Seagulls Dont Fly Into The Bush Cultural Identity And Development In Melanesia:

Seagulls Don't Fly Into the Bush Alice Pomponio,1992 This text investigates the relationship between cultural identity and economics development in the six Siassi islands located between mainland New Guinea and New Britain in Papua New Guinea taking a course in Cultural Anthropology Pacific Field Method and Applied Anthropology Seagulls Don't Fly Into the Bush Alice Pomponio,2000 Cultural Identity and Ethnicity in the Pacific Jocelyn Linnekin,Lin Poyer,1990-01-01

Religions of Melanesia Garry Trompf,2006-09-30 Melansia boasts over one quarter of the world s distinct religions and presents the most complex religious panorama on earth The region is famous for its unusual new religious movements that have adapted traditional beliefs to modernity in surprising ways As the first bibliographical survey to comprehensively cover the entire region Religions of Melanesia is an invaluable research aid for anyone interested in this growing field Trompf s work is a complete listing of scholarly publications and provides readable and concise descriptions that will clearly guide the researcher toward the most relevant sources This survey covers 2188 entries organized topically and regionally Trompf covers such subjects as traditional and modern belief systems and the emergent indigenous Christianity that has taken root Regional coverage includes Irian Jaya Papua New Guinea Solomon Islands Vanuatu New Caledonia and Fiji Saltwater

Sociality Katharina Schneider,2012 The inhabitants of Pororan Island a small group of saltwater people in Papua New Guinea are intensely interested in the movements of persons across the island and across the sea both in their everyday lives as fishing people and on ritual occasions From their observations of human movements they take their cues about the current state of social relations Based on detailed ethnography this study engages current Melanesian anthropological theory and argues that movements are the Pororans predominant mode of objectifying relations Movements on Pororan Island are to its inhabitants what roads are to mainlanders on the nearby larger island and what material objects and images are to others elsewhere in Melanesia Property Rights and Economic Development Toon van Meijl,Franz von

Benda-Beckham,2012-11-12 First Published in 1999 This book provides a critical analysis of the widespread assumption that the formalisation and standardisation of property rights through state legislation has a positive impact on economic development It is based on anthropological case studies of land and natural resource rights in Southeast Asia and Oceania These suggest that the economic impact of the formalisation of property rights is not necessarily positive certainly not for all categories of peoples They also suggest that state reform of property rights do not necessarily eliminate the conditions of legal pluralism but rather add new legal structures to an already complex constellation of property rights and duties The point of departure for the empirical analyses of the central hypothesis examined in this book is that the practical significance of complex forms of property rights and related socio economic practices cannot be usefully examined within formalistic one dimensional and normatively oriented legalistic or economic approaches Instead an anthropological approach to law is advocated in order to analyse the complicated multi dimensional relationships between property rights and economic development and their embeddedness in social practice Based on this approach the contributions to this book show how different people and institutions attribute different meanings to the various components of property relationships and how they use them as resources in their everyday lives and social struggles Experiencing New Worlds Jürg

Wassmann, Katharina Stockhaus, 2007-11-01 The many different localities of the Pacific region have a long history of transformation under both pre and post colonial conditions More recently rates of local transformation have increased tremendously under post colonial regimes The forces of globalization which rapidly distribute commodities images and political and moral concepts across the region have presented Pacific populations with an unprecedented need and opportunity to fashion new and expanded understandings of their cultural and individual identities This volume the first in a new series examines the forces of globalization at different levels as they manifest themselves and operate across cultural cognitive and biographical dimensions of human life in the Pacific While posing familiar questions it offers new answers through the integration of cultural and psychological methods The contributors draw on practice theory cognitive science and the anthropology of space and place while exploring the key analytical rubrics of human agency memory and landscape

