionals should know about and thoroughly understand especially those who work with children adolescents divorced adults and adults whose parents divorced when they were children In this book the authors define parental alienation as a mental condition in which a child usually one whose parents are engaged in a high conflict divorce allies himself or herself strongly with one parent the preferred parent and rejects a relationship with the other parent the alienated parent without legitimate justification This process leads to a tragic outcome when the child and the alienated parent who previously had a loving and mutually satisfying relationship lose the nurture and joy of that relationship for many years and perhaps for their lifetimes We estimate that 1 percent of children and adolescents in the U S experience parental alienation When the phenomenon is properly recognized this condition is preventable and treatable in many instances The authors of this book believe that parental alienation is not simply a minor aberration in the life of a family but a serious mental condition Because of the false belief that the alienated parent is a dangerous or unworthy person the child loses one of the most important relationships in his or her life This book contains much information about the validity reliability and prevalence of parental alienation It also includes a comprehensive international bibliography regarding parental alienation with more than 600 citations In order to bring life to the definitions and the technical writing several short clinical vignettes have been included These vignettes are based on actual families and real events but have been modified to protect the privacy of both the parents and children
