Retinoids Heinz Nau, William S. Blaner, 2012-12-06 In the future the decade of the 1990s will likely be viewed as a Golden Age for retinoid research There have been unprecedented research gains in the understanding of retinoid actions and physiology since the retinoid nuclear receptors were first identified and the importance of retinoic acid in developmental processes was first broadly recognized in the late 1980s Between then and now our knowledge of retinoid action has evolved from one of a near complete lack of understanding of how retinoids act within cells to one of sophisticated understanding of the molecular processes through which retinoids modulate transcription In this volume we have tried to provide a comprehensive update of the present understanding of retinoid actions with an emphasis on recent advances The initial chapters of the volume or Section A focus on the physicochemical properties and metabolism of naturally occurring retinoids N OY provides an uncommonly encountered view of retinoid effects from the perspective of the physicochemical properties of retinoids V AKIANI and BUCK lend a perspective on the biological occurrence and actions of retro and anhydro retinoids Section B considers both the retinoid nuclear receptors and their mechanisms of action as well as synthetic retinoids that have been used experimentally to provide mechanistic insights into receptor actions and have potential therapeutic use for treating disease PIEDRAFITA and PFAHL provide a comprehensive review of retinoid nuclear receptor biochemistry and molecular biology

Hollyfield,Matthew M. LaVail,2012-12-06 During the last few years an explosion of information has come from human genetics and molecular and cell biological studies as to the genetic basis for a number of forms of inherited retinal degenerations These disorders have plagued mankind for millennia because they take from otherwise healthy individuals the precious gift of sight The fundamental advances in recent years have identified a number of genes involved in the groups of diseases which hopefully will lead to discoveries that may in the not too distant future allow the prevention and possible cure of some of these blinding eye disorders To foster a forum for discussions of studies on degenerative retinal disorders we convened a symposium on retinal degenerations in 1984 at the VIth International Congress of Eye Research Meeting held in Alicante Spain Because of the success of this meeting and the subsequent publication we have since organized a series of biennial satellite meetings on retinal degenerations for the ISER congresses held in Nagoya Japan 1986 San Francisco 1988 and Helsinki 1990 Each of these satellite symposium on retinal degenerations was accompanied by a published proceedings
