

The background of the slide features a close-up photograph of a child's hands, with fingers gently cupping a small, translucent globe. The child's skin is light-toned, and the nails are short and clean. The globe is a pale, milky blue, showing some internal structure or veins. The hands are positioned in the upper right quadrant of the frame. The overall background is a deep red with a subtle, swirling pattern of lighter red and white lines, giving it a textured, almost marbled appearance.