American Anthropology in Micronesia Robert Kiste, Mac Marshall, 1999-03-01 This text evaluates how anthropological research in the Trust Territory has affected the Micronesian people the US colonial administration and the discipline of anthropology itself It analyzes the interplay between anthropology and history in particular how American colonialism affected anthropologists use of history and examines the research that has been conducted by American anthropologists in specific topical areas of sociocultural anthropology The text concentrates on disciplinary concerns but also considers the connections between work done in the era of applied anthropology and that completed later when anthropology was pursued mainly for its own sake SLiCA: Arctic living conditions Birger Poppel, 2015-02-24 The SLiCA anthology probes into the theoretical and methodological background of the SLiCA project the research design the ethical principles applied and introduces examples of the wealth of information available on the livelihoods and living conditions of the Inuit Saami and the indigenous peoples of Chukotka and the Kola Peninsula measured with quality of life criteria they themselves chose Furthermore the anthology provides samples of analyses including comparative and contextual studies that can be accomplished using SLiCA data Examples of living conditions and topics analysed are suicidal thoughts impacts of oil development on living conditions and quality of life economic stratification objective and subjective living conditions education gender based differences in productive activities impacts of societal development on men s and women s perceptions of their contributions to their households factors affecting migration identity ethnicity and herding rights ... From Time Immemorial Richard J. Perry, 1996 Around the globe people who have lived in a place from time immemorial have found themselves confronted by and ultimately incorporated within larger state systems During more than three decades of anthropological study of groups ranging from the Apache to the indigenous peoples of Kenya Richard J Perry has sought to understand this incorporation process and more importantly to identify the factors that drive it This broadly synthetic and highly readable book chronicles his findings Perry delves into the relations between state systems and indigenous peoples in Canada the United States Mexico and Australia His explorations show how despite differing historical circumstances encounters between these state systems and native peoples generally followed a similar pattern invasion genocide displacement assimilation and finally some measure of apparent self determination for the indigenous people which may however have its own pitfalls After establishing this common pattern Perry tackles the harder question why does it happen this way Defining the state as a nexus of competing interest groups Perry offers persuasive evidence that competition for resources is the crucial factor in conflicts between indigenous peoples and the powerful constituencies that drive state policies These findings shed new light on a historical phenomenon that is too often studied in isolated instances This book will thus be important reading for everyone seeking to understand the new contours of our postcolonial world Mangrove Man David Lipset,1997-11-13 The first modern ethnography of the Murik a relatively large and important community settled on the Sepik River estuary in Papua New Guinea Articulating Change In The ""Last Unknown"" Frederick K. Errington,2019-03-13 This remarkable book explores questions of identity and value posed by people living on or near the small Pacific island of Karavar in Papua New Guinea The complex social and cultural changes that occurred during the century after Europeans first arrived in the area have led Karavarans to wonder about and to assert who they are and who they might Doing Fieldwork W. Fife,2005-09-16 Making use of his own research experiences in Papua New Guinea Southern Ontario and Newfoundland Wayne Fife teaches students and new researchers how to prepare for research conduct a study analyze the material e g create new social and cultural theory and write academic or policy oriented books articles or reports The reader is taught how to combine historic and contemporary documents e g archives newspapers government reports with fieldwork methods e g participant observation interviews and self reporting to create ethnographic studies of disadvantaged populations Anthropologists Sociologists Folklorists and Educational researchers will equally benefit from this critical approach to research Conservation Is Our Government Now Paige West,2006-05-31 Ethnography and critique of conservationist efforts in Papua New Guinea focusing on the misunderstandings mistranslations and complexities that arise in the discourse between conservation biologists and local people Bibliographie Internationale D'anthropologie Sociale Et Culturelle 1992 British Library of Political and Economic Science,1993 The IBSS is the essential tool for librarians university departments research institutions and any public or private institution whose work requires access to up to date and comprehensive knowledge of the social sciences Small Islands in Peril? Colin Filer,2024-07-11 This book explores the idea that small island communities could be regarded as canaries in the coal mine of sustainable development because of scientific and anecdotal evidence of a common link between rapid population growth degradation of the local resource base and intensification of disputes over the ownership and use of terrestrial and marine resources The authors are all anthropologists with a specific interest in the question of whether the economic and social safety valves that have previously served to break some of the feedback loops between these trends appear to be losing their efficacy While much of the debate about economy society environment relationships on small islands has been overtaken by a narrow focus on the problem of climate change the authors show that there are many other factors at work in the transformation of island lives and livelihoods

Family Rights and Religion John Eekelaar, 2020-09-10 The interaction between individual rights which are often seen in secular terms and religion is becoming an important and complex topic not only for academic study but for practical policy This volume collects a range of writings from journals edited collections and individual books which deal with different aspects of the interaction within the context of family life and which appear with their original pagination These studies have been selected because they throw a sharp light on central elements of the role of religion in determining the structure of the rights of family members in relation to one another both from an historical and contemporary perspective While many of the writings are focused on US and European systems selected writings covering other systems illustrate the universal nature of the topic The studies are accompanied by a reflective commentary from the editor which sets the writings in a broad context of social constitutional and philosophical thought with the aim of stimulating critical thought and discussion

The Captain and "the Cannibal" James Fairhead, 2015-02-24 Sailing the uncharted waters of the Pacific in 1830 Captain Benjamin Morrell of Connecticut became the first outsider to encounter the inhabitants of a small island off New Guinea The contact quickly turned violent fatal cannons were fired and Morrell abducted young Dako a hostage so shocked by the white complexions of his kidnappers that he believed he had been captured by the dead This gripping book unveils for the first time the strange odyssey the two men shared in ensuing years The account is uniquely told as much from the captive's perspective as from the American's Upon returning to New York Morrell exhibited Dako as a cannibal in wildly popular shows performed on Broadway and along the east coast The proceeds helped fund a return voyage to the South Pacific the captain hoping to establish trade with Dako's assistance and Dako seizing his only chance to return home to his unmapped island Supported by rich newly found archives this wide ranging volume traces the voyage to its extraordinary ends and en route decrypts Morrell's ambiguous character the mythic qualities of Dako's life and the two men's infusion into American literature Dako inspired Melville's Queequeg for example The encounters confound indigenous peoples and Americans alike as both puzzle over what it is to be truly human and alive

The Possessed and the Dispossessed Lesley A. Sharp, 1993 Sharp concludes this study with an analysis of how indigenous spirit mediums and Protestant exorcists treat extreme cases of possession and madness revealing contradictions inherent in cross cultural psychiatric praxis More generally the book challenges current views about possession and marginal status particularly in reference to gender and age insightful discussions of the lives of migrant adults and children as they seek relief Some personal and social ills make Sharp's investigation relevant to gender studies medical anthropology religion and ritual and the politics of culture as well as African and Madagascar studies Jacket Guardians of Marovo Lagoon Edvard Hviding, 1996-05-01 This is perhaps the best monograph on how Pacific islanders relate to their marine resources since Robert Johannes's Words of the Lagoon: Fishing and Marine Lore in the Palau District of Melanesia 1981 and it stands as a major contribution to the study of indigenous marine tenure systems that should be required reading for everyone concerned with the issue of allocating marine resources. American Anthropologist Pacific Islands Monograph Series No 14. Published in association with the Center for Pacific Islands Studies, University of Hawai'i.
